Quality More Important Than Quantity.

With good money and mutual trust a dol-lar did the work of 40, while with questionable money and distrust 20 dollars could accomplish nothing. In other words, the quality of money is immensely more important than its quan And, sir, a set of men who make it part of

And, sir, a set of men who make it part of their plan to malign human nature and then offer us a debased currency would not only deprive us of part of the money that we now have, but they would paralyze the working power of what remained. They are not only morally wrong, but financially unwise. They and their policy are alike condemned. They offer poor money and distrust. We offer abundant money of the best quality and well founded confidence. Is there any doubt as to which the American people will approve?

To employ a figure of speech, we contend that our body politic needs in its circulation both kinds of corpuseles, and that it needs them both all of the time. The best that is promised by the gentlemen on the other side is that their plan will furnish thom alternately; one at a time, first one and then the other—that is, sir, they offer us a sort of chills-and-fever system, which would produce distress in life and would result in early death to business enterprise.

Our plan secures to our circulation all the life and would result in early death to business enterprise.

Our plan secures to our circulation all the elements needed for the health of the body, including both kinds of corpuscies, all of the time and in the proportions demanded by the most vigorous life. And behind this good financial blood, to prevent its stagnation, to propel it in fife giving circulation, even to the extremities of the bedy, we piace the great heart, confidence—confidence in our financial system and in each other, confidence in our system based on approved experience, confidence in each other based on the knowledge that, after all, men would rather do right than wrong.

Debtors would be compelled to pay up at once or give new and better security, with a promise to pay in money of their present standard. On the maturing of their obligation they would certainly have to pay an enormous premium for the kind of money required. They would not escape making payment in money of the present standard and would have to take their chances of getting enough more for their products to enable them to make the payment without actual loss. They certainly would not gain anything and would take all the risk of losing—losing not only the premium which they would surely have to pay, but depending upon the forbearance of the day what is the probability of the creditors. And what is the probability of the creditors and would withdraw their despositors in banks would subtract from our volume of money a very large and exceedingly valuable part of it. Again, there is Mary Dixon, who was nearly 16 years in the army, and fought at Waterloo. She was still living in 1865, when she was described as "a strong, powerful old woman." Above all, there is the remarkable, if not unique case of Dr. Barry, who died at Corfu in July, 1865. This lady, said to have been the legitimate granddaughter of a Scotch earl, is surmised to have adopted male attire and the medical profession from attachment to an army surgeon. Never in her lifetime had anyone the slightest suspicion of her sex. While staff surgeon to the cape garrison, she most successfully treated the governor, Lord Charles Somerset, fought a duel, and was considered to be of a most quarrelsome disposition. The doctor was frequently guilty of flagrant breaches of discipline, and on more than one occadiase in the army part of the county of Morrow, State of Oregon: The tounty of Morrow, State of Oregon: We, the undersy loud of Morrow County, Oregon, respectfully petition your homorable body to grant a license to Charles Robinson to sell spirituous, mait and vinous liquors in less quantities than one agalon, in the town of Ione and your petitioners will ever pray:

Deaf Mutes' Ideas.

The testimony of educated deaf mutes regarding some of their ideas before instruction is very interesting. Some fancied the wind was blown from the mouth of an unseen being. A number supposed that rain and lightning were caused by men in the sky pouring down water and firing guns. One who had seen flour falling in a mill thought that snow was ground from a mill in, the sky. Some of the stars were candles or lamps, lighted every evening by inhabitants of the heavens. Only one said she had "tried to think" about the origin of the world and its inhabitants. All had a great terror of death and be ing put in the grave; one had been haunted by fear that she might awake in the grave unable to call for help. One thought death was caused by medicine administered by the doctor. Deaf mutes have refused to go to bed when ill, from observing that sick persons have taken to their beds before death. Those who were taken to church by their parents said they had little idea. before education of the purpose of this assembly. One testified: "I thought that the people were in the church to worship the clergyman of the greatest dignity and splendor."—N. Y. Times. When William Hunts. When the German emperor goes hunting he arrays himself in such gorgeousness that the game ought to be proud to fall before so magnificent a conqueror. His hunting costume was designed by himself, and he is said to be so much taken with it that he omits no opportunity of wearing it. It consists of a bluish-gray tunic, with a short cloak of the same material, both garments having green facings and broad epaulettes. The emperor has around his waist a broad belt of green leather, from which hangs a huge hunting knife, the handle mounted with the imperial crown of gold. He wears very high lacquered boots, gold spurs and a Tyrolese hat of gray felt, edged with green and adorned with an enormous plume of feathers, which quiver at every step.-Troy Times.
