The Hood River region is a great fruit country, and an interesting pen picture of it has been published by S. F. Blythe, editor Hood River Glacier, and E. R. Bradley. The matter is written from a conscientious standpoint and is attractively set off with half tones from photographs of local institutions. It is a good advertisement for that section.

GENERAL GAYETY.

Portland is at the top notch of its carnival season, and representatives of the whole Pacific Northwest are there, making the affair a grand success. A warm welcome is extended to all visitors, and the impression is strengthened that Portland is the commercial metropolis of the Pacific Northwest, as is Heppner of the great interior Territory; scoured basis—Montana and Wyoming, fine medium and fine, 17

Portland is a grand, good city, and she has every reason to be proud of herself and the northwest to be proud of her and her institutions.

Speaking of the renewed abuse of Senator Hanna, J. T. Atterholt, of Conn., said: "They tried that four years ago without success, and it seems almost incredible that they should repeat the mistake. Heppner is the largest shipping point in the United States for wool raised right in its own neighborhood. And Heppner pays the biggest prices for wool as the market goes.

The presses at both Heppner warehouses have been pretty busy, and have recently squeezed up 5 carloads for Geo. Fell to ship to Hartford and 5 for Frank Lee for Boston.

Robert Hynd says that the two Heppner warehouses have handled 3 million pounds of wool this season, and a half million pounds are still on the ranches and sure to come to Heppner.

The market here is at a standstill and all buyers have left except George Fell, who has received a telegram from his principal at Hartford as follows: "Market weaker; prospect of marked decline; we anticipate lower prices; buy

At a Moderate Cost.

Economy can be practiced here in the purchase of your necessaries in the Boot and Shoe line. We crowd all the "quality" possible in the smallest possible compass of "price." We never lose sight of "quality." That is the first consideration with us. We deal only with the most reliable manufacturers, for the reason that we can get the goods that we can recommend to our customers.

Men's Boots and Shoes

We have the largest stock in town by long odds. There are some seamless shoes here for $2.50 that are proving themselves special values. They can't rip. The whole upper is one solid piece of leather. They are, of course, for heavy wear. In the dress shoe we can show you an exceptionally full line running from $2.50 to $5. Heavy shoes run from $1.25 to $4.

Where We Shine Is in Children's Shoes.

We have the exclusive sale of the "Aetas" and "Sterling" Shoes for Boys, Misses and Children.
