

Impure Blood

Rheumatism, Kidney Troubles and Sick Headache the Results—Doctored for Years Without Relief.

"My blood was out of order, and I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has purified my blood and relieved me of rheumatism, kidney trouble and sick headaches. I have been afflicted with these difficulties for years. I am now able to do a good day's work. Rheumatism has troubled me since I was a child, but I am now entirely well." MISS PERDUE BARTLEY, Box 445, Pasadena, California.

"I have suffered from the effects of impure blood, boils, pimples, etc., for five years. I have tried various remedies without relief and finally purchased six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. The boils and pimples have all disappeared since I began taking this medicine. I am now entirely cured." LOUIS THOMAS, 1412 11th Street, Oakland, California.

Bearing is a bad habit—outside a printing office, where it is useful when the paper is belted time. It also comes in handy in reading proofs and is indispensable when the ink works badly, and the press begins to buck. It has also been known to be efficacious in dealing with some copy and is quite convenient when the foreman is mad. But outside of a printing office it is a bad habit.

A NEW INCORPORATION.

A Number of Prominent Heppnerites Invest in Alaska Mining Property, and Incorporate Under the Laws of Oregon.

A number of leading business men of Heppner have filed articles of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state and formed the Alaska Sumdum Queen Gold Mining company. The purpose and object of the company is to acquire, own and operate mines and mining property within the district of Alaska. The principal office of the corporation will be located at Heppner, with a branch office at Juneau, Alaska. The company is capitalized at $100,000, divided into 20,000 shares of the par value of $5 each. The management is vested in five directors, who shall serve for the term of one year, when their successors are elected. The board consists of the following five stockholders for the first year: Louis Blumenthal and Mark J. Cohn, Juneau, Alaska; E. R. Swinburne, E. J. Slooum and G. Matthews, Heppner, the last three named being the incorporators of record.

DISEASES AMONG SHEEP.

A Letter from the Department of Agriculture.

From the East Oregonian.

In accordance with the law for the suppression of contagious diseases among domestic animals, Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department has issued to the managers and agents of railroads and transportation companies, stockmen and others a circular notifying them that contagious diseases known as "sheep scab," or scabies of sheep, exists among the sheep of the United States, and that it is a violation of the law to receive for transportation or transport any stock affected with that disease, from one state or territory to another. It is also a violation of the law to deliver for transportation to any railroad or master or owner of any boat or vessel any sheep, knowing them to be affected with the contagion referred to, and it is also unlawful to drive on foot or transport in any private conveyance from one state or territory to another any sheep so affected. Transportation companies and individuals engaged in the business of shipping and transporting sheep are requested to co-operate with the department in the enforcement of the laws for preventing the spread of the disease and orders are given that the cars, boats or vehicles which have been used in the transportation of the animals shall be immediately cleaned and disinfected.

A MYSTERY UNEARTHED.

The Remains of a Man Found Buried on the School Grounds.

The Dalles Times-Mountaineer.

Yesterday while excavating for the basement of the new school house on Academy Park grounds, George Miller discovered the skeleton of a man buried about 18 inches under the surface. The bones were doubled up, apparently having been thrown into a small hole and covered with a foot and a half of earth. The clothing and flesh had all decayed, but the bones were in an excellent state of preservation, and the entire skeleton was found with the exception of the left leg. The skeleton was turned over to Dr. Hollister, who will have them wired together.

The grounds where the skeleton was found was never used for burial purposes, therefore it is presumed the man who was buried there was the victim of some tragedy that occurred there in early days when human life was not protected as it is now. Possibly a stranger was murdered, and the crime was covered up by depositing the body in a place which in the early history of The Dalles was a secluded precinct. Certainly the remains had been buried hastily, for had they been put away under ordinary circumstances the body would not have been doubled up, but would have been laid out straight. It is one of those mysteries that will never be solved, for murderers seldom come back and claim their victims or parade their crime.

An Appeal to the Citizens of Heppner.

The Boys' and Girls' Aid society of Oregon is what is known as a charitable organization, incorporated under the laws of Oregon for the purpose of rescuing homeless, neglected and abused children and provide for such until suitable homes or employment is found for them and continues a systematic attention to their condition and treatment.

This institution has received and found homes for during the past year 268 children and their average in placing children in homes for the last four years, has been at the rate of 22 per month or 264 per annum making a total of 1056 children. The management informs us that the strictest economy is exercised in running their institution and that the total amount of their maintenance for the last year was but $4,371.63; this includes the salaries and traveling expenses of their officers. They have erected a magnificent home for the children in East Portland, on a piece of land given them by Mrs. Rachel Hawthorne and adjacent to the home is about 10 acres of land belonging to the same lady who has kindly given them the permission to cultivate same, however, this latter offer having been granted too late, they have only been able to put in about four acres of potatoes this year which was done by the boys. The home is merely used as a depot or clearing house for the children who are rescued from brutal and inhuman parents or picked up homeless and destitute. They have on hand from 25 to 40 continually and the management is looking for desirable homes for them. Heppner has contributed her share of abused children to this society and they have been placed in good homes. The last family received from Morrow county was the Poppengas. They are now placed out in very good homes. It will be remembered that they were heartlessly turned over to the county by their mother.

It is with regret that the management informs us that if they do not receive assistance from generous persons, that they will undoubtedly have to close their doors, as the legislature failed to appropriate anything for their maintenance as heretofore. The counties have been appealed to, but as yet only about one-half of them responded, which is to be regretted, as if they all did their share there would be no difficulty in keeping this noble institution, for the care of homeless, neglected and abused children, running in good shape; but as it is, the management begs the editor of this paper through its columns, to make this appeal to the public to assist them in whatever manner they feel disposed, it is quite probable in a short time, that Superintendent Gardner will make a canvass of the town, but all contributions will be thankfully received. It was the intention, after the erection of the home, for the society to raise its own garden stuff and keep its own cows, a barn was therefore built for the latter purpose but as funds have been so short, it has been impossible to purchase any stock. Donations of produce of any kind will be thankfully received and freight paid thereon, and if those shipping will kindly address the Supt., box 677 Portland, Oregon, the matter shall receive prompt attention.

The society has on hand at the present writing, 25 children, 15 of whom are boys and 10 girls. Of the boys there is one desirable aged 4, three aged 6, five aged 7; three aged 8, two aged 14 and a colored boy aged 16. Of the girls there is one desirable aged 3 years, with fair complexion, blue eyes and curly hair. One aged 5 with light complexion and several ranging in age from 8 to 10, two aged 11 and one 13. The foregoing children under the age of 8 years will be placed out in desirable homes for legal adoption and those above that age, on indenture, that is to say, to be brought up as one's own until they become of age. In addition to the foregoing, this society has the custody of a nine-month old baby girl with light complexion and blue eyes, also for adoption.

A PREHISTORIC HORSE.

Fossil Remains That Are Found in the Rockies.

Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, of the American Museum of Natural History, in the Century describes the remarkable fossil remains that are found near Bridger Lake, in the Rockies. He says:

If we leave the lake shore, and pass into the drier upland, we discover the clever little four-toed horse, swift, alert, intelligent. He is, to use the modern measure, only four hands, or 16 inches high, so he would not reach the knee of the Uintather, and could be devoured at one sitting by the Patriofelis. His limbs are as slender as pencils. His large eyes are much further forward than in the horse. He could readily hide among the taller stalks, and it is possible that he had the beginning of protective stripes imitating reed shadows upon his neck and mane. In his hair and coloring, however, we pass into pure conjecture. His well-worn chisel-shaped front teeth indicate that he was already a cropper or browser, and the evident secret of his triumphant persistence over his ponderous contemporaries is that he learned to browse just about the time that grasses began to appear. He was the animal of the times.

THE OLDEST SPORT.

Hunting and Fishing Were Means of Livelihood to Primitive Man.

Somebody has asked which is the oldest sport and started a discussion that has already put the antiquity of games beyond the middle ages. Hunting and fighting were primitive man's chief occupations, says the New York Journal.

These, as civilization developed, were gradually converted from being means of livelihood into pastimes. But it is impossible to tell exactly when the change took place, for it is not even yet complete, and what is sport to the squire and amateur is necessary work to the gamekeeper and professional soldier.

Nimrod, Noah's great-grandson, was a "mighty hunter before the Lord," and as he was a "mighty one in the earth" he probably hunted for pleasure. This is the oldest record of a sport.

The stag and his kind, which make the greatest demand on the skill and endurance of the hunter, would probably be the first animal pursued for pleasure. To hunt the lion was kingly sport from the earliest times.

The Egyptian monuments show that all kinds of hunting, as well as fowling, were followed for pleasure. The Olympic games were probably the oldest athletic sports and their origin is lost in antiquity. They are said to celebrate Juno's defeat of the Titans.

ASHAMED OF HIS BLUNDER.

Zeal of a Hound Led Him Into a Mortal-Frying Mistake.

Up among the green hills of Vermont two country ball hines were contending for supremacy one hot afternoon in an old pasture. Among the assembled spectators was a sad-faced, lop-eared "hound dog" which had previously been investigating the contents of a woodchuck hole. He had worked his passage in, says Forest and Stream, until no dog was visible, but a steady stream of dirt shooting out like the blast from the blowpipe of a sawmill proclaimed that the investigation was still on. Becoming tired of this, the hound was sitting down watching the home team getting "done up," when suddenly, without warning, he shot across the field with a trajectory as flat as a 32-40 and with nearly the same velocity. The cause was soon apparent.

Several little girls were coming up through a hollow and one was just tall enough for her knees but to show through the fringe of grass on the rising ground in front. When the hound came near enough for the supposed woodchuck to merge into a hat with a look of horrified surprise. A yell arose from the assembled farmers who had seen the incident, and this so mortified the hound that he made straight for home and was invisible for several days.
