SUITORS IN CARACAS.

Young Woman Was Shocked by Her American Sweetheart. A friend of mine from New York, who was visiting in the city last winter, became engaged to a young woman belonging to one of the old families, says a writer in the Cosmopolitan. Excepting a few moments' chat with his sweetheart at the low bay window on the street the young man in question had never spoken one word alone to his fiancee. To an American, especially a New Yorker, this peculiar state of affairs was inexplicable and the warmer his affection grew the more unendurable became this restraint. Finally, one evening when the object of his devotion was left alone in the window, mamma excusing herself for a moment to obtain a drink of water, nothing seemed more natural to him than that his hand should seek hers. Before the poor fellow had been able to give it that gentle pressure which to lovers means more than a thousand words his sweetheart, shocked beyond expression, rushed 600 self, as is the custom of the women Clem (28 miles) ... 200 ...... #### ANY OLD PLACE WOULD DO. He Couldn't Spell Osawatomie Nor Could the Stenographer. A short man, with red whiskers, shambling gait, and the remains of a jag, wandered into the Midland the other evening, and asked for a typewriter's studio, says the Kansas City Journal. He lives in Kansas, not fur from Topeka, and had been here attending the football games. Luck had walked on the same side of the street with him in the matter of bets, and he wanted to stay another week. But his wife expected him home, so he was in search of a typewriter to send home a letter to serve as an apology for his nonappearance,

"Kansas City, this date, 95," he muttered to the typewritist. "I have that."

"My dear wife." "Yes." "Very important business will require my presence in Osawatomie for a few days-'

"Let's see," interrupted the artist. "How do you spell that Osawatomie?" "Spell it yourself. It's your type-"I can't."

"Can't spell Osawatomie?" he asked in disgust.

HE HAD BEEN IN PRISON. And Was Not Unjustly Confined, as He Confessed.

The evidence the witness had given had been very strongly against the law ver's side of the case, and, lawyer-like. ie was trying his best to brenk the tea imony, or throw discredit on the wit ness, says the Pittsburgh News. He had tried browbeating, but the man ignored his efforts and in an easy, self-contained way stuck to his story. He tried cross-questioning him, but with no better success, and he was on the point of giving up when a chance remark caught als ear and riveted his courage.

"I gather from what you just said that you have been in prison. Is that true? "Yes, sir, I have been in prison." Theattorney's eyes snapped and a contented smile spread over his features as he drew a sigh of relief. He proceeded to make the most of his triumph, though he felt confident that his case was won. "The jury will notice that the witness confesses having been in prison. How long were you in prison?" "Eighteen months." "You do not pretend that you were not justly confined?"

"No. sir. Under the circumstances, I presume it was all right." "Of course the gentlemen of the jury will understand without my calling attention to it how much value to place on the evidence of a man of this kind. Will ctions Entailed Upon the British Roya Family by Blood Marriages. A writer in America, discoursing on the results of intermarrying, gives an appalling list of the diseases and deformities with which various members of European royal houses are afflicted, owing to this cause. From mere facial deformity up to insanity, says London Truth, there is scarcely any distressing affliction with which humanity is afflicted which does not find a place in the list. Very possibly this catalogue may be incorrect, but experience unquestionably proves the fact that there a certain extent this may be due to intermarriage, but I suspect that it is still more due to the species of cult that is paid to royalties from generation to generation, and which must in the nature of things weaken their intellectual fiber. Nothing can be more mentally injurious for a man than to have all his wishes anticipated by a crowd of sycophants, and through life to find all agreeing with him with whom he is brought in daily contact, instead of being subjected to the discipline involved in social equality. Just as we have lost the tails that were the appendages of our primeval ancestors because gradually the habit of wagging them fell into disuse, so all mental virility gradually disappears from families that are long regal, because they have no opportunity to exercise it.

MANY STILL SPEAK GAELIC.

No Means an Extinct Language in Spite of Its Position Here. A new appointment has been made from Waterford to the chair of professor of Gaelic in Maynooth college, Ireland. The new appointee is a member of the Gaelic league of Dublin, and was the first editor of the Archaeological Journal, of Waterford. The opin- Ione next Sunday. ion is very general that Gaelic is an extinct language, or one nearly extinct, and the labors of the Gaelic soclety in New York to revive its use have lent some color to that opinion. Nevertheless, as figures show, the Gaelic torgue is most tenacious, and according to the last reports, is spoken, though not exclusively, by 1,000,000 persons in the British Isles-600,000 in Ireland, 350,000 in Wales and 220,000 in Scotland. Though English is the official language of all these countries, the popularity of English increases slowly despite the disadvantage under which those who use Gaelic labor, that of hav-headway, though many patriotic Irishmen have by various methods endeavored to acquaint others less patriotic with its advantages. While the use of most European languages has about doubled in 75 years, five times as many persons speak English as did in 1820.

The Egyptian Afterglow. We all know what "Egyptian darkness" is, and that in most tropical countries sudden darkness after sundown is one of the peculiarities. In Egypt at certain seasons of the year there is a marked exception to this sudden "drawing of the curtains of the skies," The sun go. . down and darkness comes or very suddenly and continues for a space of 20 minutes or half an hour. Then, all of a sudden, the hills and sands take on a ghastly paleness and in another moment everything begins to brighten, and it appears that the sun is about to rise out of the west. These tints of golden, purple, orange and lilac attain their max mum degree of bright ness in about ten minutes after they begin, and in 20 minutes everything hafaded into darkness and you are only conscious of the fact that you have just witnessed the phenomenon known a the "Egyptian afterglow."
