

SILVER has dropped to 57 1/2 cents per ounce. A silver dollar is now worth only 45 cents.

TALK about a ton of gold from Clondyke, how much do you suppose Morrow county will get for her products this year? Just 2 1/2 tons of gold.

SENATOR GORMAN ruled the democracy of Maryland at the convention the other day and all was peace. The platform, written by Mr. Gorman himself, is a sort of a straddle—a "please-all affair."

THE new tariff became operative after midnight on Friday, July 23. It is said that some importers will contest this decision as the bill was not passed and signed until the afternoon of July 23rd.

THIS section of Oregon is now enjoying what everybody is clamoring for—the passage of the tariff and an abundant crop of grain, fruits and vegetables. Morrow county is "in it" clear up to its eyes.

THE Clondyke fever is raging everywhere just now, but the mercury will come down to its normal state as soon as the blizzards strike this section. Keep away from those icy regions until spring, unless you want to place your life into the hands of the grim reaper.

AMONG the appointments in the house we notice that Speaker Reed has favored our representative, W. R. Ellis, with a place on the public lands and irrigation, and arid lands committee. He also made T. H. Tongue a member of the committee on agriculture. Both these gentlemen can make themselves useful to the state on account of these appointments.

THERE is little probability that this government will take any notice of Japan's supplementary protest against the annexation of Hawaii, not because of any particular desire to snub Japan, but because Secretary Sherman's reply to Japan's first protest covered the ground so fully that no other answer is needed. The action of the senate committee on foreign relations in favorably reporting the annexation treaty without a dissenting voice, was additional notice to Japan, and all the rest of the world, that annexation is going to be accomplished regardless of the opinions or wishes of other nations.

NO OFFICIAL of the administration nor member of either branch of congress takes seriously the English-made rumor that Spain and Japan had formed an alliance to make war upon the United States. Nobody in Washington would be the slightest bit worried even if it were known that such an alliance was an accomplished fact, instead of being an English attempt to scare somebody, as a means of "getting even" for the truthful statement of the tricky conduct of the English government, made in Secretary Sherman's instructions to Ambassador Hay, concerning the seal fisheries negotiation. It was not intended that these instructions should be made public at this time, but they were obtained by a wide-awake newspaper man and printed. The publication has made the English editors very mad at the U. S., and their old occupation of amusing us, which was suspended while the arbitration treaty was pending, has been resumed; but it is worthy of notice that no attempt has been made to controvert the truthfulness of Secretary Sherman's arraignment of Lord Salisbury.

OUR GREEDY NEIGHBOR.

England's greediness is again being exemplified in the matter of the Alaskan boundary line. The rich find in the Clondyke region, a section which England appropriated from the American government some years ago, is again under consideration, and not being satisfied with the steal already recorded, assumes that the boundary line is not yet in its proper place. Besides what has already been filched from the United States government on the boundary line question, the Canadian government inflicts another infamous piece of legislation to the mining section of Clondyke, and imposes an assessment or royalty on the gold taken from its territory, and at the close of its session a few days ago the Canadian cabinet announced that the government had, according to press dispatches, decided to impose a royalty on all placer diggings on the Yukon in addition to $15 registration fee and $100 annual assessment. The royalty will be 10 per cent each on claims on which there is an output of $500 or less monthly, and 20 per cent on every claim producing above that amount yearly. Besides this royalty, it has been decided in regard to all future claims staked out on other streams or rivers, that every alternate claim should be the property of the government, and should be reserved for public purposes and sold or worked by the government for the benefit of the revenue of the Dominion.

In addition, the English government is still clamoring for more territory and it isn't very particular as to where it plants its greedy tentacles. The latest is to the effect that Johnny Bull now wants to revise the boundary line of Alaska so as to come in possession of the principal and most important commercial point—Juneau. The time when Uncle Sam is going to interfere with this greedy maneuvering of the British government, is certainly not far distant, and if it becomes necessary to draw the line the United States will in all probability be called upon to administer to the British subjects another gentle flogging.

HENRY CLEWS remarks in his latest circular: "It is generally conceded that the advance in American securities has been without any material help from London, the transactions from that quarter for some time past having been for moderate profits and quick turns. This, therefore, places us in a position of not being compelled to take back our securities from abroad at high prices." The fact is our people have in the past six years bought back from foreign holders hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of American securities. Our financial tub begins to stand on its own bottom, and we will be before long assume our destined place as the banker of the nations.

THE London Globe says that the Japanese easily whip the United States. Probably the Globe speaks from a standpoint of malice. Those who have been "licked" are usually inclined to encourage another to do the fighting thereafter. There were people who said the United States would be "licked" in 1873 and 1812, but they proved to be mistaken.—East Oregonian.

As heretofore stated the Clondyke mining district is on the boundary line between United States and Dominion of Canada. The two nations have not heretofore been able to fix the line and now that the gold finds have been found, the task will be more vexatious than ever. The U. S. senate has instructed its foreign relations committee to report at once a treaty for determining the boundary line between Alaska and Canada. Some even go so far as to assert that complications will arise precipitating hostilities. The good sense of the two nations will not, however, allow so sordid an element as gold to precipitate war. The siding off to one or the other of the peoples a strip of frozen gold bearing gravel is not an insult that requires a blood-cleansing independent.

The papers are full of the Clondyke mining excitement. Many people are wild over it and cry to start at once. The E.M. predicts many sad and disappointed experiences.—I. M.

Mr. Tongue is a member of the house committee on agriculture, and Mr. Ellis of the committee on public lands. These are positions that will be of advantage to their constituents. Mr. Ellis was given also the chairmanship of the committee on irrigation and arid lands, which Mr. Hermanson retained as a sop on account of his unsuccessful candidacy for the chairmanship of the rivers and harbors committee, which cost him his seat in congress. The place of his made of benefit to the Second Oregon district, in which are located vast tracts of desert lands that can be brought into cultivation by the use of water.—Salem Statesman.

The Ohio democrats are weakening. A month ago they were sure that they were going to carry the state, but now they are beginning to admit that they do not see a victory in sight. Editor Williamson of Hamilton, who reports himself as "from the burbs of the Buckeye democracy," is quoted in a St. Louis paper as saying "I do not think we have any cinch on the Ohio election this fall and would not be so shockingly surprised if we lost the legislature and a United States senator."—Plainsdealer.

A new bullet-proof cloth was tried on a dog at the Chicago college of dental surgery the other day, and, strange to say, the dog survived the test, the bullet failing to penetrate the cloth. It is reported that already the presidents of South American republics have written for samples of the cloth and self-protection blanks. The cloth is to be tried on a human target next.—Eugene Register.

The men in the Clondyke country, who have plenty of provisions, are organizing to protect themselves against the deprivations of foolish men coming there unprepared with food and clothing to sustain life. There will be serious times in that dark and frozen land, sure enough. Many a life will go out on account of cold and hunger, and the pistol will put out many more.—Salem Statesman.

The new Clondyke discoveries will only emphasize the importance of our rich mining resources in Southern Oregon. They have stood the test of nearly half a century, yielding millions upon millions in gold, and their permanent value is only now on the eve of a new development, it is confidently predicted.—Ashland Tidings.

SOME CLONDYKE NOTES.

What You Need in the Way of Supplies—Some Points on Clondyke.

The following is said to be a mining outfit for two men, and those who are contemplating going into the Clondyke section should cut out the list:

- 700 pounds flour, 100 pounds oat meal, 300 pounds bacon, 100 pounds dried beef, 120 pounds coffee, 150 pounds sugar, 60 pounds tea, 10 pounds tea, 25 pounds cocoa or chocolate, 50 pounds rice, 30 pounds hominy, 50 pounds peaches, 50 pounds apricots, 50 pounds apples, 2 cases condensed milk, Eagle brand; 10 pounds soap, 5 pounds ground mustard, 2 pounds cayenne pepper, 100 pounds salt, 5 pounds Cow brand soda, 10 pounds Royal baking powder, 1 pound cans, 2 picks, 2 shovels, 4 pans, 2 axes, two hatchets, 2 saws, 15-foot, 1 hand; set brace and bit, 1/2 to 1 1/2 inches; assorted steel nails, 40 pounds; 3 coils, 1 plane, rope 82, 15 pounds oakum, 3 pounds white lead, 1 gal and ammunition 150 rounds, 1 cooking outfit, 1 reflector, 20 pounds of quicksilver, 1 trailing fork, 1 compass, matches, 3 cans syrup, 6 gallons; 1 gal pickles, 5 gallons; 2 gallons alcohol in kaffee cans, 3 pounds of black pepper, 50 pounds evaporated potatoes, 60 pounds butter, 1 lb; 30 pounds lard, 20 pounds sea biscuits and 1 case corn sorb for trip on Yukon; 10 pounds cheese, 2 boxes choice candles, 1 looking glass, 20 pounds tobacco, plug; 10 pounds tobacco, smoking; 1 wall tent, 10x14; 1 crow-bar.

- The Portland Mercury gives some good advice. It says:

The fact has been developed that our dry goods merchants are short on many of the lines of goods required by miners in the cold region of the north, but telegraphic orders are bringing in these supplies and by a time the Elder axle, July 30, anything in the line of clothing called for will be on hand. Wool boots, such as are worn in the Dakotas and Manitoba, German socks, felt mittens, etc., have been ordered by the ton, and will be on sale within a week. But don't go it blind. Don't expect a life of pleasure in that cold and rough country. Don't, if lucky enough to strike it rich, go to gambling and squandering everything taken from the earth. Be sensible and, when a competency is acquired, return to Oregon and take life easy.

SHEEP DIPPING.

Chicago Stockyards Co. Requires it in the Case of Scabby Sheep.

So many sheep are sent from this country and adjoining counties that the subject of dipping at the Chicago Union stock yards becomes an important consideration, says the E. O. It bears on the question of scabby sheep and sheeps-men will read with interest the following from a recent issue of the Iowa Homestead:

"The action of the Chicago stock yards company in requiring the dipping in an infusion of caustic soda and tobacco strippings of all sheep intended for export has aroused the shippers of fat muttons to a vigorous protest, which resulted recently in a modification of the order. It is hereafter proposed to dip nothing but scabby sheep. The dipping ordinance promulgated by the department of agriculture has been in full force for some time, but it is only since the establishment of the tank at the stock yards that it has been in effect. Acting on the theory that prevention is better than cure, the healthy animals have been subjected to a dipping operation as well as those affected with disease. The charge for dipping has been three cents per head. This has not been ground for the protest, but it is claimed the dip used has had a bad effect on the health of the sheep and places them in an unfit condition for an ocean voyage.

"A recent shipment of one thousand head arrived in Liverpool in such poor condition that the importers at once wrote to the shipper in Chicago to say that they wanted no more tobacco emulsions billed to them as fattings of the flocks of America, and unless he could send them sheep whose nerves and tissues were not shattered and rained by noxious indulgence all future deals were off. Other importers wrote letters of like import and the market was seriously affected. The stock yards company instead of changing the dip to a sensible one, modified the rules in such a way that hereafter all sheep not affected with disease will be permitted to go without dipping. It is needless for us to say here that if the right kind of dip had been used there would have been no protest."

The Whitman Monument.

A. B. Niles, representing the Niles-Vinson Marble Works, of Walla Walla, accompanied by his young son, was in town Sunday and Monday. Mr. Niles is happy over having secured the contract for the Whitman monument. It will be a marble shaft, 28 feet high, and will cost $2100 and will be erected at the grave of the brave pioneers who met death at the hands of the Indians, below Walla Walla, near now what is Whitman station, Nov. 29, 1847, just 50 years ago next November. At that time the monument will be erected and dedicated, a tribute to the memory of one man who saved Oregon and Washington from becoming British territory, and to the Christian pioneers who met death at the hands of savages in their endeavors to spread the gospel.

A new metal has been discovered in a number of Southern Oregon placer mines. It is an alloy of nickel iron, and is in fact nickel steel, such as is used for armor plates on battleships. F. E. Birge, of Medford, has authority from San Francisco to pay 25 cents an ounce for the metal.—Canyon City News.
