BIG RAILROAD DISASTER

Train in Colorado Crashes
Through a Bridge.

ONE HUNDRED LIVES LOST

Many Bodies Carried Away by the Flood and Buried in the Drifting Sands.

Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 8 — The wreck of the World's Fair Flyer on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, near Eden, seven miles north of Pueblo, last evening, proves to have become one of the greatest railroad disasters in the history of the country. Two crowded passenger cars and a baggage car were engulfed in the torrent that tore out a trestle spanning Steele's Hollow, otherwise known as Dry Creek, and so far as known tonight, only three of the occupants of these cars escaped death. Fortunately, two sleepers and a diner completing the train, remained on the track at the edge of the abyss, and none of their occupants were killed or injured.

How many perished probably will never be definitely ascertained, for the treacherous sands are drifting over the bodies.
Searching for the dead was begun about midnight on an extensive scale.

All corpses found were brought to Pueblo and placed in four morgues here. At 8 o'clock this evening 82 bodies had been recovered and of these 60 had been identified. Thirty-three are still missing. During the day bodies were recovered all the way along Fountain River from the scene of the wreck to the city. At 1 o'clock this afternoon two bodies were taken from the stream at First street, Pueblo, more than eight miles from the point where the disaster occurred, and it is probable that some may be recovered even further down stream. None of the bodies were badly mutilated and all are in such condition as to be recognizable.

A visit to the morgues presented a horrible picture. Relatives and friends were anxiously seeking friends and loved ones supposed to be among the blackened bodies piled in rows in different rooms of the undertaking establishments.

The work apparently was conducted with as much system as was possible, bodies being carded as fast as recognized, and many of them being taken away immediately and several sent to their homes in other cities.

The streets of this city present a picture such as was probably never witnessed before. Women and men are to be seen rushing frantically from one place to another, wringing their hands in anguish and imploring those supposed to be in possession of information to tell them the fate of their relatives and friends, and every few minutes a wail can be heard as they have found what they sought for, yet hoped not to find, the horrible reality that their fears were confirmed.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said the council to suit between two farmers, "there were thirty-six hogs in the lot—thirty-six I want you to remember that number—thirty-six hogs, just three times the number in the jury box."
