NATIONAL TYPE.

Probably, says Blackwood's Magazine, there is no link between an ochreous complexion and a hasty temper in more men than in a racial one.
The two qualities were coincidentally developed by independent agencies. We know little of the nature and working of the forces which go to create a national type. That they are to some extent climatic and geographical is plain.
For in New Zealand, Queensland and North America we find the process in visible operation.
Probably in the days of purely tribal savagery its peculiar attributes of the founder of a clan migrating away from his fellows would give the key, which external nature would develop and elaborate into a national characteristic.
Such a pioneer, whether emigrant or outcast, would in most cases be a man of uncompromising temper and exceptional originality of mind; and, as is well known, these generally go with a physical peculiarity as strongly marked. Moreover, all barbarians are extremely intolerant of any bodily de-formity or strangeness of aspect, and often a man, or a family, chancing to be offensively conspicuous in any such way, would be expelled from society.
In Central America a hairy man was deemed an impossible outsider by the aborigines, while among the blacks of western and southern Africa an albino is always an outcast. These facts show how a new race might be developed from a "report" which otherwise would be redissolved in the prevailing national traits.

A VERY OLD TUB.

Roman Bucket That Dates Back Sixteen Hundred Years.
My thoughts, when I was at the ruins of Silchester recently, were that hundreds of antiquarians all over the country would have given gold to anyone who should have told them of the great "find" that was there and then to be safely brought to hand, says a letter in London Truth. A friend and myself strode across Alderney to view the ruins and as many of the "finds" as were still to be seen. Mr. Davis, F. S. A., at present superintending the operations, explained to us how, when digging out an old well, he made the lucky discovery of a tunnel which conducted him to an ancient gale, the existence of which had not been before suspected.
A windlass had been fitted up over a well 15 feet deep, and men were digging out pitfalls of earth which were being diligently hauled up. For two weeks the work at this point had been going on, and within the last week it had been discovered that this was an old Roman tub-well. The wood seemed somewhat rotten, as might be expected after 1,600 years, so that the raising of the tub caused the greatest anxiety. The tub had been ingeniously fitted by Mr.
Davis with two wooden shelves running all round it—one at the top and the other at the bottom, both of which served to protect it from any strain during the preparation for hoisting it, and also relieved the tub of its own weight during the process of hoisting. After one unsuccessful attempt to bring it up, during which a small portion of it was knocked off, it was triumphantly raised to light in a comparatively perfect state of preservation. We expect that the tub will shortly be on view at the Reading museum, where there is already a beautiful collection of Silchester relics.

RED TURTLES.

They Live and Breed in a Spring Whose Temperature is 226 Degrees.
That portion of southern or lower California called Hell's Half-Acre appears to be situated directly over a substratum of fire, which causes the mud and water to boil as if in a caldron, says the St. Louis Republic. At one place on the Half-Acre there are over 100 boiling springs and hot mud geysers on a plot of ground that is not greater in extent than a common city square.
The chief spring in this queer aggregation of boiling and spouting jets of mud and water is called the fountain of the Boiled Turtles on account of its curious habit of occasionally ejecting numbers of small red turtles. The temperature of this spring is 226 degrees, 14 degrees higher than the temperature required to boil water under ordinary atmospheric pressure.
Notwithstanding the fact that the temperature is sufficient to boil meat perfectly within a few minutes, the small red turtles spoken of live and breed there just as the ordinary variety does in waters of common lakes, rivers and other streams. The spring is called the fountain of Boiled Turtles because the fountain is perfectly covered by being cooked perfectly done.

SURE CURE FOR SHIPWRECK.

What a Sunday School Pupil Would Do to Calm the Ocean.
A certain young woman on the North side teaches a class in a mission Sunday school. She had a difficult task, says the Chicago Times-Herald, imparting scraps of religious instruction to her young charges, and often amusing answers are unconsciously returned to questions which she asks. On one occasion she asked her pupils:
"What do the high priests do?"
And received the reply:
"They burned insects before the people," by which the youngster, of course, meant incense.
But one of the funniest experiences, which well shows the queer ideas which the children receive in their lessons, was given when, after a discussion of shipwreck which followed a lesson three or four weeks previously on the well-known story of Jonah and the whale, she happened to ask:
"Suppose a big storm arose at sea and it looked as though you were going to be drowned, what would you do?" "I would throw a man overboard for a whale to swallow," was the reply.

AN INDIAN'S TICKET-OF-LEAVE.

"When Young Chief, a prominent member of the Utamatilla tribe, in Oregon, goes away for his annual vacation, he is granted the freedom of the state by the following notice to whom it may concern: "Young Chief has permission to visit Wallawalla and surrounding country, with various other Indians, to be away 60 days. He is a good, law-abiding man, and very friendly to white men. If any of his crowd are boisterous or violate any law, if reported to me, I will have the matter rectified. Any favor shown him will be appreciated. He respects the whites and asks that they respect him."

LOCAL SQUIBS.

Si Bennett has gone to Canyon City. J. W. Coleman was in town Saturday last.

Tossed on the Foaming Billows.
You may never have been, but if you cross the Atlantic, no matter how smooth the watery expanse, without sea sickness you are—well, a lucky voyager, that is all. Old tars who have spent their lives on the ocean waves, who were almost born, so to speak, with their "sea legs on," suffer now and then from sea sickness in very tempestuous weather. Sea captains, tourists, commercial travelers and yachtsmen say that their is no finer safeguard against nausea than Hoestler's Stomach Bitters, and it has been equally reliable as a preventive by railroad who travel by steamboat and inland, and who sometimes suffer as much to the conveyances as ocean travelers do in steamships. Biliousness, constipation, sick headache and disorders of the stomach caused by oppressive climatic influences or unwholesome or unaccustomed food or water, always yield to the Bitters speedily. This popular medicine also remedies, rheumatism, kidney and nervous disorders, and the infirmities incident to increasing years.

The Ladies' Band and Christian church had numerous festivals last week that were well attended. The M. E. church, South, had their ice cream festival on last Saturday, also.

Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1 per bottle at Conser

DIET AS A MORAL AGENT.

Experiment introduced in a New York Reformatory.
A queer food experiment is being tried in the Elmira reformatory, in New York state, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. All civilized nations hold out some inducement to the criminal in confinement to sooner secure his release from legal restraint. A certain amount of time is always taken off for good behavior. The criminal has often been exhorted to this end by father, mother, brother, sister and by others who had his interest at heart. His manhood, his future, his ambition and his hope of "quick release" from confinement have been appealed to, and in many cases in vain. Now it is to the man's stomach that the appeal is to be made.
The proposed experiment contemplates a somewhat enlarged scale of dietary privileges, increasing from grade to grade, from lowest to highest, so that within due and proper limits of indulgence of the appetite by prisoners in a prison reformatory for crime they can out of their own accumulations have the privilege to select meat by meal at their pleasure, provided always that they keep their expenditures within the limits of indulgence allowed by the government of the reformatory. The prisoners, under the wage-earning system of the reformatory, as it is at present, must earn their living and keep a credit balance to their account, respectively, in order to progress toward their release by parole. A prisoner, to maintain a credit balance, must needs restrain, regulate and exert himself in a manner which accustoms him to show his improvement; but hitherto the diet has been inflexible. It is believed that if more latitude is allowed and the prisoner has a chance of tickling his palate occasionally with mince pie, a juicy roast or other homelike dainties, he will be more likely to make an extra effort to reform. In other words, if he has an inviting menu to choose from for breakfast, dinner and supper, he will get up and hustle and be a man.

COLLECTING FADS.

The Horrible Custom of Getting Belles of Murderers.
A foreign paper is responsible for the statement that the late Lord Randolph Churchill had a choice private collection of teeth of noted criminals to which he was constantly adding up to a short time before his death, says Temple Bar. The collection for the December of the Antipodes is too recent and too revolting to be enlarged upon, but it may be mentioned that the ax and knife with which this unmitigated villain murdered his victim fetched £4 15s, and the spade with which he dug her grave brought a guinea. His clothing was eagerly competed for, even down to half a dozen pairs of patched socks. Indeed, the collectors of "criminal" trifles are extremely numerous all over the world, and these mementoes range from Tyburn halters to pipes which murderers have smoked and pots which famous thieves have tossed in honor of past and future triumphs.
It has remained for a Nebraska collector to gather locks of hair shaved from the heads of noted criminals when they enter the penitentiary and these he labels and indexes with great care.
Superstition sometimes accounts for the fancy prices offered for such ghastly relics. Frenchmen obtain them as charms against ill-luck. A piece of a hangman's rope is considered a potent spell against evil in some parts of France. As criminals are there guillotined such ropes are difficult to get and so fetch high prices. They are sometimes mounted in gold and worn in loockets.

A ROYAL DAIRY.

How the Milk, Butter and Cheese of a Princess Are House-d.
The dairy of the princess of Wales is, according to the Gentlewoman, a haunt to dream of on a warm summer's day.
Like her sister, the empress of Austria, the princess positively revels in a dairy.
And the prince once, during her absence from home, wishing to prepare a little surprise for her, had the walls decorated with tiles which he had brought home with him from Cologne; tiles of dark blue, ornamented with designs of roses, shamrock and thistle, and the motto, "Ich dien." A long milkpan painted with the same design by Princess Louise of Lorne is here in a corner and in another corner you see the head of the princess' favorite Alderney, with an inscribed silver plate telling of her virtue and renown.

As for the treasures which lie scattered about on shelf and bracket, they are too many to count. A silver churr, often used by the prince from himself; models of cows and calves in iron, al-nabster, porcelain and terra cotta—all gifts to the princess—and other knickknacks too numerous to mention.
When the prince and princess are at Marlborough house a number of tiny pats of butter are sent up daily from Sandringham for their use. The prince is "faddy" about his butter, and likes it to be just perfection.

FASHIONS IN DOGS' NAMES.

"Sport," "Spot" and "Rover" No Longer Employed.
Fashions in dog names are undergoing a radical change. The formerly familiar Spot and Rover are as completely a thing of the past as a summer's straw hat or last year's comic opera. Every dog has its day, and theirs is over. Their departed spirits roam the happy hunting grounds and their earthly quarters are filled with a race of sturdier canines responding to sturdier names, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

Rob Roy McGregor is the romantic tale of a handsome Scotch soldier, the pet of a dozen children of the North side. Peter Kelley, a fox terrier, rooms the streets of the same locality, and Rum Punch and Gin Cocktail are two slyes frequenting the Lake Shore drive, whose intoxicating names explain their hatred of water.
Irish appellations are in the ascendancy. Patrick Jansfield is a Chicago fox terrier, whose feminine owner enjoyed the story of the Celtic hero's exploits as caroled by Plunkett Greene. "Yim Yoolan" from the lips of an army girl calls an ugly Yorkshire terrier to be duly admired by diplomatists, callers, Paddy familiarly and Paderowski on state occasions is the name of a hairy specimen of appropriate amber hue who makes life a burden to passing cyclists on Grand boulevard.
Billy Sykes is the baptismal prerogative of a South side brindle bull, while his brother in Lake View sedately answers to Lord Chumley. Chimmie Fadden is the ugliest bull in Chicago.

Wool Growers!

With McKinley in the White House, we predict higher prices for wool during the coming season, and feel assured that Heppner will attract more Eastern buyers than formerly. Their headquarters will be at the Wool Growers' Warehouse and it will be to your interests to store your wool with us. Insurance rates are also much cheaper than last year.
We furnish wool sacks and twine to patrons payable when wool is sold. We pay freight to teamsters, and furnish bank receipts to woolgrowers on application.
We have on hand rolled barley and feed for teamsters.
We pay the highest cash price for sheep pelts and hides.
We are agents for Little's Fluid Dip, and the famous Black Leaf Tobacco Dip.
Mark your wool sacks with the registered trademark of the lower Warehouse, Heppner, Oregon.
