English insurance companies carried all the risks at St. Pierre, destroyed three years ago by eruption of Mount Pelee, and refuse to pay a dollar loss, claiming that the property was destroyed by ashes and by the violence of the explosion, and not by fire.

NOTICE TO MORROW COUNTY SHEEPMEN.

Old Trail to Mountains Closed.

I take this means of informing my friends among Morrow county sheepmen, and in fact all who are in the habit of summering their sheep along and beyond the John Day river, that the trail leading from the mouth of Carnas creek up the John Day river has been closed to sheep and it will be necessary for them to go through on the trail leading to Ukiah. Cattlemen and settlers on this trail have given assurance that passing bands of sheep shall not be in any way molested so long as they pay due respect to those living along the trail. I shall be glad to welcome back all my old customers and to make new friends among sheepmen, and will do all I can to aid them in passing over the trail and securing range for the summer.

Respectfully,
C. A. DESPAIN,
Merchant, Ukiah, Or.

HEROISM IN ANIMALS.

Illustrated by a Ram That Defended a Flock of Sheep.

A writer on natural history complains that men are prone to regard masculine courage in defense of others as a virtue purely human. In reality, self sacrificing for the female sex or for the young is part of the scheme of nature, and every male thing is strong and splendid in appearance because he is the descendant of those who have proudly held and guarded "the privilege of death." Another writer tells a story which illustrates this point. Two entomologists, hunting at night, clambered over a gate with their swinging lanterns and found themselves in a field filled with sheep. The result of their coming was panic and a furious stampede. The sheep charged helter skelter away from the lanterns and huddled together at the far end of the field. But there was a ram among them, and as the flock scurried away this creature stood firm, covering the retreat. Then, steadily and majestically, the huge ram advanced with lowered head toward the mysterious lights and pressed them back to the gate. This is only one graphic story of many that might be told of masculine courage throughout nature. Man has some virtues which animals, so far as we can judge, know nothing about, but heroism—the pride of affording protection to the weak and daring death for the security of the flock—is not a human attribute alone any more than is maternal affection.
