WHEAT.

In actual wheat shipments, Portland handled 76.68 per cent of all that have been moved from the Northwest since the season opened, compared with 62.4 last season, Tacoma and Seattle falling back from 37.6 per cent for the first nine months of the season of 1898-99 to 22.32 the current season. This material gain of Portland's is due to the superior advantages for selling and handling the wheat. Portland has the finest wheat docks and warshongs of the superior of the current season.
