WEEKLY The MONTHLY Outlook

Published Every Saturday

13 Astor Place New York

The Outlook will be in 1897, as it has been during each of its twenty-seven years, a History of Our Own Times. In its various editorial departments The Outlook gives a compact review of the world's progress; it follows with care all the important philanthropic and industrial movements of the day; has a complete department of religious news; devotes much space to the interests of the home; reviews current literature; furnishes cheerful table-talk about men and things; and, in short, aims to give fresh information, original observation, and reasonable entertainment.

Beginning with the fifty fifth volume, the paper will assume the regular magazine size, which will add greatly to its convenience and attractiveness. The Outlook is published every Saturday—fifty-two issues a year. The first issue in each month is an Illustrated Magazine Number, containing about twice as many pages as the ordinary issues, together with a large number of pictures.

The price of The Outlook is three dollars a year in advance, or less than a cent a day.

Send for a specimen copy and illustrated prospectus to The Outlook, 13 Astor Place, New York City.

FIVE AGES OF WOMEN.

Only a prattling wee baby. Dancing on mamma's knee; A chubby and dimpled cherub, Pretty as she could be. Laughing and jumping and crowing, Babbling with innocent mirth; Mamma just thinks her a treasure, The darlingest one on earth.

Only a laughing schoolgirl, Fair as a budding rose; Gazing with tender glances On her young would-be beau. Never a cloud above her; No one could help but love her In her simplicity.

Only a fair young lady, Proud as a queen of old; Lovers who seek her favor Meet with but glances cold. Naught but a prince could woo her, A prince with an honored name; Love to her is but folly, The dream of her life is fame.

Only a serious woman, Charming slowly fading away. Her prince never came to seek her; Her head is threaded with grey. Longing for love that's denied her, Praying for some one to woo; Gone are her queenly ambitions— Any old fellow will do.

Only a maiden of fifty Skillfully spreading her net; Still there is hope in her bosom That someone may gobble her yet. Pains and cosmetics and powders, And old in the briefest of dress, When seen on her wheel at a distance You'd think her but twenty, or less.

—LOU VANKON.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at E. J. Slocum's drugstore, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

PRESS COMMENT.

It is pretty generally conceded that James A. Fee, while not a candidate, will receive the votes of his home delegation in the coming state convention for congress. Congressman Ellis will not be without his ardent supporters in the convention, among whom will be numbered four or five from this county, but it appears that he cannot secure the nomination the break is very likely to occur in favor of Judge Fee. The Republican would be well pleased with the nomination of Judge Fee for congress. It may prove a difficult matter to defeat Ellis, however. He has many warm friends in Eastern Oregon, has voted right on the money question, and is a sober, industrious and painstaking public servant. Not long ago he wrote one of his friends in this city to make no fight for him, as he did not want the nomination for congress if he or his friends were compelled to fight for it. Judge Fee if nominated would poll a big vote. While Mr. Fee and the Republicans do not belong to the same "push," the Republicans nevertheless has the highest regard for him and would like very much to see him on the next state ticket for congress or attorney general. Fee is head and shoulders above some of the men he trains with, and although he does not know it some of his best friends belong to that faction of the republican party known as the friends of John H. Mitchell.—Pendleton Republican.

The East Oregonian believes that the fittest men should be elected to fill the local offices, and all offices for that matter where fitness is a candidate can be determined. From this paper's point of view it is better to elect a fit man to office than an unfit one, no matter what may be his politics. Surely a fit republican is preferable to an unfit democrat or populist, or vice versa. The people elect men to office to serve them, not to preserve this or that political organization, and the individual voter who desires to "vote right" should cast his ballot accordingly. This blind following of the party machine is not creditable to intelligent men, otherwise than office seekers. It is good local government, economically administered, that we want in Umatilla county, and the men that will give the most reliable assurance that it will be provided are the ones who should be elected to office.—East Oregonian.

WEBFOOT STATE'S DISPLAY AT OMAHA.

PORTLAND, April 12.—Special correspondence to the Gazette.—Oregon will be much in evidence at the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition at Omaha this summer.

Unless all signs fail—and as yet signs of failure so far as Oregon is concerned have not appeared—every section of the state will be properly represented and interested in the display which the state board of commission will make at the city on the murky Missouri.

The success achieved at the Columbian Exposition is to be repeated on a far more extensive scale, and the advantages to be derived from the extensive advertising, it is thought, will be proportionately greater.

The funds for the Oregon display are pledged, there is over 6000 feet of space contracted for on the ground floor of the department building on which the first payment has been made and the public spirited people of the state are responding promptly to the calls for the money to defray expenses. The subscription bonds will be floated in all parts of the state and when the legislature meets it is expected that the money subscribed will be refunded. The estimated sum necessary for an adequate display is $20,000. On this it is designed to have applied a surplus of $18,000 left over from the state appropriation for the World's Fair at Chicago.

Although the time is short, everything is being pushed forward by the energetic commissioners and they are determined to be on hand at the opening of the exposition. The exhibits are well in hand and superintendent H. E. Doeh who successfully engineered the World's Fair display promises that he will carry off as many premiums as five years ago. The state and people are in much better condition for the undertaking and the mining and manufacturing interests are everywhere increased.

Mining being the important feature among the state displays the largest space, 1430 feet, is given to this. Horticulture comes next with 1200 feet; forestry 1200; agriculture 624; educational 640 feet. There will also be an "Oregon cabin" for state headquarters built in characteristic style and decorated with hundreds of Oregon views. Oregon is the only coast state which will be largely represented, Washington's commission being too slowly and failing to get space.

Baker, Umatilla, Grant and Union counties have taken the initiative in the proposition to be fully represented and also to raise funds. It was for the purpose of awakening the people to the vast importance of the grand display of Oregon's mineral resources at the Trans-Mississippi fair that the Oregon commission—appointed by Governor Lord—attended the mining and irrigation congress at Baker City. It was the first of the kind and was very successful.

The president of the newly organized mining and irrigation congress at Geiser contributed $250 cash to the exposition fund and a valuable collection of minerals. Ike Guter, owner of the Great Northern mine, near Canyon City, is second on the list, with a $100 contribution, and he will also donate for purposes of display about $3000 worth of minerals which have been on display in the Baker City congress. This is regarded as a very valuable acquisition to the Oregon commission's resources for the Trans-Mississippi fair.

The commissioners who visited Pendleton met with an enthusiastic reception and the Commercial association promptly pledged no less than $2500 from the great wheat country. Grant and Union have made cash contributions and Wasco will do a share. A list of contributors will be printed every month.

The Chamber of Commerce of Portland has agreed to co-operate with the Oregon commissioners and the business institutions and banks will raise about half the fund if the rest of the state responds. In this way, each by doing a share will secure success.

Southern Oregon's mineral fields are being explored by special representatives of the commission, for specimens. B. E. Hawley, in the Bohemia district, F. J. Perkins, at Jacksonville, A. J. Froelich, Mr. O. J. Olson, one of the commissioners at Grant's Pass, and others will visit all sections.

The commission appointed by Governor Lord to look after the state's interests consists of W. S. Mason, president; J. E. Haseltine, Henry E. Doeh, J. F. Batchelder and H. D. Imms, of Portland; C. C. Beckman, of Jacksonville; J. A. Wright, of Sparta; J. G. Dar, of Ollala; Phillip Metcalf and E. F. McCornack, of Salem; H. B. Miller and O.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and now I am well again. I know they saved my life and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at E. J. Slocum's drug store.

Demo-Pops Hatry.

On Saturday evening the nominees of the two conventions, democratic and populist, held a ratification at the opera house which was large and enthusiastic. Previous to gathering in the hall, there was a small procession on the street headed by the ladies' band. At the hall there was music by the band, male quartette and piano, Mrs. H. W. Bartholomew and Miss Cora Hart presiding at the instrument in a very pleasing manner. The different nominees made speeches, declaring their allegiance to the united platform and promising to faithfully perform their respective duties, if the dear people would elect them in June, and they all confidently expected would be the result of the union of forces as effected. Elder Swift preached a little populist doctrine and told the people how he loved every man on the ticket, while E. P. Greene spoke of "gentle" democratic doctrine, and said that this "united" platform intensely endorses. This was good news to the many populists present, no doubt. Hon. Henry Blackman, also, took time to tell the people that he was out of politics, but this was hardly necessary, in fact it was no matter of news to anybody, but being called upon, something was necessary to be said. However, Mr. Blackman expects to take some little part in the campaign, in order to help the populists succeed before the people in June. This will prove "love labor lost," in the humble opinion of the Gazette. However, the ratification was a success from several points of view and proved that there are many people and small boys yet left in this community who are able on occasions of this kind to make a great demonstration so far as noise is concerned.

Long Creek Eagle: Errett Hicks and

J. H. Snodgrass arrived in the city Thursday evening of last week on their return from the democratic state convention, departing the following morning for their home on the other side of the county. Mr. Hicks was successful in his efforts to secure the nomination for district attorney of the sixth judicial district, his candidacy being unanimously endorsed by the democrats, populists and silver-republicans.
