SEVEN GREAT SERIALS

A New Life of Grant by HAMLIN GARLAND. The first authoritative and adequate Life of Grant ever published. (Begins in December.)

Rudyard Kipling's first American serial, "Captains Courageous." (Begun in November.)

Robert Louis Stevenson's "St. Ives." The only novel of Stevenson's still unpublished (Begins in May.)

Charles A. Dana. "Recollections of War Time." Mr. Dana was for three of the most critical years of the Civil War practically a member of Lincoln's Cabinet, and is probably better fitted than any other man living to give an authoritative history of this period from his recollections and correspondence.

Portraits of Great Americans. Many of them unpublished. In connection with this series of portraits it is intended to publish special biographical studies under the general title of MAKERS OF THE UNION from Washington to Lincoln.

Pictures of Palestine. Specially taken under the editor's direction.

Stories of Adventure. A serial by CONAN DOYLE, in which he will use his extraordinary talent for mystery and ingenuity which have, in the "Sherlock Holmes" stories, given him a place beside Poe and Gaboriau.

TEN FAMOUS WRITERS

IAN MACLAREN. All the fiction that he will write during the coming year, with the exception of two contributions to another publication which were engaged from him long ago, will appear in MCCLURE'S MAGAZINE.

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS. A series of new animal stories in the same field as the "Brer Rabbit" and the "Little Mr. Thimblefinger" stories.

RUDYARD KIPLING. Besides "Captains Courageous," Kipling will contribute to MCCLURE'S all of the short stories he will write during the coming year.

OCTAVE THANET is preparing for the MAGAZINE a series of short stories in which the same characters will appear, although each will be complete in itself.

Anthony Hope, Bret Harte, Robert Barr, Frank R. Stockton, Stanley Weyman, Clark Russell will all have stories in MCCLURE'S for the coming year.

These are only a small fraction of the great and important features of MCCLURE'S MAGAZINE for 1897, the subscription price of which is only

One Dollar a Year

WEEKLY The MONTHLY

Outlook

Published Every Saturday

13 Astor Place New York

The Outlook will be in 1897, as it has been during each of its twenty-seven years, a History of Our Own Times. In its various editorial departments The Outlook gives a compact review of the world's progress; it follows with care all the important philanthropic and industrial movements of the day; has a complete department of religious news; devotes much space to the interests of the home; reviews current literature; furnishes cheerful table-talk about men and things: and, in short, aims to give fresh information, original observation, and reasonable entertainment.

Beginning with the fifty fifth volume, the paper will assume the regular magazine size, which will add greatly to its convenience and attractiveness. The Outlook is published every Saturday—fifty-two issues a year. The first issue in each month is an Illustrated Magazine Number, containing about twice as many pages as the ordinary issues, together with a large number of pictures.

The price of The Outlook is three dollars a year in advance, or less than a cent a day.

Send for a specimen copy and illustrated prospectus to The Outlook, 13 Astor Place, New York City.

VANDERBILT'S FAMOUS SAYINGS

True Story of the "Public-Be-Damned" Affair.

One of the very few epigrammatic utterances of the multi-millionaires of America—one which has become as familiar to the people of the English-speaking world as Shakespearean quotations—was the "public be damned" declaration of the late William H. Vanderbilt. Thousands, almost millions, have used it in one way or another since it was uttered in the early summer of 1882, and in every political campaign since that time it has been the theme of countless anti-monopoly discourses. Yet very few if any of those who have used it could tell even one of the circumstances under which the expression was given to the public.

To Col. Nate A. Reed, of Chicago, at present editor of the Banner of Gold, belongs the sole credit of preserving the famous phrase from the oblivion to which an obtuse reporter was about to consign it, when he rescued it and made it a household phrase, especially with the populists, and the full story of how this was done is now probably given to the public for the first time by one who was present at the time.

Clarence P Dresser ran a sort of suburban news bureau in South Chicago in 1882, supplying all of the papers with the same matter. He was ambitious to become a railroad editor and never missed trying to see the magnates who passed through his bailiwick. Col. Reed was at that time night editor of the Chicago News and was a man with a "keen nose for news." Late one night in the early summer of 1882 Dresser entered the News office with his bundle of duplicate manuscripts to deliver the news quota. Col. Reed met him and as usual asked what Dresser had that night. Dresser gave some of what he considered the best of his news and then said that he had tried to secure an interview with William H. Vanderbilt on an important public question, but had poor success.

"What did Vanderbilt say to you about it?" asked Reed, carelessly, half dismissing the interview matter from his mind.

"Oh, nothing," Dresser replied. "When I asked him about the matter, saying the public would like to hear his views, he answered only: 'The public be damned.' I could not get anything more from him."

"What was that?" almost shouted Reed, awake in an instant to the great value of the expression. "What did he say? Did he say: 'The public be damned?' Are you sure?"

Dresser declared that those were the very words used.

"Go right into my room and write everything you can about that expression," cried Reed, at the same time pushing Dresser into the night editor's sanctum. "Mind you do not miss a point of it, and make 'The public be damned' stick out above everything. I'll see that you are well paid for it."

As soon as Dresser entered the room, which was on the fourth floor of the News office, Reed locked the door and kept Dresser a prisoner for the rest of the night, thus assuring the News a "clean scoop" on all of its Chicago contemporaries.

The interview was published with circumstantial details that morning and was soon copied all over the world.—Kansas City Star.

At Last a Rival.

Ere long the little busy bee
Will own, with manners meeker,
He is eclipsed in industry
By the active office-seeker.
—Washington Star.

HIS OFFER WAS DECLINED.

"Sonny, what is that ugly brute good for?"

"Good for? Good for? All I've got to say to her is 'Sick him, Beauty,' an' she'd jump at yer t'roat and tear yer windpipe into a thousand pieces; yer couldn't beat her away with a crowbar an' a lighted kerosene lamp. Would yer like to see me do it?"—N. Y. Truth.

It Would Be Lying.

An eminent queen's counsel once gave the following recommendation to a gentleman who proposed to swear an affidavit after having already sworn an affidavit in exactly a contrary sense in the course of the suit. "Never," remarked the queen's counsel, "swear an affidavit when your previous affidavit to the contrary effect is in possession of the court. Because, my friend," he added, "that would be lying."

The Bazin Diskboat.

The new disk steamship, the invention of M. Bazin, was launched at St. Denis dockyard. Admiral Coulombeaud, who has a high repute among French naval authorities, is said to be a firm believer in the possibilities of this new invention, and he has computed that only one-twenty-eighth of the power required to drive an ordinary boat is needed for a Bazin craft of the same size and speed. The diskboat of M. Bazin is by no means the first attempt to apply the roller principle to navigation, but heretofore the rollers have been made to perform the duty of paddle-wheels or propellers; in the new boat they are merely devices to overcome friction, and the report of M. Bazin's experiments indicate that he has been markedly successful.

Something to Depend on.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ills., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with La Grippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at Conser & Brock's Drug Store.

E. O.: "Otis Patterson, who calls himself "bus man" of the Heppner Gazette, and who is a busy and bright man always, was a visitor in Pendleton today. Mr. Patterson was on his way to the mining districts in British Columbia, on business. Accompanying him were two young gentlemen from the East, who have been his guests at Heppner and Orin's (another "Pat") at Long Creek. They are Jesse P. Wheeler, of Pennyan, N. Y., and J. H. Schenck, of Dresden, N. Y. Mr. Wheeler is a cousin of the Pattersons. Both took advantage of the Christian Endeavor rates to come West on an excursion. They will return from Spokane via the Great Northern, and will stop at Indianapolis, where Alvah Patterson is residing.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Remarkable Cure for Chronic Diarrhœa.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle, and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great remedy and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa.
