

FROM FOOT TO KNEE

Ohio Woman Suffered Great Agony From a Terrible Sore—Her Story of the Case, and Her Cure. For many years I was afflicted with a milk leg, and a few years ago it broke out in a sore and spread from my foot to my knee. I suffered great agony. It would burn and itch all the time and discharge a great deal. My health was good with the exception of this sore. I tried a great many kinds of salve, but some would irritate the sore so that I could hardly stand the pain. I could not get near the fire without suffering intensely. Some one sent me papers containing testimonials of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I told my husband I would like to try this medicine. He got me a bottle and I found it helped me. I kept on taking it until my limb was completely healed. I cannot praise Hood's Sarsaparilla enough for the great benefit it has been to me. It cleanses the blood of all impurities and leaves it rich and pure." MRS. ANNA E. EAKEN, Whittlesby, Ohio.

You can buy Hood's Sarsaparilla of all druggists. Be sure to get only Hood's.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic. Price 25c.

The first month's business of the Heppner-Canyon City stage line over-reached the expectation of Mr. Miller by one-half. Bailey & McCallum, agents for the Baker Canyon City line, acknowledge that since the new service was put on the Heppner line the falling off of their business has amounted to considerable. Mr. Miller agrees with the Gazette's policy of advocating a seven-day week service. Wedding Bells. Mr. Charles E. Matteson and Miss Belle French were united in marriage last evening at the residence of Mr. R. J. Howard, whose wife is a sister of the bride, by Judge Bartholomew, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. Mr. Matteson is fortunate in securing one of Heppner's prettiest young ladies, who was exceedingly popular with all. Mr. Matteson, having furnished a home in readiness for his bride, is now settled down to the life and enjoyments of a benedict. Albert H. Bea Married. Saturday afternoon a rumor was afloat that a wedding was about to take place, prompting the Gazette reporter to rustle in an endeavor to locate the enterprising couple, but in vain. Not until going to press could we gather in the necessary information for announcement. It seems that Saturday had been set aside as a day of recreation by those having the legal right of tying the nuptial knot in our city, and the groom, undaunted, procured a conveyance and proceeded to the city of Issa, where the local minister pronounced Albert H. Bea and Mrs. Ella Summers, man and wife. The many friends of the couple are inclined to suspect the respective officials for neglect of duty, in not being on hand to unite the twain, but they might tender them the usual demonstration of their approval and good wishes. The happy couple are now enjoying their honeymoon in the mountains.

A STARTLING CASARD.

Heppnerites Wildly Excited Over a Reported Band of Outlaws. Saturday afternoon horsemen came into town in posthaste with the report that horse-thieves were operating along Butter creek, and that the night before a band of fifty head had been hurried through the Little Pots, in the direction of the mountains back of Ukiah, supposed to be heading for the Walla Walla country. Congregated about these couriers many excited listeners suggested a mounted posse to follow at once. Sheriff Matlock was found, a consultation held, and as the sun disappeared below the western horizon he was in the saddle and off on the trail of the raiders. Under the cool shades of night his faithful steed reeled off mile after mile, bringing him to the field of operation of the supposed band of desperadoes. From ranch to ranch he canvassed for support, but no information other than "no and so to me so" could be obtained. Carefully scrutinizing the trails and roadways leading into the Little Pots, he failed to find the beaten trail of the marauders. Approaching the ranch of a reliable settler he finally gained the information that two parties, having from Pendleton, were rounding up horses belonging to a Pendleton owner, amounting in all to a half-dozen head. Tired and disgusted, the sheriff turned his horse's head in the direction of Heppner, and at the approach of evening he reigned up at the end of a "wild-goose chase". To those eager and anxiously awaiting details of a desperate conflict, the sheriff passed unnoticed by. After he had sufficiently recovered from the effects of a 100-mile ride, the Gazette reporter approached him, for the thrilling notes for a detailed account of his experiences with a desperate gang of raiders. His answer was: "Had those—fellows told me here, last night, what they told me on the ranch this morning, I never would have made the ride."

A CAMP-TENDER SHOT.

A Spanish Camp-Tender Killed by an American Herder. Mr. O. E. Farnsworth, the Rhea creek shepherd, was called to the telephone last evening by his daughter, who telephoned that a man had just arrived from their sheep camp, in the vicinity of Black Butte, with the report that the camp-tender, Spaniard, by name of Gavencich, had been shot by the herder, and the position was that he was dead. In an interview with Mr. Farnsworth, just as he was in readiness to start for the scene of the shooting, he could give us no further information, but expressed the opinion that the young man who did the killing would in all probability come to town and give himself up. Both men have, so far as he knows, been on amicable terms, and he seems at a loss to determine what could have possibly brought about the trouble. Sheriff Matlock dispatched a deputy to the camp and up to the time of going to press is awaiting a report from there. The man killed will be remembered as the person who made quite a demonstration in opposition to the feature of degrading the Spanish flag during the celebration of Dewey's victory here. We understand that the man killing him was an enthusiastic American, and it may be possible that a controversy arose in regard to the Spanish-American war.

Basket Meeting.

A thoroughly enjoyable basket meeting was held Sunday in the beautiful grove on Oscar Thompson's place on Butter creek. Rev. C. R. Howard of the M. E. South, preached the sermon of the morning service and Rev. Shelley of the Christian church held services during the afternoon. The congregation assembled from a considerable distance, the majority of whom came from Echo, Foster, Butter creek section and Heppner. The hospitality tendered the meeting by Mr. Thompson was in conformity with his unselfish disposition and not only his home, but larder and fruit orchards were at the disposal of the guests. The table spread was delicious, and abundant and sufficient for twice the attendance. The presence of Grandma Thompson, who had recovered for the occasion after a long siege of serious illness was duly appreciated by those present. Judge Bartholomew and wife were in attendance and report the meetings gaining in point of interest and popularity.

W. O. Gentry Returns.

We acknowledge a call from W. O. Gentry so well and favorably known by Heppnerites, who has just returned from Weiser, Idaho, where he went a few months since. About three weeks since, Mr. Gentry informs us, he experienced a complete paralysis of the right side, but owing to his physical strength he has so far recovered, that with the aid of crutches he gets about very readily. He is now on his way to the McDuffy springs, where, under their beneficial influences, he will no doubt be fully restored to his normal condition. After a short sojourn there he will proceed to Fox valley, Grant county, where he will make his future home.

Water for Fire Protection.

Pendleton is short of water for fire protection, owing to the extravagant use and waste by the property owners who irrigate out of hours. The importance of keeping enough water on hand for fire purposes is apparent to all. Heppner's supply of water is zealously guarded by the water company, the reservoir on the hill being kept full. But few towns of this size but what have been devastated by fire, and now that we have assured protection all should be interested in retaining an adequate amount of water in these reservoirs.
