

Impure Blood

Rheumatism, Kidney Troubles and Sick Headache the Results—Doctored for Years Without Relief.

"My blood was out of order, and I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has purified my blood and relieved me of rheumatism, kidney trouble and sick headaches. I have been afflicted with these difficulties for years. I am now able to do a good day's work. Rheumatism has troubled me since I was a child, but I am now entirely cured." MISS PHEBE BALEY, Box 445, Pasadena, California.

"I have suffered from the effects of impure blood, boils, pimples, etc., for five years. I have tried various remedies without relief and finally purchased six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. The boils and pimples have all disappeared since I began taking this medicine. I am now entirely cured." LOUIS THOMAS, 1412 11th Street, Oakland, California.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.50 for $5. Get Hood's.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, reliable, beneficial. 25c.

Residents of Heppner were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. C. W. Drew, of this place, at 10 o'clock this morning. The cause of her death was heart disease. The funeral will occur Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the home. Memorial services will be held in the afternoon instead of morning. The obituary will appear in next issue.

Last Tuesday G. T. Ireland and "Muth" Natter mixed up in the brewery, just across the street from the Gazette office, the former getting considerably the worst of it, being pretty thoroughly "under the influence" at the time which was the cause of the trouble. Judge Walt Richardson assessed Mr. Ireland "the regulation" which is now $7.50, a reduction of $2.50 since the editor's last experience in the police court.

"Muth" was not fined, as the authorities decided that he was only protecting his father's place of business and was not responsible for the trouble.

AN EXCELLENT PAPER.

The "History of the Ninth Grade" of our High School, by the Class Historian, Orville Jones.

On last Friday, the closing day of the "Ninth Grade's" work for 1897, a class picnic was given up in the Jones grove, near Sodaville, participated in by the teacher, Miss Anna J. Balsiger, and pupils. On this occasion the Gazette's worthy young friend, Orville Jones, read a very creditable paper on the history of the class.

It appears under the caption, "History of the Ninth Grade," and is as follows:

The first authentic date in the history of the class as an organized body was the birthday of the father of our country, the 23rd day of February, 1897. In the forenoon of that day it was organized into a class by our esteemed teacher, Miss Anna J. Balsiger, assistant principal of the Heppner High School.

The board of officers consisted of the following: President, Mr. Elbert Stanton; vice-president, Miss Jennie Bartholomew; secretary, Miss Lula Hager; treasurer, Mr. Burton Peck. Also a committee on arrangement consisting of Mr. Wayne Howard, Misses Emma Farnsworth, Elsie Ayers and Jennie Kirk was appointed. A few weeks later the president being called off the field of action for the season, we were compelled to elect a new one. Mr. Lawrence Palmer was elected and at once took his seat. The class also elected our humble servant to the position of Historian of the class.

The class chose pink and cream as its colors, and the wild rose as its class flower. The very appropriate motto, "Press forward; he conquers who will," was adopted by the class.

At the organization of our army we were thirty-six in number with Miss Balsiger as our general. We bravely bared ourselves against Education's battle-front. The opposing force was general by Gen's Arithmetic, Grammar, History, Physiology and Orthography, and also by Colonels Rhetorical Exercise, Current Events and Morals and Manners. The battle was hot and fierce from beginning to end.

Victory seemed to rest first on one side and then on the other, but a close observer of our struggles could see that we were gaining ground at every engagement with the enemy.

Thus we fought for six months with our general, Miss Balsiger, at the front cheering us on by her cheerfulness, bravery and fortitude. At this time we had a desperate engagement with the enemy under Gen. Physiology, and after ten assaults we came off victorious, killing the general and routing his army while no one on our side was injured but enough to cause them to fall to the rear.

Feeling that we did not wish to give up the struggle with only one general slain, our valiant general again taking command led us on a two months' campaign, our army at this time consisting of thirty-two members, the others being compelled to leave as their leave of absence had expired. Shortly after the two months' campaign had commenced our president and captain, Mr. Lawrence Palmer, being called away from the field of action, we elected Miss Emma Farnsworth in his stead.

I might as well state here that our class is running on the latest principles, that is, the young ladies' right of suffrage and of holding office.

Mr. Burton Peck, our treasurer retiring, we elected Miss Gertrude Bishop to that position. We also elected at this time Miss Balsiger as sergeant-at-arms.

During the first month and the fore part of the last month a few dropped out, so that the last engagements with Gen's. History, Grammar, Arithmetic and Orthography were fought with a little handful of twenty-seven perseverant fighters. We came off bearing the crown of victory in each engagement, thus proving the truth of our grand and noble motto, "Press forward; he conquers who will."

Commander-in-chief Education granting an armistice of three months we ceased war on the 20th of May.

A grand ball will be given at the opera house June 1st, by Wattenberger & Ingraham. Excellent music. 1t

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

Sport Still on Deck with a Few Assorted "Idees"—The Races.

It is a well known fact that Heppner has a cow ordinance. Last year it was enforced to the extent that cows were kept up from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m., but allowed to run at large in the daytime. Cows cannot do much damage during the day, but at night the ravenous beasts will eat anything from a front yard to a mowing-machine.

The town marshal was asked a few days ago about the cow business, and the interrogator was informed that the livery stables would not allow their yards to be used as "pounds," and that the town would not construct a city pen for stray cows.

The town should at least have cows kept up at night, and to this end should erect a corral on the city property. This cow ordinance should be enforced in a practical manner.

It may be a nice thing to have a cow that can furnish rich milk for the family. We commend the plan. It is nice to have the larder full of delicacies even if the sustenance gained therefrom can be traced back to a telegraph pole, a front gate, a garden or a shade tree. Talk about trained pigs! Why, Heppner has cows that can climb a telephone pole, pick a Yale lock or hear the weary man of the house turn over in his sleep. These things are all very nice for the owner of cows, but its rough on the other fellow.

People who own cows ought to keep them in the pasture during the daytime and in a stable at night. It is worse than cruel to turn cows out on the commons where there is short feed and allow the emaciated flocks to prey up on the neighbors. We know that some mighty good people do it—but it's wrong in principle as it is in law.

The great Oregon sprinter, I Don't Know, owned by Frank Reed, of North Yakima, Wash., will be at the Anacoda and Butte meetings, says the Rural Spirit. He was one of the fastest horses in the West up to three-quarters of a mile, but as he has not raced for two years, having been ruled off the Bay District track with his former owner, it is of course a question of conjecture whether he will be up to his old form this year. He has recently been reinstated through the kindness of President Thomas Williams of the California Jockey Club, and should be all right he will make all the sprinters "tin-can."

The "scrap" at the opera house next Monday night will be interesting. It will be a scientific bout between men who have had experience in the ring. Nothing immoral or indecent will be permitted and ladies can attend with propriety.

Low Tillard struck Jas. Frisno a pretty hard jolt the other day and Sport understands that it was worth $5, according to Judge Richardson's estimate.

Sinner won the quarter dash today over Sawback. Guess Ben and Sport had better pool issues and make a trade with Sam Kineman.
