OLD HUNDRED.

E. R. SMITH in Carter's Monthly.

You kin talk about yer concerta that you're havin' now-a-days. Your opera from Wagner, an' your musical extravas.

There's none of em that's in it for a minute, I allow. With that grand old tune, "Old Hundred," that we sing so long ago.

Most any Sunday evening when the air was calm an' still. An' the golden light of sunset was a-lingerin' on the hills.

You'd hear, as down the street you walked beneath the maples fair, "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow," ring out upon the air.

You hed to stop an' listen, an' when you heard the words, "Praise Him, all creatures here below," maybe you turned towards

The door that stood wide open, invitin' you to come. An' lay your ains on Jesus, and seek a heavenly home.

In through the uncurtained winders the sunset radiance stole. An' heaven's peace descendin' with gladness filled your soul;

You jined the invocation, "Praise Him, oh, praise Him, oh, praise the Son, an' praise the Holy Ghost."

Long years have passed; my sun o' life sink in the western sky. The twilight shadows deepen, the night o' death draws nigh;

Soon to the life beyond the veil my soul must take its way. An' in that hour sing once again above my blissful day:

Praise God, from whom all blessings flow, Praise Him, all creatures here below, Praise Him above, ye heavenly host, Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

GREAT GANG OF GRAFFTERS.

Hundreds Were Robbed at Dayton and Over $25,000 Secured From Ritzville "Buckers."

Walla Walla, Wash. When Lamon Bros' circus was in the city last week Chief Kaufman notified the management that if any attempt was made to open a shell game or other robbing device that he would promptly close out their "peanut" stand and put the "graffers" in the cooler. The circus people saw that the chief meant business and orders were issued giving the large gang of "graffers" a holiday. As a consequence everything passed off quietly and not a complaint was made by anyone attending the show, about being robbed.

Had the officers in other places in this state been as firm and attentive to their duties, many a poor man would have been saved his hard earned shooks and the howl of indignation which is going up in the wake of the circus would never have been heard. At Dayton, where the circus was after leaving here, the next stop, "buckers" to the tune of $2,970 were found. The Dayton Courier-Press says of the harvest reaped there:

"More than a hundred citizens are known to have been robbed and one man badly beaten just because he objected to a showman stealing a $20 gold piece from his pocket book, and yet not a single arrest was made. Two warrants were sworn out and placed in the sheriff's hands and the dozens of complaints made to the city and county officers and yet not a man was apprehended. The robbery commenced shortly after 11 o'clock and continued without hardly any intermission until the show was well under way—possibly 2:30 in the afternoon. If there is a single individual with this combination who would hesitate a second at stealing the last farthing from a blind unfortunate, the manager of the show will discharge him just as soon as he shows the first evidence of his desire to be reasonably square. The man who has charge of this band of robbers, and who sells himself as attorney for the show," Mr. Ford, is probably one of the greatest criminals on foot, not excepting those in the various penitentiaries. Yet he furnished protection in this country Saturday while hirelings boldly robbed and assaulted old residents and taxpayers. If these hirelings could not steal a man's money behind a "shell game" table they brazenly snatched it from his purse."

A dispatch from Ritzville to the Spokesman Review says of the operations there:

"Two men with their shells and portable tables lured the good people of Adams county to the tune of $2,700. It was the most blood-stained thing ever heard of. Several county 'graffers' were employed as cappers, receiving in return free passes and lemonade.

"One young German was capping for the evening, winning hand over hand, when his brother struck the game and lost $100. Cases of that kind were frequent.

"A number of boys who had just been paid their harvest wages lost all they had. Several showmen said this evening that it was the softest they had ever struck. One well-to-do German lost $150 and then tried to borrow $150 from a merchant, the bank being closed.

"The German boys who acted as cappers feel very sick tonight. Not a person will recognize them, not even old friends."

WHEAT IN RUSSIA.

A Distinguished American Says There is a Big Shortage.

John W. Brookwater, the political economist of Springfield, Ohio, who is traveling in Russia, writing on August 14th gives a gloomy account of the condition of that country through which he passed. He says: "Throughout the whole distance of the Ural mountains, from Moscow, nearly 1,000 miles, the crops at best were very poor, but in five governments, of which Sumars is the center and embracing a region fully 500 miles square the crops, even grass, were an absolute failure. In the government of Sumars, twice as large as Belgium, they were burned out, and the farmers would not raise enough to supply one-fifth of the population. This stricken district is the Volga region, and the finest spring wheat and cereal section in Russia. It usually produces immense crops and generally a large exportable surplus." As the population of that region is about 12,000,000, a large importation of grain will be required to supply the necessities of the people.

Mr. Brookwater was informed by a Russian official that they expected to import into those provinces not less than 30,000,000 bushels of grain this year; that the stocks in Russia are completely exhausted, and with the stocks of the world so completely depleted, he says he cannot see how wheat under the circumstances is to remain down. This being true, and there is no reason to doubt Mr. Brookwater's statement, the wheat growers here have much to encourage the belief that, with him, they cannot see how wheat is to remain down at the present prices. Under the conditions which exist for a large home consumption, Russia will have little or none to spare for export.

Spokane Fruit Fair.

There will be some fine individual exhibits at the Spokane fruit fair this year—exhibits which will show what can be raised on one farm. There have been some splendid prizes offered for these. For the best display of green fruit raised by one person or firm there will be awarded a Jones chain drive mower of the value of $50. This will be a coveted prize for the farmers. For the best display of grain, grasses, roots and vegetables grown by one person a Standard six-foot mower will be awarded. It is worth $75 and was donated by the Spokane Implement company. Through an error this in the catalogue is given as a Champion mower.

There were two or three fine individual exhibits at the fruit fair last year and it is probable with these temptin' offers there will be more this year.

Oregon Boys Honored.

The Oregon boys at Manila are the envy of the whole army. Being well drilled and well equipped and a fine lot of fellows they were selected as Dewey's reserves. Herbert K. Hall, of Salem, writing home to his parents, says: "What we boys hate is that we won't get to go to the front, as the Oregon regiment is Dewey's reserve, we being in charge of the commissary stores. We are the best drilled and the best shots. General Anderson Dewey and that gentleman said we were the only regiment on the island that he could trust, and so it is an honor to be put where we are."

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well, and does her own housework and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles sent by mail.
