EFFECT OF MUZZLES. Their Enforced Use Has Changed the

Breed of London Dogs. The muzzling order has now been so long in operation that one is able to see its practical results, at all events so far as London is concerned, says the London News. They are really very remark-likely to be immediately taken. The supremacy of the fox terrior is gone. One misses the little, vivid white spots that moved about so quickly and made streets and thoroughfares gay, and, it must be admitted, noisy. Most the lethal chambers. London is rid of them, but at all our towns the white ferrier with the odd markings is still in the ascendant.

On the other hand, here in town we don will be overrun. As it is, the hardy little Aberdeen, with his long body. short legs and nondescript markings of black and gray and mustard, holds the street, and the Irish terrier loafs about, social and easy-going. They are both excellent in their own way, but, for all that, one misses the sharp, quick vitality of the fox terrier. Even as a mongrel he seemed to concentrate in his active little body all doggy qualities, especially fidelity and hatred

INGENIOUS BIRD.

Queer Performance of Feathered Resident The honey bird, of which we saw sev eral during our travels in Somali Land, is well worthy of mention as a natural euriosity, says a writer in the Nineteenth Century. It is a little gray common-looking bird about the size of a thrush. It first forces itself upon the notice of the traveler by flying across his path uttering a shrill, unlovely cry. It will then sit on a neighboring tree, still calling and waiting for him to follow. By short, rapid flights the bird will lead its guest on and on, price of the subscription. till after awhile the traveler notices that the bird has stopped its onward course and is hanging about among a can be cured by Dewitt's Witch Haze certain half-dozen trees. The probability is that there will be honey in it. I have never known the bird mistaken. It is a matter of honor with the natives to set aside a good portion of honey for the sre associated together in the barber bird. Although this action of the business in the new stand, two doors natural history, it is none the less unaccountable, and it would be interesting to know whether he ever tries to entice quadrupeds also to assist him in obtaining his much-loved honey.

KISS FOR EVERYONE.

An Annual Roumanian Fair Where Osculation Reigns.

Helmagen, a Roumanian country town of 1,200 inhabitants, holds its annual fair on the feast of St. Theodore. On this occasion the place swarms with newly married brides from 60 or 80 villages in the district; widows who have taken fresh husbands remain at home. The young women, in festive attire, and generally attended by their mothers-in-law, carry jugs of wine enwreathed with flowers in their hands. They kiss every one they meet, and afterward present the jug to his lips for a "nip." The individual thus regaled bestows a small gift on the fair Cybele. Not to partake of the proffered wine is regarded as an insult to the young wife and her family,

She is therefore reserved toward strangers, and only kisses those whom she thinks likely to teste of her wine The kissing is carried on everywherein the streets, in the taverns and in pri

The origin of this custom is veiled in obscurity. Some say that it dates back to the time when the Turks made carried away all the young women they could lay their hands on. Such of them as contrived to escape from captivity happening to return to Helmagen a the time of the fair, kissed their friends and relatives, and even strangers who congratulated them on their wonder-

The Oregon Scout of the 24th instant

Mr. Darling, father of Mas. C. S. Miller of this city, arrived here a few days county. He had been suffering intensely for about six weeks with an affection of his ear, which baffled the skill of physicians there and at La Grande. Upon bis arrival here Dr. Phy was called, and it did not take him but a few minutes, with the aid of his mirror and instruments to ascertain that a wood tick had securely fastened itself on the drum of the suffering man's ear. The tick was removed and appeared to be as lively as a cricket. Its career is ended, however, and it is now on exhibition in a vial of alcohol in the doctor's office. The operation of removing it was a delicate one and reflects credit of the skillful young
