SUDDEN DEATH.

Warren Carsner Drops Dead While Eating Dinner.

Warren Carsner dropped dead while eating dinner at a restaurant in this city last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Carsner was here on a business visit and was apparently in the best of health. The remains were taken to Spray, Saturday for burial.

The newspapers are now full of accounts of two murder trials, sensational in the extreme, one in the far West and one in the far East. The Eastern man Thaw, who murdered White in a fashionable resort, the Western man Mitchell who slew Creffield in the streets of Seattle. While Thaw's trial has not actually reached the courts, still it is being tried by the public as much as Mitchells which is now in the courts. Public sympathy and expression in both cases are greatly influenced by the former action of the murdered men. The killing was undoubtedly the result of great provocation. Family ties bound by blood relationship, the strongest links in the chain of human nature, were severely strained. These influences are very apt to draw public sentiment away from the realization of the seriousness of the crimes committed by both Mitchell and Thaw. In both cases the victims were shot down without the least warning. Crimes have been committed for which the perpetrators should be punished. Possibly the death penalty would be too severe, under the circumstances, however, no man should be allowed to hide behind the plea of great provocation in taking a man's life. If a man steals money it is to be supposed that he needs it, but this does not justify the act of stealing.

MANY BLANKETS STOLEN.

First Case of Theft in Relief Work Comes to Light.

San Francisco, June 29.—The first case of serious theft in connection with the relief work came to light yesterday when John Clark, superintendent of one of the Red Cross relief stations in Golden Gate Park, was arrested for stealing blankets. His operations were wholesale and he was aided by George Bryant, engineer of the children's playground in the park. Bryant is also in jail.

The specific charge against the men is the theft of 400 pairs of army blankets, which were sold for $1.20 a pair. Clark, according to the statements of the police, had entered into a contract to deliver 800 pairs of blankets weekly at $1.20 a pair. The blankets were to be taken from the Red Cross supply on requisition of Clark.

The officers laid a trap and when the first 400 pairs were delivered they were seized as evidence and Clark and Bryant were thrown into jail. The police are still looking for other frauds which are believed to exist.
