Going East? Three Important Points. FIRST-Go via St. Paul because the lines to that point will afford you the very best service.

SECOND-See that the coupon beyond St. Paul reads via the Wisconsin Central because that line makes close connections with all the trans-continentals entering the Union Depot there, and its service is first-class in every particular.

THIRD-For information, call on your neighbor and friend-the nearest ticket agent-and ask for a ticket reading via the Wisconsin Central lines, or address J. C. Pond, or Geo. S. Batty, Gen. Pass. Agt., Milwaukee, Wis.

CAMEL'S EXPERIENCE. Set Down So Much That His Hind Legs Became Useless. A large camel which was landed at Hoboken a few days ago from the Bremen line steamer Dresden had an experience which probably never before fell to the lot of a "ship of the desert."

When the dejected animal was finally landed and tried to stand up, he couldn't use his rear props at all. They had become paralyzed with their long stay in a cramped position. The camel wasn't any good, it seemed, and as a big price had been paid for him, there was a general lamentation. The camel was "in" on the lamentation. Such a picture of woe was never seen in Hoboken.

At last a genius suggested a radical cure. The camel, by his advice, was placed in a sling and hoisted up until only his toes touched the ground. He paddled the air for a spell with his forelegs, and finally the rear props came to life and joined in the exercise. They loved him to the floor, and, after he had tested his rear legs somewhat gingerly, he was as good as new. But he doesn't sit down any more. Once was enough for him.

FAULTY FINANCIERING. Failure of a Suddenly Devised Plan to Save Street Car Fare. There is a man somewhere on the South side who knows more about the theory and practice of finance than he did a few days ago and all he did to gain the knowledge was to jump off a street car and pick up a nickel which he saw lying on the street, says the Chicago Tribune.

Relating the circumstances later to a friend he said: "It's funny what fools some men are. I saw that nickel after I had paid my fare, and my first thought was that if I jumped off and picked it up it would make up for the nickel I had already given the conductor. Having plenty of time I did so. Of course I missed the car which I had originally boarded and paid my fare. When the conductor came around on the following car I surrendered my new-found nickel with a serene and satisfactory belief that my ride had not cost me anything, having paid for it with the nickel I found in the street."

"Then I began to figure a little. The more I tried to solve the problem in mathematics the more deeply I became involved. As an actual fact I had to count my change before I discovered that I had not only saved a nickel, but that I had contributed ten cents to the company's coffers and was still a nickel out of pocket."

POOR BARONETS. Some of Them Are Always Coming to Grief. Mr. Labouchere's sarcastic reference to this lowest rank of the English hereditary titled order, "baronets and the criminal classes," seems so very apt, says a recent London letter in an exchange. Baronets insist upon going wrong all the time. There are at least a half-dozen absolutely disreputable baronets prowling about the Strand at this moment, cadging for shillings, free meals and free drinks. If they can manage to preserve a decent outward appearance existence is not so difficult. Their titles appeal to the man who has never been on familiar terms with anything in the shape of a title before. But the delight of knowing "a nobleman" soon passes when the succession of small loans and general sponging is realized. One of the worst of the disreputable baronet species now in evidence in London, and more or less in the gutter, is the same man who a few years ago was in the United States acting as an advance agent or something similar for a theatrical company. Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities remember the gentleman. His various swindles are as remarkable as they are ingenious.

FARO WAS KING. It Was the Rage in Washington During Buchanan's Term. Faro was king at the national capital during James Buchanan's term. The most pretentious gambler of them all was Joe Hall, whose midnight supper Lucullus would have made haste to enjoy. He had to have tasted the caber-luck duck stuffed with champagne, and the side dish of Virginia hominy done brown, in butter garnished with bacon from Accomac, fed on scorns. Silver goblets like "motley" were the only "wear" for champagne, says a Washington correspondent.

There were no clubhouses, so called, in ante-bellum days in Washington. And here, up to the fall of Sumter, the south and north, no matter how acrid the day's debate in congress, when the members met together Joe Hall's or George Penley's green baize table, and Pennsylvania avenue, all on pleasant benches, they "let silence like a political fall and heal the blows" of political strife and sound!

Joe Hall, who died very poor, in Baltimore during the war, was in the last generation the most munificent and most continuously successful "high-roller" among the "gamblers" of America. His horses, with gold-tipped harness, were the cynosure of all eyes. In Philadelphia he ran a gambling house on Walnut, above Eleventh, north side, from 1856 till the war broke out. Here Thaddeus Stevens, the great congressman of Pennsylvania, hobnobbed with James A. Bayard, of Delaware, and the handsome Ellis Schuylke, who, with "Bill" Witte, of Philadelphia, made two of the best all-round smart operators of whom the Kopytons democracy ever boasted.

Pendleton Republican: A prominent sheepman from Morrow county was in Pendleton a few days ago and laughs to scorn the cock and bull stories printed in the Portland papers concerning an alleged war being waged between the sheep and cattle men of that county. He says so far as he knows there exists no bitterness of feeling, that on the contrary the most friendly relations exist between the cowboys and shepherders; that there is an abundance of feed for all and that gun fights are almost unknown; that everybody is happy, prosperous and law-abiding.

They Are the "Mustard." Meadows & Hatten, the pioneer blacksmiths, have made some elegant improvements in their establishment and added a large stock of iron, horseshoes and other materials essential to the happiness of those who need quick repairs on their wagons, buggies or any kind of machinery. They have extended their room so as to accommodate everybody in the country who is in need of repairs. When you want a horse shoe, machine repaired, tire set or anything else in their line, you will find Meadows & Hatten to be the boys that can do it—and do it right—in short order.

Canyon City News: Miss Nellie Brown took her departure last Monday for Walla Walla on a visit to relatives. She was accompanied as far as Heppner by her father, Walter Brown.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure.

A meeting of the Sheepmen's Protective Union was held at Condon Tuesday for the purpose of settling up the coyote bounty accounts, etc., says the Condon Globe. About $170 was paid in by the members, leaving about $800 yet of the amount necessary, and this is expected to be paid in by Nov. 1st, this fall. All of the members are urgently requested to pay in their assessments before that date, as no money can be paid out until all is paid in. Morrow county sheepmen have made up a fund of $1000 for the purpose of sending detectives into Grant county to ferret out and prosecute the parties who have been shooting sheep over there, and the Sheepmen's Union of Gilliam county proposes to raise a similar amount for the same purpose. Some of those sheep-shooting smart-alecks will learn that they do not own the earth yet and that the U. S. government has some say yet in those matters.

Eternal Vigilance Is the price of perfect health. Watch carefully the first symptoms of impure blood. Cure boils, pimples, humors and scabs by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Drive away the pains and aches of rheumatism, malaria and stomach troubles, steady your nerves and overcome that tired feeling by taking the same great medicine.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver tonic. Gentle, reliable, sure. W. S. Byers, proprietor of the roller mills that were burned at Pendleton Monday morning, contemplates rebuilding, and will double the capacity of the plant, putting up a mill that will turn out 1000 barrels of flour daily.
