Must Act Promptly.

Unless the City Council can show a clear title to the land occupied by the Forestry building at the Lewis and Clark Exposition by December 1, the structure will be sold by the Oregon State Commission to the first person offering a bid for it which the Commission thinks sufficiently large. This announcement was made by President Jefferson Myers.

Although the building and the $4000 worth of exhibits which it contains have been offered to the city by the Commission free of incumbrance, provided a site is furnished at the city's expense, no definite action has been taken by the Council toward accepting it. More than three weeks ago the purchase of the land was authorized, but the matter was then referred to the ways and means committee, which has since ignored it.

"The Commission has no choice, but must sell the building to the highest bidder after December 1, if the city does not accept it by that time, according to the law ruling the Commission," said President Myers. "Unless our offer is accepted by that time and a clear title shown to the site guaranteeing that the provisions of the gift will be carried out, we have no course but to sell the building. Indications show that we would have no difficulty in getting a good price, for many persons are anxious to buy it.

"Among the offers we have is one from the Coney Island syndicate, which was willing to pay $200,000 for the building last summer, intending to transport it to New York's great pleasure resort. If the city really wants the building, it must act, and act at once."

Judge Hunt Will Preside.

Judge W. H. Hunt, of Montana, will return to Portland when the land fraud trials are resumed and will preside at the trial of Congressman Binger Hermann. Judge C. E. Wolverton, recently appointed to the federal bench for this district, probably will be assigned to the district of Montana, to conduct the business of Judge Hunt's court. This information was given this morning by United States Circuit Judge W. B. Gilbert.

"It is definitely decided that Judge Hunt will preside at the land fraud trials," said Judge Gilbert, "though it is not yet certain when they will be resumed. It is my understanding that Judge Wolverton will wait until his appointment as district judge has been confirmed by the senate before taking his seat. Probably he will go to Helena when Judge Hunt comes here."

Judge Hunt presided at the last trial of Congressman Williamson, and his fairness and the careful consideration which he gave to the arguments of counsel created a most favorable impression.

Judge Wolverton will not have long to wait for confirmation at the hands of the senate. Congress will convene next Monday and the appointment will be acted on without delay. It is a foregone conclusion that he will be confirmed.

Nearly two weeks must elapse before the Hyde-Benson case will come up for argument in Washington, D. C., and until the arguments have been heard District Attorney Heney will be unable to return to Portland to resume the land fraud trials. Indeed it is now considered doubtful whether they will be taken up before the holidays.

Judge Wolverton, who is at Salem with the other members of the state supreme court, received his commission as United States district judge this morning. He will come to Portland to confer with Judge Gilbert as to the time when he will take his seat. Judge Wolverton has received more than 20 applications for appointment as clerk of the United States district court. He has informed all applicants that he will not appoint the clerk until after his own appointment has been confirmed by the senate.

PROGRESS ON HOOD RIVER ROAD

Track Laying in Charge of Taylor, of the Sumpter Valley.

Mr. Taylor, an old track man from the Sumpter Valley railroad has a gang of little brown men laying track on the Mount Hood railway and getting along nicely for the class of men employed.

The track layers, Mr. Taylor says, were taken from the wheat fields of La Grande and have not yet learned the work. With the four spikers, he says he will be able to lay about 2000 feet per day after they get past the bridge across Hood river. The track will reach the bridge today. This will be a truss bridge, the truss 130 feet in length, covering the current of the river, beyond the truss will be a trestle for some distance.

Mr. Taylor is an old, experienced track man, having served some 15 years on the Short Line of the Union Pacific and later has done the track work for the Sumpter Valley railway.

The truss for the Hood river bridge is being gotten out in the yard and will be put in place as soon as the track is made ready for transporting it to the bridge, which will be the first of next week.—Hood River News-Letter.
