LAST OF WOOL.

Everything Cleaned up at Last Sales.

The third and last of the series of wool sales as arranged by the wool growers under the sealed bid system occurred in Heppner last Thursday.

Like the other sales this season, the growers were generally well satisfied as good prices were realized, owners getting as much as they expected for their clips.

Most of the buyers came in Wednesday in a Pullman special.

At the warehouse of the M. C. L. & T. Co., the sales amounted to about 233,000 pounds, and at Heppner & Co's. warehouse about 100,000 pounds changed hands. Prices ranged from 10 cents per pound for the heavy buck wools to 15 1/2 cents per pound for the lighter grades.

With the exception of a few small clips, this winds up the wool to be marketed in Heppner this season.

At the previous sales nearly all of the Morrow county wools were sold, and most of the lot sold Thursday came from the Spray country in Wheeler county and from the John Day country in Grant county.

While the market for sheep this season has not been very encouraging, from the standpoint of wool, the growers have reason to be greatly encouraged, and have made good profits. Taking it all around, wool has sold higher than for several years, and another good feature was the fact that sheep have shorn well, the clip being heavy which with the increased price has added more than the usual amount to be expected from the sheep in the way of wool.

With the exception of about 120,000 pounds handled at Lexington, which can be virtually included in the Heppner market, the amount of wool sold in the Heppner market this season will be very close to 3,000,000 pounds.

The John Day wools, which are usually very choice, were hardly up to the standard this year. This was on account of the scarcity of feed last winter, and the sheep as a rule were very thin before the spring grass started.

The high prices that have prevailed this season and the general satisfaction as expressed by the growers, is enough to demonstrate the fact that Heppner is a good wool market which will have a tendency to increase the volume of business here in the future.

STURDY OLD PIONEER.

Thomas P. Jackson 90 Years of Age and Still Young.

Thos. P. Jackson, of Hamilton, Grant county, was a distinguished guest at the Palace hotel last Thursday evening. On the lapel of his coat hung a long badge, and on this badge stood out in large black figures, "1845," and below the large figures were the words, Oregon Pioneer Association. The venerable old gentleman had been to Portland attending the Pioneer Association and was on his way home, and as he sat in the office of the hotel fingering and smoking a cigar, hardly with the grace of some of the later dudes, but with certainly as much solid comfort, he was surrounded with a good sized audience of interested and amused listeners as he told about how he was entertained by the "mighty fine brass band, the speakin'," etc, in the now large city where he once traveled when the site of Portland was a wild wilderness. His anecdotes were well sandwiched with witty sayings and jokes that kept the crowd in a roar of laughter.

A GAZETTE representative who sauntered into the hotel was attracted by the crowd, and the center of attraction was a hale and hearty man who did not look to be a day over 65 years of age. After listening a short time the inquisitive reporter could not keep his fingers from the badge and asked the sturdy old pioneer if he crossed the plains in '45.

"Well, can't ye read, do ye think I would be wearin' it if I hadn't crossed in '45," was the ready response.

The newspaper man said in a low tone that he must have been very young when he crossed the plains, and at this the man with the pencil was nudged in the ribs by a traveling man who said that the pioneer was 90 years of age.

The audience was well entertained by the respected old pioneer, and as the town clock struck ten he got up and with an erect body and elastic step he asked the clerk for the key to his room.

The men and women who were entitled to wear the badge of 1845 at the meeting of the Oregon Pioneers' Association were very few.

The grand old pioneers. They built the foundation of our great state, and the foundation was of solid rock.

Uncle Thomas Jackson certainly has the appearance of being able to pass the century mark. The GAZETTE hopes he will.

Gray Hair

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for over thirty years. It has kept my scalp free from dandruff and has prevented my hair from turning gray."—Mrs. F. A. Soule, Billings, Mont.

There is this peculiar thing about Ayer's Hair Vigor—it is a hair food, not a dye. Your hair does not suddenly turn black, look dead and lifeless. But gradually the old color comes back,—all the rich, dark color it used to have. The hair stops falling, too.
