Those Dreadful Sores

They Continued to Spread in Spite of Treatment but Now They are Healed - A Wonderful Work.

"For many years I have been a great sufferer with varicose veins on one of my limbs. My foot and limb became dreadfully swollen. When I stood up I could feel the blood rushing down the veins of this limb. One day I accidentally hit my foot against some object and a sore broke out which continued to spread and was exceedingly painful. I concluded I needed a blood purifier and I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. In a short time those dreadful sores which had caused me so much suffering, began to heal. I kept on faithfully with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a short time my limb was completely healed and the sores gave me no more pain. I cannot be too thankful for the wonderful work Hood's Sarsaparilla, has done for me." Mrs. A. E. GILSON, Hartland, Vermont.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best - in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

Mrs. Alice McNay, superintendent, announces a Sunday school temperance rally for next Sunday evening at the Christian church at 8 o'clock. All of the Sunday schools of the town will be represented. A very interesting program has been prepared. All are cordially invited to attend.

Wednesday evening an excited crowd congregated in front of the old City Hotel building, where for a few minutes a serious riot was imminent. It originated in fun, but was carried a little too far, exciting the ire of a business man in the block, who was about to declare war, when the disturbers of his peace concluded wisely to move on.

Mr. Frank Lee returned to Portland tonight with his wife. Mr. Lee reports a complete stagnation in the market and hopes that the near future will start the ball rolling again, when he will return to this point. Mr. Lee feels that the big auction sale of the Arlington Mills, in Massachusetts, of a million and a half dollars, is the biggest point.

The Marquam Grand, on Morrison street in the Marquam building, is under excellent management and the public will be royally entertained this winter. New companies and new faces will appear from time to time at this popular, first-class theatre of Portland, and when in Portland our denizens should not fail to take in some of the fine dramas that will be presented. 1f.

It is hardly necessary for us to call your attention to the advertisement of our new and enterprising merchants, Messrs. Brown & Stewart, it is before your eyes as "big as a meeting house". They are here to do business on a straightforward plan, have the goods you want with prices you can afford to pay. Now that fall and winter are after you, in order to give them a warm reception you must have clothes, blank etc., etc. Fill out your list and call on them.

The war is over, and the weather is now cool and delightful. When you feel in the mood drop in at the bowling alley and spend a pleasant hour and get some healthful exercise thrown in. This popular place of amusement is now under the management of Mr. J. H. Richardson, who intends to run it in a neat and thoroughly respectable manner. Although welcome at any time, Wednesday evenings will be specially reserved for the ladies. 2f.

The council at its last session elected Mr. George Thornton to the responsible position of city marshal. Mr. Thornton has already demonstrated his disposition to meet the requirements of his position, and has installed himself in the public favor by clearing the streets of the loose rock which had become a source of annoyance to every one. His energy is well known to the community and his disposition to take care of city property will be appreciated by the taxpayers.

Marshal Hager Resigns.
John Hager steps out of the city marshal's shoes in consideration of a situation more in accordance with his desires. Mr. Hager retires from the office with the best wishes of all. His consideration of those with whom he had to deal carried its weight, and while no rough-and-tumble incidents were placed to his credit, "he got there just the same."

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

That a certain note given by the undersigned to Mark T. Kady, for $174, dated June 23, 1898, payable four months after date, was obtained by and through false and fraudulent representations, the consideration thereof has wholly failed and said note is now held by said Kady contrary to his agreement to return the same. All persons are warned not to purchase said note and that the maker thereof will not pay the same.

Miss Leach's Return.
Miss Altha Leach returned on yesterday morning's train from Portland, where she went three weeks since for the purpose of selecting her fall stock of millinery goods. While there she had access to the leading millinery and dressmaking establishments of the metropolis, enabling her to select the very latest designs. Her goods are now arriving and from now until the date of the opening of her parlors, about the 15th, the public will have access to a stock of millinery "up to date" in its fullest sense. Miss Leach was fortunate in engaging a lady dressmaker whose reputation in Portland, for style, fitting and finish, has kept her constantly employed by the leading fashionable establishments of Portland for eight years. The public is cordially invited to call and inspect the various styles.

A Lively Runaway.
Wednesday afternoon John Chrisman, of Long Creek, left his four horse team attached to a large wagon with tail, standing for a moment, while attending to some business on Main street when they took advantage of his absence and started down the street at a rattling pace. Mr. Chrisman catching the trail wagon made his way to the front to find that his lead lines were trailing in the dust. He made an effort by setting both brakes and pulling on the wheelers to stop the team, but well under way he made no impression on them, and realizing that a general smashup was in store for the outfit parted company by jumping. At that moment Eugene Jones on a good quarter horse was losing no time in pursuit. Getting to the front he, with his eyes, soon had a "mix-up" that meant dollars to Chrisman. The team, with assistance of others, was straightened out, a circle made and headed toward town some back under the influence of the "bud", apparently dissatisfied with the windup of what might have been an exciting finish.

GRAND JURY REPORT.
Following is the report of the grand jury to Judge Lowell at the conclusion of their work yesterday afternoon:

HON. STEPHEN A. LOWELL
We, your grand jury for the September term of court for 1898, beg to report as follows:

We have been in session three days and have examined nine witnesses. We have found two true bills of indictment and two not true bills.

We have examined the offices and books of record of the county clerk, sheriff and county treasurer and find the offices kept in orderly condition and the books and records neatly and orderly kept in a first-class condition, as far as we could discover.

We have examined the county jail and find the same neat and clean. We would respectfully recommend that in order to make the jail warmer the same be tightly enclosed around the foundation; also that the jail building be painted as well as the county court house.

We have examined the poor house and find the same neat and clean, with three inmates comparatively well contented.

We beg to thank your honor for the kindness and courtesy shown us, and to commend the fair and able manner in which the business of the court has been transacted.

We beg to thank our honorable district attorney for his valuable assistance and his kindness shown us while in session.

We beg to thank Mr. George Thornton and Mr. E. J. Sperry for their kind and prompt attention as our bailiffs.

Having transacted all business before us, we beg to be dismissed.
Dated this 8th day of September, A. D. 1898.

JULIUS KRIVELY, Foreman.
D. H. JENNINGS, Clerk.

Senator George C. Brownell was compelled to return to Oregon City at the conclusion of his case before the court, and took Wednesday night's train out.

EWING CLEARED.

An Eloquent Plea Made by an Able Attorney.

Those fortunate enough to hear Senator Brownell's final address to the jury in defense of his client, Wm. B. Ewing, charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon a man named Fitz, a sheepherder, were deeply impressed. The senator is famed not only for his oratory but for his ability to draw logical conclusions, and, in consequence, not a person in the room at the conclusion of his touching appeal but whose sympathy went out to the defendant and his little family as they sat there at his side. Carrying his listeners into the sacred precincts of the humble little home, this man felt justified in protesting, for the sake of his wife and innocent babes, a feeling of emotion overcame stalwart men, and, glancing about the room, many were the eyes that were moistened with tears. Particularly noticeable in his talk was the absence of bitter denunciation of witnesses and opposing counsel, so often resorted to by attorneys in their efforts to gain a point, and so distasteful to listeners.

Prosecuting Attorney Bean handled his side of the case in an able manner, but the verdict of the jury was already framed, and upon their return to the presence of the court after a brief stay in the jury room with the verdict of "not guilty," the judge pronounced Mr. Ewing a free man. The appreciation of himself and family can be better imagined than described.

The speech of Father Abraham in the last number of Poor Richard's Almanac, published by Benjamin Franklin in 1757, "contains the wisdom of many ages and nations assembled and formed into one connected discourse." When first published it attracted world wide attention and was copied in all of the newspapers in America and England and translated into many foreign languages. Would you not like to read it? OLLIE PUYEAR EXONERATED.

The Grand Jury Falls to Find a True Bill Against Him.

Not only our immediate community but the entire country are awaiting the report of the action of the grand jury in case of Ollie Puyear, the American boy who was compelled to defend his life against the vicious assault of a Spanish campfollower with an axe by shooting him dead. The Spaniard developed an ugly disposition toward the young man owing to an expression of his enthusiasm over American naval victories at the beginning of the war. The grand jury's return of not a true bill was the prediction of the officers of the law who were in attendance at his preliminary trial. The straightforward appearance and conduct of the young man had gained the confidence of all with whom he came in contact, and as Sheriff Matlock received numerous letters from the most reliable citizens of the locality from which the boy came recently in Iowa and Missouri, such as county judge, bankers, attorneys and merchants, vouching for the good character of the boy and his family, he felt that his judgment in the beginning had not been at fault. These letters in the hands of the jury together with the testimony at hand justified them in clearing young Puyear.
