PLAN FOR GAME PRESERVE IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

Like Those of Yosemite and Yellowstone Valleys to Be Conducted and Controlled by the Government.

None among the game animals of the continent is more attractive to the tofore existing between average of manaind than the antelope. Time was, and not rong ago, when herds of these beautiful creatures m name of Grostens & roamed at large over the western s been dissolved. Lum plains. But of late there has been a notable decrease in the numbers of the herds. Like the buildio, it is fast disappearing. But it seems likely, counts and pay all hills says the Chicago Chrona.e, that this keen-sighted, variest and neetest of all American horned game will be seen again in its oid-time haunts on the eastern slopes of the mountains of southern California and on the contiguous strips of desert. Years aço these beautiful animais, with their odd markings of brown and gray, were the most conspicuous feature of desert life in this section, but with the settling up of the adjacent territory they were rapidly kined or ariven south until today probably not a half dozen battered, scarred, ione and mateless old veterans are left in the whole great plain between the desert divide and the Colorado river. Even up to the early '80's they are said to have been as pientiful there as on the plains of New Mexico, Wyoming and Montana.

As they have been quite as much hunted in these districts as in southern California, and are holding their thing else had failed. Improvement own in spite of the fact, it would seem as if their practical extinction in the latter section is due to some other agency than that of man-probably the drying up of many of the old desert water holes.

The recent succession of wet years in the southwest has called back to life nearly all of the old springs in the desert and on the eastern sides, and it has been decided to restock this section with a drove of from *0 to 100 antelope. These will be brought from the northwest, probably from the big herd in the Yellowstone national park, in Wyoming. The latter herd now numbers nearly a thousand, and recently, since the rigid enforcement of the game laws by the federal authorities, has increased at a rapid rate, and it is not believed that this increase will of this plan will be taken shortly by the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, where the lines will be run for the boundaries of a game preserve, to be conducted and controlled by the government after the manner of those already existing, and about the Yosemite and the Yellowstone. The boundaries of this preserve will coincide with those of the now existing forest reservations of Zeca lake, San Jacinto and Trabuca, with a large strip of desert added, in which the antelope will also be protected. Inside these boundaries guns will be absolutely forbidden, and it will be a penitentiary offense to kill game; ontside the hunter will be governed by the state game laws, as enforced in other sections. How this reserve will be patrolled and the protection accomplished has not been definitely decided. At first, however, it is likely that the number of forest rangers will be increased and each given the double duty of game warden.

AUTOMATIC DOCTOR IN PARIS.

Drugs for Twelve Different Ailments Furnished by Penny-in-Slot Machines.

It is probable that the climax of the automatic supply craze has been reached by the company which is about to install pen y-in-the-slot machines, called "everybody's doctor," on the boulevards and principal thoroughfares, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

Each machine is to have 12 slots, which means that not only the remedies, but also the prescriptions for 12 different ailments, such as toothache. indigestion, cold in the head and "nerves." will be forthcoming for the abiquitous penny.

The faculty of medicine has granted the system a certificate, and there is consternation among Parisian doctors. One doctor said:

"It will lead to all sorts of complications. People who are suffering pain have not always their wits at command, and it is quite conceivable that many people will tak the opposite drugs to these they require.

I can see a man who is half blind with biliousness putting his penny in the wrong slot and swallowing a
