

Contagious Blood Poison

There is no poison so highly contagious, so destructive and so destructive. Don't be too sure you are cured because all external signs of the disease have disappeared, and the doctor says you are well. Many persons have been cured with Mercury and Iodine for months or years, and pronounced cured—to realize when too late that the disease was only covered up—Like Bogots Like, drives from the surface to break out again, and to their nostrils and mortification find those nearest and dearest to them have been infected by this loathsome disease. For no other poison is so surely transmitted from parent to child as this. (Gives a bad case of Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrophulous or severe skin disease, an old sore or ulcer developing in middle life, can be traced to blood poison contracted in early life.)

The Sin of the Parent. In early life it remains smoldering in the system forever, unless properly treated and driven out in the beginning. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this peculiar virus, the only remedy known that can overcome it and drive it out of the blood, and it does this so thoroughly and effectually that there is never a return of the disease to embarrass or humiliate you afterwards.

SSS cures Contagious Blood Poison in any and all stages; contains no mineral to break down your constitution; it is purely vegetable and the only blood purifier known that cleanses the blood and at the same time builds up the general health.

Our little book on contagious blood poison is the most complete and instructive ever issued. It not only tells all about this disease, but also how to cure yourself at home. It is free and should be in the hands of everyone seeking a cure. Send for it.

A RAGING, ROARING FLOOD.
Washed down a telegraph line which Chas. C. Ellis, of Lehigh, Iowa, had in repair. "Starting about 10 p. m. on Sunday," he writes, "gave me a terrific cold and cough. It grew worse daily. Finally the best doctors in Oakland, Neb., sent me to Omaha and I had pneumonia and could not live. Then I began using Dr. King's New Discovery, and was wholly cured by six bottles. TRY IT.
Farmers and stockmen, as well as business men, should write their letters on printed letterheads and have their cards on their envelopes. It was once thought that no one could do this unless he was engaged in the production of some specialty or breeding some pure-blood farm stock. No one believes that now. The cost is trifling. Call at the Gazette office and see samples.

HE KEPT HIS LEG.
Two years ago J. W. Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., contracted his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, but he writes, "I used one bottle of Electric Bitters and the bones of Bucking's Arsenic Balm and my leg was as sound and well as ever." For eruptions, eczema, skin, rheumatism, neuralgia, and all blood disorders Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them. Slocum Drug Co. will guarantee satisfaction or refund the money. THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM.
Quick Relief from Pain.
All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. N. D. Sinks, of Evanston, Ill., writes: "I had a severe attack of Rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Ferguson & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it as highly that I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I can now do my usual work and am glad to say that Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the best remedy for rheumatism in the market. For sale by Conner & Warren, drugists."

A WANDERING CROWN.

Wonderful Wondrousness of the Silver Coronet of Hungary.
Tragic incidents in the History of the Various Rulers Who Have Worn the Famous Emblem of a Double Monarchy.
"More precious to the royal Magyar monarch than the emerald-encrusted diadem of barbaric rudeness or the imperial scepter, is the ancient silver crown of Hungary—battered, dented and black as old iron. We gaze on it," says a writer in the Argosy, "with reverent awe; for surely no crown in the world has undergone such wonderful vicissitudes. When the royal line of Otfar, founder of the Hungarian nation, died with confusion. The pope crowned a candidate; the diet elected another, who immediately donned the coronation robes and the silver crown. His pretensions were speedily suppressed by the king of Bohemia, who surrounded the walls of Buda with his troops, an entered off both king and crown to an impregnable Bohemian fortress."
"Otto of Bavaria was then chosen by the Hungarians as their future ruler, on condition that he should first recover the famous crown, with which the fortunes of Hungary have ever been so closely connected. The Bavarian prince agreed to the conditions, and, disguising himself in the garb of a merchant, he set forth on his quest and reached Bohemia in safety. He speedily learned that the country was on the verge of ruin; war had decimated the population and exhausted the national finances. The land was untilled and the resources of the kingdom at the lowest ebb. Under these circumstances the value of the Hungarian crown as a trophy of victory was at a discount. The misfortunes of the impoverished state and the dire necessities to which it was reduced destroyed chivalrous sentiment and national pride. The supposed merchant proffered by the situation, and soon entered into successful negotiations with the harassed and perplexed government that he was enabled to secure the possession of the silver crown. "Elizabeth, the widowed queen of King Albert of Hungary, was the next to disturb the safety of the silver crown. The death of the king had plunged the country into a vortex of strife and confusion. In the midst of the contest she resolved to escape from the dangers which threatened her, taking with her the ancient crown. After taking refuge in Germany she was reduced to abject poverty, and in her distress she pawned the historic crown of Hungary to Emperor Frederick for three thousand dollars. Indignation fired every patriotic Magyar heart; war was declared, and, after much bloodshed, the battered crown was recovered by the Hungarian army and taken back in triumph to Buda, where it was locked up in a fortress and guarded night and day by two state dignitaries chosen from the Magyar nobility. The strife and turmoil which for so many centuries surrounded the silver crown only increased its moral value and heightened its significance, finally winning the due recognition of the Hungarian people and requirements. The brave Magyar race stoutly refused to denationalize itself by incorporation with Austria, and at last the necessity of self-protection for Hungary was admitted. Francis Joseph of Hapsburg was solemnly crowned king of Hungary as well as emperor of Austria, and accepted with the silver crown the double responsibility of the double monarchy."

Japanese English.
"The Japanese students," says an American teaching in that country "are very fond of using long, high sounding words. One day I told the story of 'Jack and the Beanstalk' to one of my classes of young men and asked them to reproduce it in writing. I used the simplest possible English in order to make it easy for them to understand, and what was my surprise when I came to correct the papers to find the first one I took up began as follows: 'Once upon a time there lived a poor widow who for certain pecuniary considerations was obliged to sell her cow.' Another one wrote 'Jack said to the fairy: "Please tell me the way to the nearest hotel." And still another wrote: "The giant said to the hen that laid the golden egg: "Borneo an egg. Borneo an other the same way." A student asked one of the teachers in our theological school to please teach him "Idiotic English." A student in some other school was asked to make a translation of the proverb, "Out of sight, out of mind." This was the result: "The blind are insane."

American in Siam.
Americans first introduced schools into Siam. Americans first introduced steam rice mills and steam sawmills. An American established the first hospital. The first medical class was established by an American and is now conducted by him. Americans have done more than any other nation to establish a friendly feeling and confidence with most of the foreign powers. Americans do not harass the Siamese or covet any of their territory. In the king's own words: "They bring peace and good will."

MOTHER NATURE.

Friends may forget to lift the latch, And fickle fortune jilt thee too; Thy handsome lover ride away; Some morning in the diamond dew; But still upon the Hawthorn-tree, The coral buds will blow for thee!
The poison from a serpent-tongue, May blight thy name forevermore, But still the garden will extend.
As kind a welcome as before, The lilies pure will still uphold To thy sad eyes their hearts of gold!
The thirteenth years will steal thy youth, Upon thy head will strew their snows, And o'er thy tumbled tresses will leave Their finger-marks—but still the rose Will lift its general crest Its fairest blossom for thy breast.
Boston Music Teacher: "That girl in blue is my very best pupil." The Connoisseur: "Why, man, she is the poorest player in the class." The Teacher: "That's just it. She is likely to be a source of revenue for many years—that is, if her folk will keep her here until she learns to play."
Everybody wants to know what The Oregonian has to say.

Feeling Nervous

That's the way it begins. Little things disturb you. You are irritable, restless and worry over trifles. Your heart jumps and palpitates at every sudden noise, you can't concentrate your mind on your work, your memory fails and you do not sleep well at night. In the morning you feel weak and exhausted, with no appetite for food and no ambition for exertion of any kind. Nervous prostration has no terrors for those who use

"My nerves were completely unstrung and I could scarcely endure the slightest noise about the house. After sweeping or doing any light work I would be completely fatigued. Distressing pains in my stomach and restlessness kept me awake at night. Two bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine made me feel better in every way. My appetite improved, I slept well and grew steadily stronger till I was cured."
MRS. H. L. REDMAN, Meriden, Conn.
