HUMOR ON THE BENCH. Characteristic Anecdote of Lord Bowen, the English Juriet.

The late Lord Bowen, besides being a great judge, was also a great wit, and many interesting bon mots of his are being recalled just now. On the occasion of the queen's jubilee, says House hold Words, the judges were drawing up an address to the queen.

"Conscious as we are of our short comings," ran the address; "conscious as we are of one another's shortcomings," suggested Lord Bowen. Not long ago he was asked to sit in the admiralty court. Upon taking his seat experience in admiralty business. 'And may there be no mounings of the bar," he added, "when I put out to sea." Sometimes his wit was very decisive, as, for instance, when he remarked: Truth will out-even in an affidavit." Not the least happy of his recorded witticisms was the remark he made when congratulated on his appointment to be a law lord. He would, he said, find the work easy, his duty being to give his opinion after so many others had given theirs.
