The Oldest and Best.

S. S. S. is a combination of roots and herbs of great curative powers, and when taken into the circulation searches out and removes all manner of poisons from the blood, without the least shock or harm to the system. On the contrary, the general health begins to improve from the first dose, for S. S. S. is not only a blood purifier, but an excellent tonic, and strengthens and builds up the constitution while purging the blood of impurities. S. S. S. cures all diseases of a blood poison origin, Cancer, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Herpes and similar troubles, and is an infallible cure and the only antidote for that most horrible disease, Contagious Blood Poison.

A record of nearly fifty years of successful cures is a record to be proud of. S. S. S. is more popular today than ever. It numbers its friends by the thousands. Our medical correspondence is larger than ever in the history of the medicine. Many write to thank us for the great good S. S. S. has done them, while others are seeking advice about their cases. All letters receive prompt and careful attention. Our physicians have made a life-long study of Blood and Skin Diseases, and better understand such cases than the ordinary practitioner who makes a specialty of no one disease.

SSS We are doing great good to suffering humanity through our consulting department, and invite you to write us if you have any blood or skin trouble. We make no charge whatever for this service.

FACTORIES FOR DOG FEED.

A Place Where Sustenance for Aristocratic Canines Is Manufactured Wholesale.

One of the two factories in this country for the making of patent food and patent medicine for dogs has been described in the New York News. The founder of this establishment was a Scotchman. He was employed in London kennels, studied the needs of dogs, thought out special treatment for them and finally took out patents on foods and medicines, and in this unique business amassed a fortune. On the ground floor the visitor enters the receiving room of the raw materials. Thousands of pounds of butchers' scraps are brought here in the course of a month. Oatmeal in wholesale quantities and tons of herbs are used. The old-fashioned dog's bane, boneset, catnip and beef-root, under various scientific names, find a use as food or as medicine. The second floor is occupied by four curious machines, with great cylinder attachments. After the fat and meat have been sorted they are ground separately in these machines and then placed in great wooden tubs where various mixtures are added.

The next process seems so much like the ordinary baker's work that one is quite disposed to taste things, and when the round and square cakes of a tempting brown have been taken from the brick ovens one really envies the aristocratic dog. After cooling, the biscuits are packed in neat pasteboard boxes. According to size these boxes are labeled for pet dogs, for greyhounds and St. Bernards. There are especially prepared dishes for cats. Sufficient food to keep pussy for two days may be had for five cents. But it costs a pretty penny to keep a dog. A large dog must have six or eight cakes, besides a quantity of meat. The meat costs probably about ten cents and the cakes are four cents apiece. The most interesting department is that of the patent machines, at the top of the building. The mixtures of herbs and chemicals are boiled in great kettles, and the liquid is brought up to this floor to be put in bottles of various sizes and labeled "cure for mange," "liniment for sprains," and to "prevent baldness." Sure cures for seventeen diseases, and pills as well as liquid medicines, are made. This curious establishment also makes dog-collars, dog soaps, crates for carrying or shipping dogs, dog brushes and combs, blankets and mackintosh waterproofs, with hoods, for greyhounds.

A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION

"Of a gasoline stove burned a lady here frightfully," writes N. E. Palmer, of Kirkman, Ia. "The best doctors couldn't heal the running sore that followed, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve entirely cured her." Infallible for Cuts, Corns, Sores, Boils, Bruises, Skin Diseases and Piles. 25c at Slocum Drug Co.

DOGS ON MONEY.

The Canines of Different Nations Shown on Their Coins.

There is an important group of about forty coins containing outlines of dogs, which deserve careful study. The interest of some of them, says Chambers' Journal, is mainly mythical, as with Laelaps, the hound of Actaeon presented to Cephalos by Procris, or with the dog of Segeste, which symbolized the river Crimisus. But there are enough to show how extensive were the operations of the dog fancier in early times. The coins afford no evidence of the development of a spaniel, there being no example of a pendulous ear, or of a mastiff, though bulldogs were undoubtedly known in the arenas of imperial Rome. But they prove conclusively—what is shown, indeed, by the less artistic products of Egyptian pictography—that the ancients had four kinds of dogs—the wolf dog, the hound, the grayhound and the terrier. The Umbrians had their wolf hounds, the Apulians, of Asculum, their grayhounds, the more rugged hunters of the Tuscan forests their fox dogs. The favorite dog of Artemis Laphria, as on coins of Patrae and Sparta, was a grayhound, while Actaeon's dogs must have been half-breed deerhounds. Rhegium, if the coins may be trusted, had his sheep dogs; the Macedonian city of Mende its terriers, and Cumae, just above the bay of Naples, to which all the luxuries of the ancient world were brought, its poodles. Further pursuit of this line of inquiry would probably throw some useful light upon the direction of canine domestication.

HOW FRENCH DEPUTIES VOTE.

Need Not Be Present and Can Vote for Each Other.

Absenteeism in the chamber of deputies is becoming a more and more serious evil, and it is hard to say whether the French system of voting by proxy does not rather increase it than minimize it, says the London News. The members are in the Palais Bourbon, but they are in the lobbies, the library, the committee rooms, the barrooms, drinking free glasses of beer. Before leaving the chamber they tell a colleague: "If anything happens, you may vote in my stead." In writing for English papers we may talk of the chamber of deputies dividing on a bill. This is but a convenient interpretation of what takes place. Deputies do not divide, but vote in ordinary matters by a show of hands; and, when the result of this test is challenged by a ballot vote, each member has in his desk packs of blue and white cards bearing his name. The latter color means "Aye," and blue "No." To vote by proxy a member simply puts his friend's card in the box along with his own. A member will sometimes vote of his own accord for a colleague whom he misses. Sometimes three or four will each go and vote for the same person. Among the good stories of the chamber of deputies it is related that on several occasions the number of votes recorded was greater than a full house. Mistaken votes are a daily occurrence, owing to a member's opinions on a bill being misunderstood by a colleague. In that case the person who has been made to vote wrongly drops a line to the president, and a notification is sent to the journal officiel.

HIS SACRIFICE.

But Selfish Motives May Have Been at the Bottom.

"Darling," he said, looking down tenderly into the eyes of his bride, according to the New York World, "I have often heard you say that there is no true love without self-sacrifice. You have taught me this great truth, and now I am going to prove my love by giving up something that has been very dear to me for years. You know how fond I am of smoking. Well, dearest, I am going to abandon the practice, even though it be like tearing out my—my—"

At this point his emotion apparently overcame him, and he looked down at the sweet face, expecting to see there appreciation of his noble resolve, but he saw only a look of blank disappointment.

"What is the matter? Are you not glad that I am following your teaching?" he asked.

"It is not that," she answered, almost sobbing. "Never mind what it is," and she rushed from the room.

The self-sacrificing hero smiled. He needed no explanation. He had learned from his wife's nearest friend that she had set her heart on buying him a half dozen boxes of cigars covered with lovely silver paper wrappers, with pictures in the middle.

And this is what gave birth to his noble resolution.

But Little Blood Shed.

No more striking illustration of the relatively bloodless character of the recent Turko-Grecian war can be given than that afforded by the official returns recently issued, according to which the number of prisoners taken by the rival armies amounted to 200 men each, while in the Greek hospitals there has throughout the campaign not been a single Greek soldier treated for a saber, bayonet or lance wound, the only injuries being those inflicted by rifle bullets or by the explosion of shells. This is equivalent to a demonstration that there was no hand-to-hand fighting, and that the troops never really came to close quarters throughout the struggle.

Human Perspiration Poisonous.

Human perspiration, if injected into dogs or rabbits, acts like a deadly poison, according to Mr. Arloing's experiments. Perspiration secreted during hard muscular work has more toxic power than the ordinary kind, while that obtained from subjects whose secretion has been checked by cold is very poisonous.

Dogs Need Iron.

According to Prof. Schmiederberg, of Strasburg, dogs need iron in their food. He relates the case of a strong dog that was nearly starved by being fed for a long time with pure milk. Just as he seemed on the point of death a grain of ferratin was added to his daily allowance of milk; when, instead of refusing as heretofore, he devoured it ravenously, and in the space of two weeks recovered his normal health and strength.—Albany Argus.

Consumption of Iron.

In the year 1888 the consumption of iron, per inhabitant, was: For Great Britain, 400 pounds; Belgium, 310; United States, 290; Germany, 204; Sweden, 170; France, 112; Austria, 45; Spain, 37; Italy, 22, and Russia, 19 pounds.—N. Y. Sun.
