LONDON DOGS OUT CALLING. Their Cards Go Up with Those of Their

It appears, from an article in the Figaro by M. Paul Megnin, that in London at the present time it is not only the fashion for a lady to provide her lapdog with a little wardrobe and even a handkerchief, but to have visiting cards made for it, too. When a fashionable lady pays a visit, taking her lapdog with her, she sends up the dog's card along with her own. M. Megnin says he was visiting the ditor of one of the leading sporting papers in London, when the servant brought in two cards, one that of a lady and the other as follows:

> MRS. FRIVOLITY. Collie.

Asked if he knew the name on the card, M. Megnin said he presumed it was some dog fancier. He was greatly surprised to see a lady come in, accompanied by a handsome collie.

M. Megnin went to a stationer's shop and ordered 100 cards for his little dog. He was again surprised to find that the stationer had some ready printed, neatly packed in pretty little card cases.

BEN FRANKLIN'S BIG HEAD. How He Wore His Wig in His Pocket at the French Court.

The difficulties encountered recently by the lineal descendants of that great man, statesman, patriot and everything else that men properly hold in estimation - Benjamin Franklin - in having themselves enrolled among the Colonial Dames, recall an anecdote of him, says the Washington Post, embalmed in ticello, but which, so far as the writer knows, has never been published. When about to present himself for the first time at the court of Versailles he was informed by the master of ceremonies wig would begin to fit it, and the situation was embarrassing in the extreme. However, one was found sufficiently large to pass him through the antehambers, after which he was permited to remove the ridiculous conventional appendage and place it in his ample pocket, whence it never again emerged to public gaze.

Cox and His Brownles. Palmer Cox says the idea of writing about the brownies came to him from reading Scotch traditions concerning these amusing little elves. They were, he says, almost unknown in America until he began writing about them, but in Scotland they had existed in the folk lore for 500 years. The Scotch brownie, according to Mr. Cox, was a beneficient sort of sprite, whose only three emotions were joy, wonder and terror. It was supposed they were never seen by human beings, but went

As I was finding my way along by the dim light of a Chinese lantern, I nearly stumbled over the body of a man who had fallen by the way. My first impulse was to take cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure, hold of the person and ascertain if help was needed; but for some reason

"Yes, I know; the man is dead, and it is fortunate that you did not attempt to touch the body. Should we now by their firm. suspicion would attach itself to us, and Wholessie Druggists, Toledo, O. none could tell the consequences. We might cause a riot before morning."

It should be said that this suspicion would not have been because we were oreigners, for a native under simllar circumstances would likewise have run the risk of being charged with the murder. The Good Samaritan would have fared hardly in Chinaor most likely would have been suspected of doing the kind deed for some ultimate gain-while the priest and the Levite would have been accounted not hard-hearted, but prudent.

AFRICAN CLIMATE.

On the Central Plateau It Is Cool and Not

As for the climate, it is no worse than that found elsewhere in tropic lands. The heat is not so great as in India or as it is sometimes in New York in summer. Fortunately, writes Henry M. Stanley in Century, the coast belt on both sides of Africa, where the heat can be cared by Dewitt's Witch Hazel is greatest, and where the climate is Salve, but ecsems, scalde, burns, bruiswould enable us to cross it, and so avoid the debilitating temperature. Ascending the sides of the coast range by the same means of conveyance, we should in two hours reach a rolling plain which gradually rises in height from 2 500 to 3,500 feet above the sea. Here the climate is sensibly cooler, and the white man can safely work six hours of the day in the open without fear of sunstroke, though he must not count on lumunity from fever. In from tento twelve hours the traveler by train would meet another steep rise, and would find himself from 5,000 to 8,000 feet above the sea, on the broad central plateau of the continent, which from 600 to 1,000 miles across. It is in this section that the great lakes, mountains and tallest hills are found. Here we have cold nights and n hot sun when the skies are not clouded, though the air in the shade is frequently cool enough for an overcoat; and it is on this immense upland that the white man, when compelled by circumstances, may find a home.

Compromised for a Small Fee. A marriage took place in the office of justice of the peace in Columbus, O., a few days ago, and, while a most impressive ceremony to the contracting parties, it had a very humorous side to the spectators. The couple were evidently from the rural districts, says the Troy Times, and were both seemngly covered with confusion at their saving to stand up before the four or live present. After the form had been rend, the blushing pair standing hand a hand, the magistrate announced in Freek. LOCAL SQUIBS

Two Armies-the Regular and Irregular To which would you prefer to belong? The regular, undoubtedly. The irregplars are, admittedly, the most numerous, but they are in a very undesirable state of no-discipline. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will soon remedy this want in a disordered liver or bowels. Biliousness manifests itself in yellowness of the skin and eyeballs, sour breath, furred tongue, morning nausea, discomfort in the vicinity of the liver, vertigo and sick headache. Hosts of people suffer thus. These signs of insubordination to the governance of health, together with an irregular condition of the bowels, are soon regulated by the Bitters, which also overcomes malaris, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and kidney trouble. As a means of checking premature decay, hastening convalescence, and mitigating the infirmities of age, the great toaic is without a parallel.

A Texas murderer, says an exchange, is to have a brass band at his execution. Some one suggests that he should go the whole length and have fireworks in the evening.

A DOG'S CURIOUS ACTION. Appeared to Surmise That His Maste

Had Been Hurt. L. C. Meachump, living above Homer, La., on the edge of Arkansas, is a great hunter and has a fine deer hound, Don, of which he is justly proud. A few days ago, says the Philadelphia Times, Mr. Meachamp was going squirrel hunting, and in order to keep Dan at home he was compelled to tie him up. The hound whined and begged, but, finding his master was obdurate, he at last lay quite peaceably before the kennel all day. At five o'clock in the afternoon, how ever, when Mrs. Meachamp was beginning to look for her husband's return, Dan became so unusually restless that she went out to see what was the coveries to any afficted reader of this matter. In spite of her repeated efforts the could do nothing to pacify him, and at last, to her utter astonishment, he broke the rope and bound'd away over the fence and into the woods. He was gone probably a half hour when he came running back panting and almost breathless with his master's hat in his mouth. Mrs. Meachamp became at once alarmed, and, calling her son they set out to find Meachamp, the dog all the time bounding along in front and lead-Mr. Meachamp lying helpless in the woods, where at precisely five o'clock he had fallen in a little ditch and broken a small bone in his leg. The dog's knowledge of the accident at the very moment of its occurrence seems almost incredible, but the truth of this is beyond dispute.

A FEATHERED MONSTER.

Strange and Gigantic Bird Killed by a Man in West Virginia. Elias Midkif, of Hamlin, Lincoln county, was in Charleston the other day, and proposed to the State Historical and Antiquarian society that if it would send a taxidermist to Hamlin the society would secure a monster bird. of a kind never seen before by anyone in West Virginia. The feathered monster, says the Baltimore American, is described by Mr. Midkif, from meas urements taken by himself and W. W. Adkins, of Hamlin, who killed the bird at the mouth of Vannatters creek, with five bullets from his rifle, while hunting deer recently. The bird is seven feet four inches from tip to tip, four feet from tip of bill to tail, flat bill four inches long and three inches wide somewhat similar to that of a duck; web feet, covering nearly a square foot of area each; neck 19 inches long, legs about 11 inches long, and about one and a half inches through below the feathers; plumage dark brown, rewithout leaving a sear by using DeWitt's lieved on the wings and breast by light Witch Hazel Salve. Hives. An Australian savage comes up to an Irishman's idea of human skill, for "he bates the bees." A native seldom fails to get honey when he discovers the bee he has been wathching for. The following description of a native's bee hunt is given in Mr. Arthur's "Kangaroo and Kauri: Warruyallah, the chief of a tribe, went with two little nets to a small pool, filled his mouth with water, and then lying down, his head hanging over the pool, he remained quiet for an hour, We the understaned, bave known F. apparently looking at his own reflection in the water. Then the hum of a bee was heard. Buzz-z-z it went over the business transactions and financially pool, round the black's head, now on one side, now on the other, and now close to his ear; but not a motion betrayed the bee hunter. But when the bee, dropping close to its tune that it was about to sip, the chief, with a snort, squirted the water from his mouth over the little "buzzer." Before it had time to recover from the unexpected douche, he seized it dex-teriously by the wings. Then he prepared it for the chase by fastening to it a bunch of wild cotton with some gum. The bee was let go; it made for its hive, slowly at first on account of its novel burden, which im peded its progress and showed a sign in the air for the chief to follow. Over bramble and brake went the chief, ac-

The chief mounted quickly, by cutting notches into the bark with his stone tomahawk. In a short time he brought piece only of which contained honey.

The Australian bees are stingless. ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.

Improvements Which Make Their Use Hardly Noticeab Painstaking skill and constant improvement are necessary factors in the perfection or success of almost any industry, but nowhere, says the New York Mail and Express, are they more fully attended than in the making of artificial limbs. There was a time when the lame and the crippled had to show their defects and misfortunes to the world. Now it is just the other way. almost defy detection. Improvementa make it possible to move the knee and ankle joints, and this innovation also strengthens the whole limb and makes t more durable.

One of the latest improvements is in the knee joint of the leg for thigh amputation, which is so arranged that when in a sitting position the cord and spring are entirely relaxed, thus relieving all strain and pressure. There are in the United States 100,000 persons All persons indebted in notes and so, who have to be supplied with new limbs eight years. The manufacturing of these articles in New York has become quite an enterprise.
