H. W. CORBETT IS OUT.

The Buncombe Senator Will Not Get the Coveted Seat.

FIGHT FOR SENATORIAL APPOINTEES IS ABANDONED.

No One Wanted Them--Governatorial Appointments Below Par--The Simon Gang Downed.

WASHINGTON, March 17.-(Oregonian's Washington Dispatch)--The determination of the republican managers of the senate not to give time to the consideration of the cases of appointments by governors of states was reached only after it was found that the democrats were determined to resist the seating of the appointees as long as they could talk, and that they would be aided in this by the silver republicans and populists. There is a feeling among many senators who really believed that the governors had a right to appoint in the cases of Montana and Washington four years ago that, it having been settled by a vote of the senate against admission, it will make it a precedent for the future, and make legislatures responsible for the vacancies of a state in the senate except in cases of death or resignation, when the legislatures are not in session and appointments are provided for.

One senator, discussing the Oregon case, said that, if the Oregon appointment was sustained, that hereafter it would be in the power of 11 men in the senate, by refusing to go into organization to prevent forever the election of a senator and make the governor the sole official to choose senators. Some six years ago the senate in Florida refused to vote for senator, and as a body refused to go into joint session with the house. Some of the senators went into joint session with the house, a sufficient number to make a majority of the legislature. They voted for Call, and he held his seat without a dissenting vote.

In looking up the vote on the Mantle case it is found that the following senators, who are still members of the senate, either voted or were paired against seating Mantle:

Berry, Caffery, Callom, Faulkner, Galinger, George, Gray, Harris, Kyle, Lindas, McMillan, Mills, Allen, Morrill, Morgan, Hale, Mitchell of Wisconsin, Murphy, Pasco, Platt, Procter, Smith, Vest and White.

Ten of these were free silver men, and although it would have added three more silver votes to the senate, they would not support the claims of Mantle. Those who favored Mantle and are still members of the senate are:

Bate, Daniel, Davis, Frye, Hansbrough, Hawley, Hoar, Jones of Arkansas, Jones of Nevada, Lodge, Perkins, Shoup, Stewart, Teller, Turpie, Walhall, Wolcott, Allison, Pettigrew, Chandler, Quay, Gorman and Hoach.

Gorman afterward changed his vote, along with Voorhees, on a motion to reconsider, for it was known that, in the few days that elapsed from the time the first vote was taken until the final vote on the motion to reconsider was tabled several silver senators had been induced to change their minds, among them being Peffer. It was thought that enough votes had been secured by means of the silver argument to seat Mantle, but as soon as Gorman was aware of the scheme, he and Voorhees changed. Afterward, when a statement was made in the silver debate that Gorman and Voorhees changed because they did not want a silver man seated, Gorman made a speech uncovering the whole silver deal, and asserting that he and Voorhees changed to keep the record of the senate straight, and not to allow a great constitutional question, settled on its own merits, to be reversed in order to gain advantage for a party or other kind of legislative advantage. He claimed that it was the duty of the senate, when it has once passed upon the rights and qualifications of a senator or claimant, to abide by its decision and not to reopen it because of advantage which some party or faction might gain by so doing. Of the men who voted for Mantle and are still members of the senate, ten are silver men who would no doubt oppose the admission of the men from Oregon and Kentucky, because they are gold men. At least, they are silver republicans and democrats of the silver faith, who would take advantage of the fact that the matter has once been settled in the senate and must not be reopened. To these may be added Gorman, who, as a democrat and a party leader, does not think it is policy to admit the appointed men, and says that let it now be an established precedent that legislatures must elect or senate seats will be vacant, where legislatures have had an opportunity to elect.

Nothing is now left for the governor to do but to call a special session. He is very stubborn, wholly under the guidance of Simon and may refuse to do so. However, a tariff bill will be passed, and though Oregon may be compelled to get along with only one senator for the next two years, owing to the action of a minority who call themselves republicans, yet it is better to have no senator at all than to submit to a dastardly outrage that is no better in principle than those perpetrated by the Q. antrell gang during the late war.

The article from the Oregonian lays the blame for the non-seating of would-be senators at the hands of silver men. This is not true. A majority of the republicans, and the leaders of the party in the senate, do not desire that they shall be seated, and especially does this apply in the case of Corbett. He is the creation of Corbett's money and does not represent the party. Without his money the legislature would have met regularly and a senator would have been chosen.

CORBETT KNOCKED OUT.

Fitzsimmons Wins the Championship From Corbett--Both Men Fight Hard--Weight and Science Against Grit and Tenacity.

Local interest in the Carson fight on Wednesday was up to the highest pitch. Bulletins were received at the Palace hotel giving a full account of the fight by rounds and from the crowd gathered to hear and cheer it would seem that the sporting spirit of Heppner's citizens is certainly well developed. In all it was an interesting fight from start to finish and it can certainly be said that Robert Fitzsimmons defeated James J. Corbett in what was probably the most scientifically contested battle in the pugilistic world, and wrested from him the title of champion of the world.

The fight, which lasted for 14 rounds, was fiercely contested throughout, and is generally conceded to have been won on its merits. During the first few rounds, however, and in point of science throughout the fight, Corbett seemed to have the best of it, but a tremendous blow over the heart from Fitzsimmons' right carried him to the floor unconscious, and he did not rise until after the referee's fateful "One-two three-four-five-six-seven-eight-nine-ten and out" had been counted, proclaiming to the world the advent of a new pugilistic champion in the person of Robert Fitzsimmons.

IONE ITEMS.

Ed Moore has been away visiting relatives.

Ione will have no school in session this spring.

Mrs. J. A. Woolery has returned and is convalescent.

The Christian Endeavor met at the home of Miss Lena Jordan on Wednesday.

Snow fell nearly every day of the week and the weather remained slightly cold.

The Saddle Butte school commences today and the Douglas school the first Monday in April.

Joe Woolery will have a complete stock of lumber again this summer. Building will soon commence, and it seems that Ione will grow considerably during the season.

At the Ione school meeting it was decided to have a six months term of school beginning the first Monday in September, and perhaps two or three months the following spring.

Robt. Glock, who has been sojourning with his brother Ed on an island in the Southern Oregon lakes since last fall, returned the other day. He will return to the East this week and remain for some time.

The annual school meeting at Ione passed off quietly. Joe Woolery was elected director for a term of three years, and Paul Biermann for two years, to fill the vacancy of E. T. Perkins' resignation. Ed Keller was re-elected clerk.

We quote the following from an Eastern paper: "Our people should be alive and more zealous on the school question. A good school, is an excellent sign in any community, and is one of the best advantages any town or district can have. It offers more inducements to good citizens and business to come than any other one thing. With good school advantages come many other good things, such as an advance in the price of property, a general enlivening of business, a mental and moral advance. We have heard it from the mouths of men who would be a desirable addition to any community, that they would have come into town, had their school advantages been what they ought to be. Our term should be longer. A term of six months is an injustice to the rising generation."
