REDUCING THE STAFF.

The New Shah of Persta Content with

But Sixty Wives. The new shah of Persia has been reducing what the Figaro calls "the feminine staff of the palace" at Teheran. He has kept only 60 wives, and finds the total sufficient for dignity and within the limits of a wise economy, says the sons; and here we have the usual inequality of the sexes, always at its worst when polygamy exists. Whether Muzaffer-ed-Din is happy though married, and much married, the record does not state, but things seem to show that polygamy is on the decline in the Persian court. The last shah, in spite of his predilection for western habits, was as lord of the harem an eastern in heart and soul. He had in the seraglio at Teheran the magnificent total of 1,720 wives, who now are widows. In the new American Bible of the women a passage is denounced with special bitterness by the feminists of the day It is the one in Genesis where men are called the sons of God and women are the daughters of men. In the case of the late shah, one son of the Divine was maintaining 1,720 daughters of the earthly. Surely this was a conscientious effort to make up in quantity what was wanting in quality.

Tedious Work of Old Bookmakers.

During the twelfth and thirteenth centuries monks frequently isolated themselves from the world and reproduced the Bible in illuminated manuscript. The work was necessarily slow and in no instance was it accomplished in less than 35 years. Guido de Jars was a producer of the illuminated manuscripts and a beautiful manuscript and a beautiful manuscript and a beautiful manuscript and a beautiful manuscript and a beautiful manuscript. useripts and a beautiful specimen of his work was sold along with the books of Sir W. Burrell in 1790. This copy of the Bible had occupied half a century in its production. A note in the beginning of the manuscript in Jars' handwriting indicates that he began his task in 1244 and did not conclude it till 1294.

A wreck at sea is not the only place there a life line is of importance.

There is a life line for the sick, as well as for the drowning man. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is not a cure all, but it is a scientific medicine that goes to the fountain head of a number of serious and fatal diseases. When a man gets seriously sick, he can generally be cured by the right course of treatment. The treatment that cures many obstinate ery "accomplishes all these things.

"A young man lay pale and motionless upon (what neighbors called) his dying bed. Disease of the lungs, liver complaint, kidney trouble, and pleurisy were fast hastening him to the grave. The doctors had given him up to die. The neighbors said, 'he cannot live.' 'Oh, I would not care to die, he said, 'were it not for leaving my dear wife and little child, but I know that I must die.' A brother had presented him with three bottles of medicine, but he had no faith in 'patent medicines' but, after the doctors had gvien him up to die and he had banished every hope of recovery, he said to his wife, 'dear wife, I am going to die, there can be no harm now in taking that medicine. I will begin its use at once.' He did begin to use it and at first he grow worse, but soon there came a charge nlowly but surely he got better.
