The Heppner Gazette

Issued Thursday Morning.

Warnock & Michell.

Entered at the Postoffice at Heppner Oregon, as second-class matter.

THURSDAY..... January 9, 1902

During the past year Portland erected 2000 new buildings.

The way to build up Heppner is to patronize Heppner people.

The critics say that the poets are like "injuns"—no good ones living.

J. M. Church of LaGrande, announces that he is not a candidate for governor and would not accept it.

An exchange is about right when it says that Eastern Oregon will be on hand to take care of her interests at the next Republican state convention.

The Skamania County Pioneer of Stevenson, Washington, issued a very creditable new year number. The paper is neat and attractive and shows much enterprise to come from a town the size of Stevenson.

The illustrated edition of the Statesman contains 60 pages, and is the best number ever turned out by this enterprising newspaper. It is ably gotten up and tells in a brief and interesting manner all about Salem, the surrounding country, and in fact, the Willamette valley in general. Printed on fine book paper, the workmanship is artistic and is a credit to the Statesman as well as the capital city.

Over 3000 coyote scalps have been presented for bounty in Umatilla county since the law went into effect, April 1, 1901. A great many people think that the bounty law is the cause of the rapid increase of rabbits, and are opposed to the law, for the coyotes when plentiful destroy the rabbits. If the coyotes are let go they will eat up the sheep, and if the rabbits are let go they will eat up the range, and there you are.

Before sending your money away from home to buy something that can be obtained here from home people, answer this list of questions to yourself: If you have goods or labor to sell, do you want the other fellow to send his money away? How much has the the outside fellow contributed, or how much does he care for the welfare of the community? Wouldn't it be a prosperous place if everybody sent away to some cheap john place or imported cheap labor. Is this the proper system to encourage?

THE CENTURY'S SECOND YEAR.

At the opening of the new century's second year the United States sees much in its own condition and prospects upon which to fecilitate itself. Not only is it more prosperous than ever before, but apparently it is the only one of the great countries of the world which is in that condition. The holiday season which finds in the United States larger purchases of all sorts of things and more munificent bequests for education, for charity and for the general advancement of humanity, witnesses a great falling off in the great activities in England, Germany, France and the rest of Europe, and greater distress than has been experienced in many years at this season. This happy condition of the United States' material interests is getting to be an old story, but American advancement has taken other aspects which are also worthy of attention, and which ought to be fully as gratifying to the people of the country.

A striking example of the United States' influence on this continent is just afforded by the Pan-American congress in session at the City of Mexico of a proposition to invite Europe to assist the nations of this hemisphere in the codification of the continent's private and international law. The United States itself appears to have made no special opposition to the proposition, but the rest of the countries, under Mexico's leadership, strongly opposed it. The sentiment was emphatically expressed that the nations of this continent were capable of looking after their own concerns, even in their literary aspect. This, of course, is a compliment to the United States, which furnished the people of Central and South America the incitement to break away from Spain, which provided them a model for their governments, which ushered them into the family of nations, and which, from the advent of the holy alliance four-fifths of a century ago, to England's controversy with Venezuela in Cleveland's days and to Germany's trouble with the same country in Roosevelt's time, has protected them against foreign spoliation.

Thus does the new century witness a series of triumphs, industrial and social, for the United States which places it in the ascendant among the world's nations.

THE COURT HOUSE PROPOSITION.

That the time for building a new court house for Morrow county is ripe, there is no question as evidenced by the mass meeting held in Heppner today. The time has arrived when the present structure is entirely too small to meet the requirements of increasing business. It is true that it will meet with some opposition. All progressive movements in the way of public improvements, everywhere are sure to meet with some opposition, because they touch the public pocket, but after the improvements are made, generally the people are glad of it. The present little building used for a court house did not cost Morrow county a cent. All that the county has been out has been for building a vault, and this to, is now not sufficent to meet the requirements. The present structure at the time of building was only intended for a temporary affair. It may be said to the credit of Morrow county officials that the county is almost out of debt and is in good financial condition. To be like other counties why should not Morrow county build her own court house. Will the county ever be in better financial condition to commence work. Morrow county is certainly able to build and maintain at least a respectable court house without working a hardship upon the taxpayers. Wheeler county has just finished a fine $12,000 court house. Morrow county ought to do as well. Today's meeting was called on short notice, but this was necessary in order to get the attention of the county court. On the question of building a new court house the columns of the Gazette will be open for exchange of views by the taxpayers of Morrow county.

THE NEW YEAR GAZETTE.

The Gazette's Annual.

Heppner Times.

The present 30-page pamplet is the best New Year's edition the Heppner Gazette has ever issued, and it reflects great credit upon Bros. Warnock and Michell. It contains a great deal of very useful information concerning the conditions and resources of Morrow county, as well as displaying several fine half tones of ranches, buildings and individuals. Able and comprehensive articles appear from the pens of R. F. Hynd, D. V. S. Reid, S. E Notson, Geo. Bleakman, J. F. Royse and many others. The edition is very neatly gotten up, and contains much information which the Eastern people should be made acquainted with. People who take an interest in the welfare of the county should purchase several copies of the Gazette's annual and send to their relatives and friends in other states.

Heppner May Well be Proud.

Evening Telegram.

The Heppner Gazette has issued a pamplet for the New Year's number which contains much interesting matter concerning Morrow county, and is full of half tones, including pictures of the late J. L. Morrow, after whom the county was named, and Henry Heppner, the founder of the city. It also contains photographs of the principal business blocks in Heppner and shows and gives some idea of the interests of the county, as farming and sheep rasing. It is something of which Heppner may well be proud.

Neat in the Extreme.

The Dalles Chronicle.

"Good things are done up in small packages" would certainly apply to the New Year's number of the Heppner Gazette, which is one of the neatest gotten up special editions we have received this year. It contains thirty pages of well-written matter descriptive of Heppner and Morrow county in general, encased within a cover of bright red on which is printed a cut of a sheep ranch. The work, which was gotten out at the home office, is neat in the extreme, and the publishers, Warnock & Michell, as well as Morrow county people have every reason to be proud of it.

Such Pamphlets Needed

Portland, Oregon, Jan. 7, 1902.

Messrs. Warnock & Michell,
Publishers "Heppner Gazette,"
Heppner, Ore.

Gentlemen: I want to compliment you on the "New Year's Number" of the Heppner Gazette, or the pamphlet issued in connection with the same which has just been brought to my notice. I only wish that more of the towns along our line would get out similar publications. We need such pamphlets calling attention in detail to certain sections for the information of people East who are looking in this direction.

I believe that the towns particularly mentioned in your "New Year's Number," that is, Heppner, Lexington and Ione, would find it a remunerative investment to print from 10,000 to 25,000 copies of your pamphlet and send same to me for distribution in the East. If they do not feel like printing as many as 25,000, even 5,000 would be very helpful. We will advertise them, give them out to our Eastern traveling men and make the best distribution possible.

Yours truly,
A. L. CRAIG, G. P. A.

Uncle Sam's Greatest Secret.

If there is any secret which Uncle Sam jealously guards it is the process of manufacturing the fibre paper upon which his money notes are printed. He pays a Massachusetts firm forty-three cents a pound for it, and this firm does its work under the surveillance of a government agent. The paper is manufactured of the finest rags, cleaned, boiled and mashed into pulp. As it is rolled into thin sheets silk threads are introduced into it by a secret process. These are the distinguishing marks making imitation of the paper well nigh impossible. The sheets of paper already counted twice and placed in uniform packages at the paper mill, are stored in a treasury vault and issued to the bureau of engraving and printing as wanted. Before leaving the treasury they are counted three times more, and the receiving official at the bureau must receipt for them. Then the bundles are unwrapped and the sheets are counted twenty-eight times by a corps of women. This is to insure that each printer gets the required number — no more, no less. If one sheet of this precious paper be lost the entire force of men and women having access to the room where the misplacement has occurred are kept in, like so many school children, to find it. Each sheet is issued from the vault for the printing of a definite amount of money upon it. If the lost sheet was intended to ultimately represent four thousand dollars' worth of notes the group of employes to whom the responsibility of its misplacement has been traced must make good that amount if they cannot locate it within a reasonable time. The most expensive loss which has thus occurred was of a blank sheet issued for the printing of eighty dollars upon its face.—January Ladies' Home Journal.

MANY MILLIONS FOR WAR.

The United States, although regarded as one of the most peaceful nations of the world, spent many millions for war expenses during the past century. People throughout the country are also spending large sums of money in a vain search for a medicine that will absolutely cure indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, flatulency and nervousness. There is only one such medicine, and that is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a household remedy, backed by thousands of testimonials. If you have wasted your money on useless remedies until you have lost hope of getting well again, we would urge you to try this medicine. It brings health to every sufferer. For sale by all Druggists. Apply to any one of them for a copy of Hostetter's Almanac for 1902.

Dogs Need Iron.

According to Prof. Schmiedeberg, of Strasburg, dogs need iron in their food. He relates the case of a strong dog that was nearly starved by being fed for a long time with pure milk. Just as he seemed on the point of death a grain of ferratin was added to his daily allowance of milk; when, instead of refusing as heretofore, he devoured it ravenously, and in the space of two weeks recovered his normal health and strength. —Albany Argus.

Consumption of Iron.

In the year 1900 the consumption of iron, per inhabitant, was: For Great Britain, 400 pounds; Belgium, 310; United States, 290; Germany, 264; Sweden, 170; France, 132; Austria, 45; Spain, 37; Italy, 22, and Russia, 19 pounds.—N. Y. Sun.
