

Warlock & Michell,

Printed at the Heppner Gazette, Heppner, Oregon, at the second-class matter.

THURSDAY, April 3, 1902

If you want to build up your own interests and the interests of Heppner, patronize Heppner people.

The Pendleton Tribune's Mid-Winter Magazine has been received. The subject matter is well gotten up, but the press-work and mechanical arrangement, well, it is simply rotten.

The Blue Mountain Eagle is of the opinion that it would be a good investment to establish an electric light system for the towns of John Day and Canyon City. Both are live towns and good points for business.

The GAZETTE is pleased to announce that Willard Herren has been nominated by the Republicans of Gilliam county, for sheriff. He is well known here and is a royal good fellow. Willard will make a strong run and a good sheriff.

In a recent conference between Western representatives and President Roosevelt, the president stated that he was anxious to see a law enacted that would effectually bar out Chinese laboring classes. The President has always shown a most friendly feeling for the West.

To much encouragement is given to the traveling fakirs who are making the towns of Eastern Oregon, selling dry goods and supplies. The attention of the writer was called to a "made to order" shirt that was received this week, that cost $2.85. Just as good a shirt, in every respect, can be purchased from Heppner merchants for $1.50. This is only a sample of the many transactions that occur.

The March number of the Pacific Monthly is a valuable work of art. The issue is devoted mostly to the Columbia and the grand scenery along the great river. The beautiful views in this number are alone well worth the price of a year's subscription to this magazine. This magazine is doing great work in advertising the state, and is a publication of which Oregon should be proud. Especially is it valuable to people who are interested in the early history of Oregon, as the Native Son department publishes, from time to time, bits of history that have never before been made public.

A representative of one of the department stores of Portland, was in the city this week, distributing cards and soliciting orders. It is to be hoped that he did not do much business. If the people of this community would think just a little on sound business principles, these people would soon get tired of coming here. In the first place, the house is wealthy, which would indicate good profits. This traveling representative is paid a good fat salary. Then his expenses must be paid, which are not small. Who pays this? The people who buy from him, of course. How much does this man or this house contribute to the welfare of this community? How much do they patronize Heppner people? How much taxes do they pay? Heppner merchants can furnish you anything that these people can, and you will not be compelled to pay the additional expense of a traveling man's salary and expenses. Spend your money at home and you will have some show of getting it back.

WILLIAMSON FOR CONGRESS.

The action of the Republican Congressional Convention in nominating Hon. J. S. Williamson for representative in congress, will meet the hearty approval of the people of the second district. Especially are the people of Eastern Oregon and the inland Empire, pleased with Mr. Williamson's nomination. He is an earnest and energetic worker. From long experience and close touch with Eastern Oregon interests, and in fact, the whole state, he will be in a position to serve the people well. His election, which is certain, will be looked to with interest. Mr. Williamson is a good orator and a gifted writer. Above all he is a plain, everyday citizen, who has won the respect and esteem of the people. To the high position to which he has been honored he has won by a liberal application of brains and enterprise. The same methods that have placed him at the top, in the eyes of the people, will characterize his efforts in the halls of congress.

EASTERN OREGON RECOGNIZED

The recognition of Eastern Oregon at the Republican State Convention, by placing at the head of the ticket, W. J. Furnish, is an honor that will be appreciated. It was a choice where merit won out, and justice and fairness prevailed. The Republican forces are strongly united and will carry the banner of progress triumphantly to victory next June. W. J. Furnish will make a good Governor and will represent the whole people. In conducting the affairs of the chief executive of the state, he will use the same good judgement and able methods that have brought success to him in private life.

TWO VERY IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES

While it may seem a broad statement, it is probably true, that our railroads, with their immense capitalization and army of employees, form one of the most important industries of the country. The other very important industry is the manufacture of that celebrated family medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is compounded with the greatest care and contains nothing that would injure the most delicate system. It is backed by a record of fifty years of cures of such headache, indigestion, flatulency, belching, dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles and malaria, fever and ague. It is a splendid spring medicine and blood purifier, and as a tonic for the run-down system it is unequalled. Try it. Our Private Stamp is over the neck of the bottle.

NOTICE TO DEMOCRATS.

Notice is hereby given that the regular meeting of the Democratic primaries for the election of delegates to the county convention, from our county, will be held on March 29, 1902, at the usual places, with the exception of Matteson precinct, which will be held at Gilliam & Bisbee's warehouse, and North Ione, which will be held at the office of N. A. Leach, and South Ione, which will be held at the hall of C. T. Walker. The Democratic convention for the nomination of a county ticket, and the election of delegates to the State convention, will be held on April 5, 1902 at the court house in Heppner. The apportionment of the delegates, based on the vote of Sheriff Matlock, on the basis of one delegate at large, one for every fifteen votes, and one for every major fraction of eight votes, making a total of 55 delegates, is as follows:

- Heppner 7
Mt. Vernon 6
Gentry 4
South Ione 4
North Ione 4
Dairy 4
Lexington 5
Lena 3
Dry Fork 3

THE PRESIDENT AND THE RAILROADS.

A New York dispatch states that the "vested interests" are forming a "mighty combination" to prevent the renomination of President Roosevelt. It is also said that one of the gentlemen connected with those interests was very insistent in pointing out to the President the iniquity of the interstate commerce law, but refused point blank to assist in revising it so as to provide for the protection of all public and private interests, on the ground that capital should not be hampered by any law. To this the President is said to have replied that it was such men as he who were mainly responsible for the spread of socialism and so brought the conversation to an end. The President will enforce the laws as they stand until they are repealed or amended.

It is not safe to assume the truth of all stories of this kind, but no one can have much acquaintance with rich men without learning that fools are as plenty in that class as in any other. The fact that they accumulate and retain wealth is evidence that they understand their particular business, which is not inconsistent with ignorance and folly in other matters. The really great men of finance are, of course, wise as well as rich, and perfectly understand that "vested interests" are far more deeply concerned than any other interests in restraining the excesses of capital, preventing it from oppression and compelling it to obey the law. If any railroad man spoke to the President as reported he was very foolish, and not a representative of his class. The most influential railroad men are good citizens, and as such, and as capitalists, favor the enactment and enforcement of just laws for the regulation of capital. Doubtless a Presidential campaign is costly and increasingly so. It costs money to bring arguments home to 75,000,000 people. But a President antagonized by capitalists for enforcing the laws for the restraint of capital, could not only be renominated but re-elected, almost without money. There is no doubt that the power of capital is constantly employed to get unjust advantage for capitalists. Laws intended to secure the rights of the people go unenforced because the preponderance of vigor and legal astuteness is usually with corporations. But when a President is finally found who proves willing and strong enough to maintain the laws the people will rise up in their strength and nothing can turn them from him. And nobody knows this better than the great financiers.

Some time ago there was constituted a committee of the American Civic Federation which will probably have great influence in the future in maintaining amicable relations between labor and industrial capital. It would be useful if a committee of equal strength could be formed to influence and adjust the relations between the general public and quasi-public corporations. Capital is entitled to protection, but so is society. President Roosevelt's suggestion that representatives of all interests should agree upon and formulate a just law is a good one.—S. F. Chronicle.
