

HERMANN NOMINATED.

Won Out After a Hard Struggle on 24th Ballot.

Eugene, Or., April 9.—Binger Hermann was nominated for Congress tonight. The convention was in session 9½ hours, and was in tumult most of the time. Early in the convention Hermann hovered within six or seven votes of the 87 required to nominate. Then his forces went to pieces in the face of stubborn opposition. His rivals succeeded to the mastery of the convention, but they could not agree upon a candidate. For four hours each of them refused to yield.

The Hermann managers took heart again about 10 A. M. and reorganized their ranks as they had been early in the convention. Thereupon Eddy of Tillamook declared that his delegation of five, in order to end a fruitless contest, would support Hermann. Vawter withdrew and left his delegation to go whither they desired, and his people flocked to Hermann. Gatch of Marion and Kelly of Linn united their forces. The union was too long put off, however, and accomplished nothing.

The final vote was: Hermann, 95; Gatch, 72; Kelly, 9. The total number of votes cast was 176, three more than were in the convention, but the opponents of Hermann saw that they could accomplish nothing by demanding another ballot, and on motion of Kay of Marion, Herman was declared the unanimous choice of the convention. Speechmaking by Hermann and his rivals showed that the outcome of the fight had no left wide breaches, and that all elements of the party would work for the election of the party's nominee.

His Political Career.

Binger Hermann, the choice of the republican convention at Eugene for congressman, was first elected to the Oregon legislature in 1866 from Douglas county. He served but one term as congressman and two years later in 1868 was elected state senator from the same county. He also served as deputy of internal revenue under Medorem Crawford and Dr. Wilson Bowly and in 1871 was appointed receiver for the United States land office for Southern Oregon. After the expiration of the term of this office he practiced the profession of law in Roseburg until 1884 when he was elected to congress for the entire state. He was returned to this position six times, remaining continuous in office as congressman until 1896 when he was succeeded by the late Thomas H. Tongue. In the same year he was appointed United States land commissioner at Washington, D. C., which he filled until February, 1903, when he resigned. He was twice elected to congress when the opposition forces elected the governor of the state. When he retired from congress in 1896 he was one of the oldest members of the house in time of service, from the states west of the Missouri river. He was on a number of prominent committees and ably represented his state in the national halls of congress.

For liver troubles and constipation There's nothing better in creation Than Little Early Risers, the famous Little Pills

They always effect a cure and save doctor bills.

Little Early Risers are different from all other pills. They do not weaken the system, but act as a tonic to the tissues by arousing the secretions and restoring the liver to the full performance of its functions naturally. Stearns Drug Co. Ione Drug Co., Ione.

TONES AND COLORS.

Discovery of a Remarkable Phenomenon by a Scientist.

Rays of Light Which Produce Certain Colors Correspond Exactly with Certain Tones—Use in Musical Instruction.

It has been the dream of poets that some subtle, sympathetic relation exists between tones and colors; that the harmonizing of one and the artistic blending of the others appeal to the same sense of the beautiful; that sweet sounds and pleasing color effects are very much akin. It has remained for a Philadelphia professor to trace this phantasy to its source; to materialize the vague impressions of dreamers and to reduce them to a matter of science, says the New York Herald. It has long been common knowledge that our conception of both musical tones and colors is due to the effect of vibrating waves of movement, but it is something new to learn that there is a close and exact sympathetic relationship between the notes of the scale and the colors of the spectrum; that the same system of nature governs each and that discords arise in ill-matched hues from infringement of the same rules which govern the combination of sounds according to the science we call harmony.

It is amazing to learn that the seven colors of the rainbow exactly correspond with the seven notes of the gamut, and that red, being the dominant, has to the other colors the same comparative re-angibility, or "wave lines," as the dominant in any chord has to the other notes in the scale. It will blend artistically and pleasingly only with such colors as represent notes which in music may be harmoniously used with the dominant.

It is claimed by the discoverer of this phenomenon in science, and he has devoted the last 20 years to the study of relationship between tone and color, that the rays of light which produce red, at the base of the spectrum, correspond exactly with sound waves responsible for "do," the keynote at the base of the tonic scale. Orange corresponds with "re," yellow with "mi," green with "fa," blue with "sol," purple with "la" and violet with "si."

Before scientific experiments and research established these facts, argues the professor, impressionists, poets and painters felt this close union between tone and color. Artists knew that a warm splash of red, giving an impression of prominence and nearness to the eye, would dominate the whole picture. "Do," the tonic in music, is recognized as the central force. Opposite in effect is the cool, limpid blue, which is in agreement with "sol," the clear, ringing "fifth" of the scale, the tone of centrifugal force, while midway and in perfect harmony is "mi," the yellow, the sweet but unobtrusive "third" of the scale. These three colors combined form a most pleasing group, while the corresponding tones form the tonic chord, the basis of all harmony.

This remarkable science, or theory, whichever it may properly be called, has been put to practical purpose in the artistic and musical training of little children, at an age when their minds are especially susceptible to impressions of sweet sounds and bright colors, when the intelligence is mainly working through the medium of their senses.

For this purpose an ingenious arrangement of colored balls and sticks has been devised, by which the first instincts of harmony are instilled into children who have scarcely learned their alphabet. At the same time they become acquainted with the artistic arrangement of colors.

While certain sequences or combinations of colors are being exhibited, sympathetic melodies and chords are heard, and the little ones quickly learn to associate the two. After awhile they will sing tunes hitherto unlearned or unheard by them, merely following the exhibition of the different colors, which to them have become associated with and expressive of tone. For instance, should the following sequence of colors appear:

Red, Red, Orange, Violet, Red, Orange, Yellow, Yellow, Green, Yellow, Orange, Red,

Orange, Red, Violet, Red, they would instinctively recognize the melody of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and heartily join in singing. To have taught this by musical notation would have been impossible.

When they have grown older the ordinary method of musical tuition is aided by the printing of each note in its corresponding color. This is claimed to show the essential unity of the scale in all its different positions on the staff, to give a pictorial representation of the modulations from key to key and greatly to simplify the study of harmony by showing at a glance the real character of the chord.

The Wardwell family, of Detroit, comprises a mother and 16 brothers and sisters, all resident of that city, except a brother, who is in the Klondike, and a sister. The oldest is 75, the youngest 45 years old. There has never been a death among the brothers and sisters in the family.

"The square peg in the round hole" figuratively expresses the use of means unsuited to the desired end. A great many people who have been cured of dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery say: "We tried many medicines with only temporary benefit. It was not until we began the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' that we found a complete and lasting cure."

"It is with pleasure that I tell you what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pellets' have done for me," writes Mrs. T. M. Palmer, of Peede, Kaufmann Co., Texas. "Two years ago I was taken with stomach and bowel trouble. Everything I ate would put me in distress. I lived two weeks on milk and even that gave me pain. I felt as though I would starve to death. Three doctors attended me—one said I had dyspepsia, two said catarrh of the stomach and bowels. They attended me (one at a time) for one year. I stopped taking their medicine and tried some patent medicine; got no better, and I grew so weak and nervous my heart would flutter. I could not do any kind of work. Now I can do my house work very well; am gaining in flesh and strength; and can eat anything I want."
