Joe said that for 4 years his conscience had been bothering him about $6 be owed at Dave Herren's store for flour. It was taunting him and giving him a tired tum-tum, so he came back to pay the debt, and did so.

After that, as there were no more Indian wars or raids, the Indians were again allowed to t-avel through the Heppner Hills as they had done for 16,000 years, which is as far back as any of the present ones can remember. The tracks made by their ancestors before that have been trodden out by white men's stock.

WHEAT.

Chas. Johnson, the well-known wheatouver, was in Heppner this week, and s well posted on conditions in the grain-growing belt of Morrow county.

Mr. Johnson says that during the last ten days 50,000 bushels of wheat have been sold in Morrow county at 41 to 44

The largest deal was at Douglas, warehouses, and that farmers will be kept bosy bauling wheat all winter.

Some of the largest farmers in Mor row county say that they will hold from 1000 to 5000 sacks of wheat until spring. There are stil about 5000 sacks on the ground at Ione, but it is being reduced by shipment.

The Oregonian's report says:

The market has been in bad shape for past week, and the local market has reflected the weakness in other quarters although an easier feeling in freights bas prevented the dec'ine extending to that they had not had much luck at limits reached in other markets. Prevailing weakness is because there is apparently much more in sight than is needed for immediate requirements, and for anything beyond that there is a lack of speculative sentiment, which in the past has been such s potent factor 10 advancing prices. Shipments for the current mouth will be lighter than usual for November, joke Joe played on the Indian agent and as some ships were delayed in arriving, port stocks are getting close to the largest on record. There is quite a fleet of ships due, and nearly all of keep out of the Beppner Hills, and they them will arrive so as to load early in December.

The freight market is stationary. One ship was takeu at 42s 6d, but this rate loes not fit well with the foreign market in present conditions, and farmers' ideas somewhat inflated again. Little wheat can be bought for less than 54 cents for Walla Walla, and this figure is not sufficiently attractive to loosen up anything like round lots. Bluestem is nominal at about 56 cents. Valley is not selling in this market, the interior mills taking up all that is offering at much better prices than exporters can
