time is steadily drawing nearer when manufacturers will be compelled to increase the volume of their purchases. The wool trade is hoping and waiting on the developments in the goods market. They have felt that as soon as manufacturers get some fair orders on their books they would purchase some sizable parcels of wool. As a matter of fact, the possibilities of the manufacturers' of the processibilities of the manufacturers' is seen as it runs over new ground. Had it been any one else but the Queen of England it would have been plain long ago that the malady was senile decay. And that truthfully is what afflicts Victoria. But for her physical breaking up of the past week, an attack of paralysis in the left side, it would have been possible for the court and the royal household to have kept from the people knowledge of her mental decay for an indefinite period. For the Queen had lapses of intellectual vigor, but these were more distressing

The Queen's strong constitution manifested the first symptoms of serious deher army. She expected nothing but a series of quick, easy victories. She felt that she had been deceived.

It was at this time that the Queen had the fits of crying in an aggravated form which immediately preceded her present critical illness.

In December her feebleness rapidly increased, with the characteristics of senile decay.
