The Gazette.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1898.

ONE of the very important features to progress necessary in county is the fact that our farms should be smaller, and, of course, more thoroughly cultivated. We have at different times advocated the division of large tracts of land into small farms. We believe if this were done, so that one man would own not more than forty acres, and half that amount all the better, that we would have the most prosperous section of country in the state, and where there are now many hamlets and small towns we would have fairly good-sized towns of 500 to 3,000 population in the country. The fact of the increased and more thrifty population in the country would bring along all the accompanying conditions to make this possible. It would bring about a state of business conditions that would demand and naturally produce well improved county roads, and all other necessary improvements of a similar nature for the same reasons. We believe the increasing demand for the product of the farm and a slight increased demand for real estate of that class will have a natural tendency to cause more thorough cultivation, and to accomplish this smaller tracts of land will be in demand. In many cases in this county the prices paid for small tracts of land have been too high, and the terms too severe, and as a natural consequence individual hardship has resulted. The adoption of this method in our county would be of vast benefit from an individual source of reasoning, and naturally would equally benefit the county in a public and general sense.—St. Helens' Mist.

MR. ELLIS MINOR HONORED

As An Oregon Pioneer and Successful Business Man of Our State.

Yesterday morning's Oregonian contained a life-like portrait of Ellis Minor, our respected fellow citizen, and short biographical sketch of both himself and wife, who have been so long and prominently identified with the growth of Heppner and development of the surrounding country. This manner of recognition of the pioneers of the state who hand to the present generation a territory under a high state of cultivation, teeming with products, the result of a life of hardships, experiments and self denial, on their part, by the leading newspaper of the state is commendable from the fact that it causes the young people and present business element of our state to stop and consider the character and history of those who are entitled to their appreciation and gratitude. Following is the Oregonian's tribute to Mr. Minor and his estimable wife:

Among the pioneers of Morrow county, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Minor are two of the best known and most universally esteemed. Mr. Minor was born in Green county, Pennsylvania, June, 1832. He moved to Shueyville, Ia., in 1837, where he was married to Miss Anna M. Hill, who was born in Bedford county, Pennsylvania, in 1839. In 1864 they crossed the plains, making their first stop at Waconda, Marion county, Or. In 1872 they went to what was then Umatilla county, settling on Rhea creek, where they lived five years, when they moved to Heppner, then a place of only six or seven small buildings. The growth of Heppner was rapid, and Mr. Minor built what has ever since been known as the City hotel, which he conducted for a number of years. Mr. and Mrs. Minor have nine children—seven daughters and two sons. One son, Oscar, is a prominent stockraiser, and the other, Arthur, a successful merchant of this place.

A PUBLIC LIBRARY FOR HEPPNER.

The representations of the H. Parmelee Library Co. are here and the people of Heppner now have the opportunity of securing a station.

The plans of this concern are indorsed by the leading educators and library people all over the country and they pronounce it "The grandest conception of the century."

They bring 1,000 volumes of choice selected works, which are accessible to members the same as a city library. The membership costs but $5 for five years, which makes it easily within the reach of all, and none should miss it. The incorporative title is The University of the Traveling Library, and besides the library features spoken of, the University features are most commendable. No family can afford to be without a membership and every person in the community should inquire fully into the plan. Besides the library and university features the members have the following privileges:

1. The privilege of buying any book published at wholesale price.

2. Free subscription to "The Library Bulletin," the official magazine of the University of the Traveling Library. This magazine is high class and the regular subscription price is $1 per year.

3. Musical privilege, which enables each member to purchase any music published at a discount of 50 to 90 per cent.

4. The rebinding of books and magazines at a discount of 20 per cent over the lowest established prices.

Access to the library is alone worth much more than the cost.

Remember, the people here must cooperate in order to secure this.

LATEST TELEGRAPH.

Brief War News, Telegraphic News Notes, Etc., Etc.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 24.—The Belle Meade shooting tournament closed today. In the closing day's events J. A. R. Elliott won a 20-bird match from J. A. Cling. The special match for the championship of the United States, 100 live birds, $100 a side between Rolla Heikes, of Dayton, O., in defense of the Cast Iron championship medal and William Elliston, of Nashville, was won by Heikes, killing 96 birds to Elliston's 94. This is the fourth time Heikes has won the medal.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct 25.—The Union Tobacco company of America, capitalized at $10,000,000, filed a certificate of incorporation with the secretary of state today. The company proposes to manufacture and sell tobacco in all forms. The directors are Francis G. Ingersoll and Charles M. Billings, of New York, and William A. Coleman, of Brooklyn.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Since the announcement has been made that the Oregon Short Line is shortly to be consolidated with the Union Pacific, competitors of the latter road fear the action will result in the closing of the Ogden gateway to their traffic and that the Union Pacific will again insist that all business destined to points on the Oregon Short Line be turned over to them at the Missouri river. It is now authoritatively stated that there are no grounds for these fears. The Ogden gateway will remain open as it is at present and the Vanderbilt plan of gateways at all junction points will be adhered to.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—The Catholic Young Men's National Union opened its annual convention in this city today with delegates present from many cities, including large numbers from Boston, Trenton, New York, Providence, Chicago, Albany and St. Louis. After the formal organization of the convention the delegates adjourned in a body to the cathedral, where pontifical mass was celebrated. After the services the gathering reconvened and spent the day listening to the reading of a number of papers concerning the history, growth and work of the national organization.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Police Judge Conlan has refused to surrender to the military authorities Private John Whiton of the Tennessee volunteers, who was charged with assaulting a woman in her own home. The judge said the guard-house had no terrors for such a man, and he proposed to make an example of him. Whiton was convicted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Catherine Sophie Bertha De Giraud D'Agay, an aged French woman, who came here from Vancouver, B. C., on the steamship walla Walla, has been refused a landing by Commissioner North on the ground that she is liable to become a public charge. From documents found in Mrs. D'Agay's possession, the officials of the immigration bureau conclude that she is an anarchist. The woman says she is a French royalist and lost all her money in British Columbia mining properties. She claims to be a cousin of the French consul general in New York.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Naval officers who have visited Havana harbor recently have reported that the fine new steel floating drydock, which was purchased by the Spanish government in England, and towed to Havana just prior to the outbreak of the war, cannot be moved, owing to neglect on the part of Spanish officers, and also to their inability to properly manage the dock. The structure is large enough to take in any of our battle-ships.

State News.

Fred O. Rose, the O. R. & N. locomotive engineer who died last Friday of typhoid fever, at his home at La Grande, was buried in Lone Fir cemetery, Portland, Sunday afternoon, by the Maccabees.

While picking apples at Roseburg, J. Johnston, a United Brethren minister, fell from a ladder about 12 feet. He broke his arms at the wrists and was seriously bruised about the head and face. Mr. Johnston is over 70 years of age. He is a veteran of the civil war.

The death of R. S. Halley, an old pioneer resident of Grande Ronde valley, occurred at his home near Island City Sunday morning, October 23, 1898. Mr. Halley has been on the sick bed for several months and his death was not unexpected. He settled in the Grande Ronde in 1864.

It is reported that some Portland prospectors have discovered rich gold deposits on Upper Fall creek, about 45 miles from Eugene. They are now cutting a trail from the main road to the mine, a distance of 10 miles.

W. H. Gonsen, postmaster at Sweet Home, has been arrested on the charge of embezzling funds of the office. He is known to be short $1,257 on money order business. He took charge of the office last July, but made no returns to the government, but appropriating the proceeds for himself. It is also said that he has misappropriated several hundred dollars belong to the Maccabees. He was held in $1,500 bonds, and will be taken to Portland for trial. He is a young man of good family connections. Other persons are supposed to have profited by his defalcations.

MARRIED.

Hicks—McBroom.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McBroom, in Mountain valley, by Rev. A. L. Thoroughman at 11 a. m. October 25, 1898, Daniel P. Hicks and Miss Jessie F. McBroom. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of relatives and invited guests. After nuptials, congratulations, good wishes, etc., the guests were invited to the dining room where a bounteous banquet was prepared to which all did ample justice. After dinner amid the good wishes, blessings and tears, of friends and relatives, the young couple took their departure for Weston their future home. Mr. Hicks is a prosperous young farmer of Weston where he is well and favorably known. Miss McBroom is also well and favorably known in Weston where she attended school and made many warm friends. Mr. Hicks is building an attractive and commodious residence for the reception of his new bride.

A Monster Eagle.

Harry Phillips reports the killing of an immense bald headed eagle on the hill above town, a species entirely foreign to this country, by Berney Gaunt, who brought him from the clouds with the fifth shot from a large caliber repeating rifle. Before Mr. Phillips reached the bird, it had been mutilated by a party who was in advance of him, the head, wings and claws having been cut off. Mr. Phillips is authority on birds, and he claims it to have been at least four times the dimensions of our local eagles, and capable of carrying off a good sized calf. Had the boy understood its value as a specimen he could have realized his spending money for the winter for it.

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is a strengthening food and tonic, remarkable in its flesh-forming properties. It contains Cod-Liver Oil emulsified or partially digested, combined with the well-known and highly prized Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, so that their potency is materially increased.

What Will It Do?

It will arrest loss of flesh and restore to a normal condition the infant, the child and the adult. It will enrich the blood of the anemic; will stop the cough, heal the irritation of the throat and lungs, and cure incipient consumption. We make this statement because the experience of twenty-five years has proven it in tens of thousands of cases. Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion.
