Going East?

IF YOU ARE, DO NOT FORGET

Three Important Points.

FIRST—Go via St. Paul because the lines to that point will afford you the very best service.

SECOND—See that the coupon beyond St. Paul reads via the Wisconsin Central because that line makes close connections with all the trans-continental lines entering the Union Depot there, and its service is first-class in every particular.

THIRD—For information, call on your neighbor and friend—the nearest ticket agent—and ask for a ticket reading via the Wisconsin Central lines, or address

McClure's Magazine

For 1897

SEVEN GREAT SERIALS

A New Life of Grant by HAMLEN GARLAND. The first authoritative and adequate life of Grant ever published. (Begins in December.) Ruyard Kipling's first American serial, "Captains Courageous." (Begins in November.) Robert Louis Stevenson's "St. Ives." The only novel of Stevenson's still unpublished (Begins in May).

TEN FAMOUS WRITERS

LAN MACTAREN. All the fiction that he will write during the coming year, with the exception of two contributions to another publication which were engaged from him long ago, will appear in McClure's Magazine.

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS. A series of new animal stories in the same field as the "Bear Rabbits" and the "Little Mr. Timbshingers" stories.

RUDYARD KIPLING. Besides "Captains Courageous," Kipling will contribute to McClure's all of the short stories he will write during the coming year.

OCTAVE TRUANT is preparing for the Magazine a series of short stories in which the same characters will appear, although each will be complete in itself.

Anthony Hope, Bret Harte, Robert Barr, Frank R. Stockton, Stanley Weyman, Robert Barr, Clark Russell will all have stories in McClure's for the coming year.

These are only a small fraction of the great and important features of McClure's Magazine for 1897, the subscription price of which is only

One Dollar a Year

The new volume begins with November. Subscriptions should start with this number.

WEEKLY The MONTHLY Outlook

Published Every Saturday

13 Astor Place New York

The Outlook will be in 1897, as it has been during each of its twenty-seven years, a History of Our Own Times.

In its various editorial departments The Outlook gives a compact review of the world's progress; it follows with care all the important philanthropic and industrial movements of the day; has a complete department of religious news; devotes much space to the interests of the home; reviews current literature; furnishes cheerful talk-talk about men and things; and, in short, aims to give fresh information, original observation, and reasonable entertainment.

Beginning with the fifty-fifth volume, the paper will assume the regular magazine size, which will add greatly to its convenience and attractiveness.

The Outlook is published every Saturday— fifty two issues a year. The first issue in each month is an Illustrated Magazine Number, containing about twice as many pages as the ordinary issues, together with a large number of pictures.

The price of The Outlook is three dollars a year in advance, or less than a cent a day.

Send for a specimen copy and illustrated prospectus to The Outlook, 13 Astor Place, New York City.

A DEAF AND BLIND CRITIC.

Helen Keller on the Character of a Favorite Heroine.

Here, from the Century, is one of Helen Keller's "compositions." It is on the "Character of Rosalind."

"What first strikes us in Rosalind's character is its buoyancy. As soon as she begins to speak we know that she is young, fair and lovable. When we first meet her, she is grieving over the banishment of her father; but, on being chided by her cousin, Cella, for her sadness, we see how quickly she looks up her sorrow in her heart, and tries to be happy because Cella is happy. So when we hear her merry laugh, and listen to her bright conversation, we do not imagine for a moment that she has forgotten her sorrow; we know that she is unselfishly trying to do her duty by her cousin. And when we see the smile fade from her sweet face, and the light from her eyes, because a fellow-creature is in trouble, we are not surprised. We feel that we have thrown all our own sorrows, we see how quickly she looks up her sorrow in her heart, and tries to be happy because Cella is happy. So when we hear her merry laugh, and listen to her bright conversation, we do not imagine for a moment that she has forgotten her sorrow; we know that she is unselfishly trying to do her duty by her cousin. And when we see the smile fade from her sweet face, and the light from her eyes, because a fellow-creature is in trouble, we are not surprised. We feel that we have thrown all our own sorrows, we see how quickly she looks up her sorrow in her heart, and tries to be happy because Cella is happy.
