Now the candidate is out of date. The crops are looking fine. It is a treat to view the wheat.

Here and There

Stove-pipe profanity will soon be in order, for fall is coming and more or less household reorganizing must be done.

The big platform at the Henry Heppner warehouse is being braced and made stronger, to hold up the wealth of wheat being stacked upon it.

F. C. Friedrichs is starting in to make a nice place of his new home near the depot. He has a well down 15 feet, and will plant lots of fruit and shade trees.

Flowers and trees and trees and flowers will work wonders in the appearance of a home, all of which is shown in the pretty places of Postmaster Vaughan and W. P. Scrivner.

Weas Marlatt came in Monday from the Minor & Marlatt cow-camp near the North Fork of the John Day. Weas says that there has been recent rains in streaks, and where it struck, new grass is springing up.

Joe Luckman has received a letter from his captender near the Greenhorn range, saying that sheep were doing well, and that there had been no trouble between herders and settlers.

Mrs. Phil Cohn and children, who have been enjoying life among her people at her old home in San Francisco, is expected home this week.

G. W. Phelps is now settled in his new office on May street, near P. O. Borg's.

A public benefactor is the man who makes a tree grow, and Pap Simonds has made several grow on what need to be a barren bench.

The Fair received over a ton of knit underwear in one shipment last week. Waldron Rhea returned home Monday evening from his Portland visit.

That veteran traveler, Martin Anderson, who has been so long contented with a quiet life in Heppner, made a trip to Portland the past week, and is now glad to be back home.

Helms' sweet pickles at Bishop's. Drop in and see us. Will tell you why you should get your blackberries for canning now.

With jingling bells on their leaders came in Sunday long strings of freight wagons from the great interior. Monday they loaded up at the warehouses of Heppner and pulled out with full goods on their long trip of over 100 miles.

Tom Morgan, the veteran who looks no older now than when he was running the Canyon City stage through ambushes of hostile Snake Indians 35 years ago, is now enjoying and sharing with his neighbors fine fruit from the orchard he started with his own hands.

We are the grocers in the city directory of merchants. Matlock & Hart. The camper is reminded of lots of things he must have when he sees the big stock of the Ed. R. Bishop Co.

T. R. Howard's store has everything in the grocery line needed by city trade. The growing hops on Tom Quaid's porch prove that this is a fairly-good hop country, but sheep beat that business up one side and down the other.

Mrs. W. W. Smead has been appointed authorized agent for several standard and valuable books, and will deliver them here in good time for winter reading.

Willard Herren had a sort of water-spout at his place on Lower Smile, but now has the damage all fixed up.

LOCAL NOTES.

Home ties were so strong that Chas. M. Jones concluded not to return to Dawson at present, and has settled down in Heppner and gone into business with J. L. Gibson.

While hoisting hawks Saturday onto the top floor of his large carriage repository, Park Garrigues received a very severe blow on the side of the head on account of the breaking of the windlass.

Maine has had another election, and went Republican by its usual large majority.

A pair of horses attached by their harness made a frantic dash through town Monday, but were caught by Mr. Ballenbrook, who pursued them on horseback.

Don't forget to remember that P. O. Borg is Morrow county's leading jeweler, and advertises and substantiates the fact.

When you want something for lunch in the way of canned meats go to Bishop's.

Leaders in the business. Fresh fruits and groceries. Come and see. Matlock & Hart.

Canned and dried fruits should both be taken along when you go camping, and the place to get them is at T. R. Howard's.

The Prineville Jockey Club is arranging to exhibit sheep and cattle on Oct. 25-29.

Choice bacon and flour at Matlock & Hart's.

Clean newspapers to cover shelves, put under carpets and line houses are sometimes scarce, but just now there is a full supply on sale at the Gazette office at 15 cents a package.

Go to Bishop's for fresh vegetables. Sample of the Demar photo given with purchases at Matlock & Hart.

The steel door of the county jail, which had to be sent back to the foundry at St. Louis for repairs is home again. It was a particular piece of work, and caused costs footing up to $50. The Pauly Jail Co. is not now threatening to pay $5000 reward for men breaking out. And if you are thinking of buying a jail, don't notice the reward part of the inducement.

P. O. Borg, Morrow county's leading jeweler, says that he enjoyed his trip to Portland by way of a change, and saw 20,000 people at the circus. But rain drizzled onto Friday's fine floral parade.

Harry Jones' sheep are being run by Frank Merrill between Black Butte and the Jumbo mine. Harry has not seen them for three months, but knows that they are increasing in weight, for neighbors passing through have several times seen that their trax sank deeper into the mud at creek crossings.

Frank Borg, a young man who was raised in Heppner, is enjoying a visit with his parents here. For more than a year he has lived in the flourishing city of Missoula, Montana, and likes the place very much.

In Wallowa valley cutting the second crop of alfalfa has been very slow work on account of thunder showers, which have also delayed threshing.

Old Susanville, southeast from Heppner, is going to some day astonish the world with the mineral wealth of its surrounding hills. An expert recently returned from there reports that he examined a section of mineral country one and a half miles wide by three miles in length, the country rock being slate, porphyry, granite and cyanite in separate dykes, showing evidently some natural cataclysm or terrific upheaval some time in the past.

The war department has furnished 10,000 tents and 50,000 rations to the sufferers at Galveston. From all over the country contributions are arriving. The circulating value of gold dust in Dawson has been reduced from $16 to $15 an ounce.

FAMED FOR FICTION.

Owen Wister, of Philadelphia, who has a national reputation as one of the best writers of Western fiction, is now honoring Heppner with a visit, and is stopping at the Palace Hotel. Mr. Wister's striking sketches of life among the Indians, cowboys and frontier soldiers have always been vigorously and interestingly written, and have attracted world-wide attention.

NOW FOR GOOD FLOUR.

W. L. Houston, a pioneer resident of Heppner and a most energetic worker, has returned and taken the responsible position of manager of the Heppner Flouring Mill.

Since leaving Heppner Mr. Houston has had 5 years' experience in first-class valley mills, and thoroughly understands the business. He begins his new work here by tearing down the old mill frame and putting up a new addition 20x46 feet, and will add new machinery and has engaged a practical miller.

The mill has already bought several thousand bushels of wheat and wants much more, generally paying a little above the market price. Mr. Houston says that Morrow county wheat this year is of the best quality he has seen anywhere.

The Heppner Mills are now going to be a success, and the flour will be so good that there will be no necessity for bringing in a sack of foreign flour. The people should rally in favor of home industry.

WHEAT WANTED.

The Heppner Flouring Mill Company is now in the market to buy wheat, and is paying the top price for choice wheat. See the Heppner Mill Company before storing or selling your wheat.
