ORDERED A TIN PETTICOAT. The Pope Insisted That a Nude Statue Be

One of the most curious instance of the struggle between art and propricty is shown in St. Peter's. The writer, says the Troy Press, was rambling through the great cathedral one day when he suddenly came upon an tured form of a beautiful woman, the head, hands, neck, ankles and feet separate masterworks of art. The word separate is used advisedly, for the torso and legs were modestly hidden under a tin petticoat painted to represent marble, but so ill in color and drapery line ed and at war in its component parts. "Si signor," said the guide, apologetically. "It is the impossible. Very true. But what can be helped? The sculptor he make beautiful model nude. It will not do. It is on the pope's tomb. The pope, he comes to see his tomb two, three hundred years ago. He say no. We will not have such thing. He tell the sculptor to put on the drapery. The artist, he say no-it is impossible Then the pope call a workman and he say-put on the clothes on the figure. workman not an artist, only a workman. He put on the tin petticoat and paint it. The pope satisfied. He die and is buried in the tomb. But everybody wonder two, three hundred years at the figure."

WHAT FAST SKATERS REQUIRE. Physical Needs of Those Who Desire to Excel in Ice Racing.

The typical speed skater has a short body, capacious, round chest, with well-developed back; his thighs are strong and very long, as are also his legs. His feet are large and flat. His weak points are his calves, due to the long, flat skate to which his flattened foot is so closely bound. The large muscles of his chest are not exercised, and his arms, held lying idly along his back, are unused except in an occasional spurt, when they are brought down and swung straight from the shoulder. They say that they catch less wind held that way, and that the position is restful to the tense extensors of the back. This is, no doubt, true, says Popular Science Monthly, but the result is disastrous to symmetrical development. This type of figure is seen at its best in such skaters as the Donahues, McCormick, the old-time professional, who still skates a fast race, although now 40 years of age, and in Wilson Breen, a professional, who has been a winner of much gold and glory by means of his long legs and powerful thighs. The conclusion that speed skating alone is not a good exercise to develop a well-built, symmetrical man will be patent to anyone who rebe, as done by McCulloch, in conjunction with other forms of athletics which bring into action the muscles of the arm, calf, shoulders and chest.

LIVED HIS LIFE ALONE. Spent Years at a Hotel Without Speaking to Anyone.

A year or two ago a well-to-do gentleman died in a New York hotel. He had not a soul knew him perse thing about him beyond the fact that he paid his bills promptly and regularly. He chose to make no acquaintances, says the New York Advertiser, and was satisfied to appear to the hotel manager as "No. 61, K," or by whatever number his room designated. The hotel management had changed several times, but he lived on there, a calm, unruffled existence. As a guest such a man is a cannot do better anywhere. jewel, and, as may reasonably be supposed, he was not likely to be harrassed by unnecessary attentions. When he died and it was found that he was a gentleman of independent fortune-the newspapers, of course, making the discovery-some people marveled for a day or two, and then forgot him. I recall the incident now only to illustrate that in a great city like this what appears to be the most public life may in reality be the most exclusive.

Sized Up His Customers In one of the leading journals of Montevideo, the following advertisement appeared recently: "A very rich young woman would like to marry a young she will pay the debts of her future busband. Send answer with photo graph to I. P., at the office of the journal." The inserter of this announce ment was no other than one Isaac Meierstein, a merchant tailor, who had just set up an establishment in Montevideo. By this plan he procured photographs of many undesirable custo-
