General Debility

Day in and day out there is that feeling of weakness that makes a burden of itself.
Food does not strengthen.

Not a Good Plan.

Gyer—It isn't always a good plan for a man to try to make a name for himself.

Brutality.

Here the far western orator waxed fervent.

"Fellow citizens," he exclaimed, "ordinarily I pay no attention to campaign slanders, but the candidate on the other ticket has lied about me so persistently and maliciously that forbearance has ceased to be a virtue and I am going to handle him without gloves!"

"You can't!" hoarsely bellowed a man with short hair, a thick neck, and a bulldog face.

"Why not?" demanded the orator.

"'Cause it's agin the rules. Anywheres in this State you've got to have gloves weighin' at least two ounces!"

A Great Outside Remedy.

Most pains are of local origin—a "crick" in the back, a twinge of rheumatism a soreness all over arising from a cold—are all cured by outside applications. The quickest safest, and most certain method is Allcock's Plaster, known the world over as a universal remedy for pain. They never fail, they act promptly they are clean and cheap. You can go right ahead with your work while the healing process goes on. Sixty years' use has given them a great reputation

Another Viewpoint.

"There is at least one thing to be said in favor of boarding houses," said Wedderly.

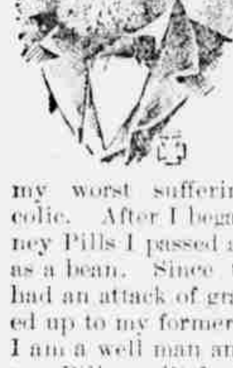
"What's that?" queried Singleton.

"The man who boards usually gets what he kicks for," explained Wedderly, "but in his own home he kicks in vain."

TORTURED WITH GRAVEL.

Since Using Doan's Kidney Pills Not a Single Stone Has Formed.

Capt. S. L. Crute, Adjt. Wm. Watts camp, U. C. V., Roanoke, Va., says:



"I suffered a long, long time with my back, and felt draggy and listless and tired all the time. I lost from my usual weight, 225, to 170. Urinary passages were too frequent and I have had to get up often at night. I had headaches and dizzy spells also, but my worst suffering was from renal colic. After I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I passed a gravel stone as big as a bean. Since then I have never had an attack of gravel, and have picked up to my former health and weight. I am a well man and give Doan's Kidney Pills credit for it."

Story of a Flirtation.

"She wasn't one bit like the girls who indulge in public flirtations; she was so tall and cold and stately," began the car conductor who observes things. "When she got in at 35th street I saw her catch his eye immediately.

"He seemed indifferent and turned his head away. She squeezed into the seat next to him and he became absorbed in looking out of the window.

"She went to all sorts of trouble to attract his attention, that girl. I saw her myself. Finally she jangled her chatelaine loudly and looked at him alluringly from beneath her long-lashed eyes.

"Then he turned and gazed at her questioningly. She smiled, a bright, unabashed smile, with the whole car looking at her.

"Something in that smile warned him, and"—here the conductor paused impressively and tried to hide the twinkle in his eye—"he reached out two pink, chubby little hands to grasp her dangling chatelaine.

"Well, sir, she kissed one of those chubby little hands and pinched his little apple red cheeks and then asked the woman who held him a question. Guess it was his mother and she asked how old he was."—New York Sun.

Not Excluding American Students.

The authorities of the University of Berlin say that statements published abroad to the effect that the stringent regulations concerning the admission of students are designed to exclude many Americans altogether are untrue. Any graduate of an American college who presents a passport and the diploma of bachelor of arts or any other equivalent degree will be admitted without any questions. It is true that the diplomats of some of the smallest institutions bearing the name of colleges are omitted from the list of those recognized. The new regulations are directed against Russians not having sufficient means of support or who are academically unqualified.

White Animals Can't Smell.

"Pure white animals," said a pet stock dealer, "have no sense of smell. Hence they are continually eating things that disagree with them, and in eight cases out of ten poison themselves and die. Pure white pigs should never be allowed to run loose in the fields and woods. For, without the protection of a sense of smell, such pigs, when they get out, eat all sorts of poisonous roots and berries and die off rapidly. In Africa the white rhinoceros poisons itself by eating the euphorbia, and pure white sheep are difficult to rear because they are continually munching shrubs and grasses that don't agree with them."

Butler's Flag.

Feb. 21, 1866, General Benjamin F. Butler presented to congress the first genuine American flag, made of American materials by American labor, ever constructed in this country. Piror to that time all American government flags had been made of English bunting. Since then all our official flags have been the product exclusively of American material and labor. There were twenty-six stars in the flag at that time.

An Evidence of Value.

"I suppose you can remember when a lot of this land could have been bought for a song?"

"Yes," answered Farmer Corntossel. "But after seein' how much my daughter's singin' lessons cost that doesn't seem so cheap."—Washington Star.

RHINOCEROS BATTLES.

William Cotton Oswell, who made his second expedition into the interior of southern Africa in 1847, had two terrible experiences with rhinoceroses. His son, in the lately published biography of his distinguished father, records these adventures.

He had one pre-eminently good horse, Stael, the very pick of all he ever had in Africa, fast and most sweet-tempered, and so fearless that he would without whip, spur, or any urging, carry his master right up to a lion and stand perfectly motionless within a few feet of the brute while Mr. Oswell fired.

Returning to camp one evening on Stael, he fired both barrels of his rifle at a white rhinoceros. Instead of dropping or bolting, it began to walk toward the smoke.

Oswell turned his horse, only to find a thick bush was against its chest. Before he could fell it the rhinoceros drove its horn in under the flank, and threw horse and rider into the air with such terrific force that the point of the horn pierced the saddle.

As they fell, the stirrup-iron scalped his head for a space four inches in length and in breadth. He scrambled to his knees, and saw the horn actually within the bend of his leg. With the energy of self-preservation he sprang to his feet, but after tottering a step or two tripped and came to the ground. The rhinoceros passed within a foot without hurting him.

As he rose for the second time his after-rider came up with another gun. Half-pulling him from his horse, Oswell mounted it, and galloped after and caught the rhinoceros. Keeping back the piece of scalp with his left hand, he held the gun to his shoulder with his right, and shot the brute dead.

On the return journey to the Cape he met with the most serious accident of his life. Stalking two rhinoceroses he was lying flat when they came within twenty yards of him. The nearer of the two came near stepping on him. Hoping that his sudden appearance from the ground would startle her and so give him a chance of escape, he sprang up and dashed alongside of her to get in the rear, his hand being on her as he passed.

She immediately gave chase. A quick turn saved him for the moment; the race was over in the next. As the horned snout came lapping round his thigh he rested the gun on the long head, and, still running, fired both barrels; but with the smoke he found himself sailing through the air, and it was not until three hours later that he recovered consciousness, to find a deep gash in his thigh, eight inches long, down to the bone in all its length.

For nearly four weeks, unable to get to the wagons, he made his bed under a bush.

Sun Rays Help Baldness.

John J. Sheerin, a member of the Logansport police board, has become, by accident, a discoverer of what he believes is a sure cure for baldness. Sheerin has been bald for twenty years, but last summer while spending his vacation at an Eastern summer resort he went about bare-headed. As a result of the hot rays of the sun beating on his head, his scalp became sunburned and blistered. After the blisters had dried and the skin had peeled off, Sheerin says, he noticed a soft, downy growth all over the place where the hair ought to grow, and eventually this growth developed until he now has a very promising crop of healthy and vigorous hair.

Sheerin at first could not account for the unexpected development, but is now firmly convinced that the exposure of his scalp to the sun and the subsequent sunburn actually produced new life and energy to the dormant roots of the hair. He is enthusiastic over his discovery, and is recommending it to his bald-headed friends, many of whom have agreed to give the remedy a trial next summer.—Indianapolis News.

'Twas, Too!

"What shall we name baby sister?" asked a mother of her little 4-year-old daughter.

"Call her Early, mamma; that's a pretty name."

"Early? That is not a little girl's name."

"Oh, yes, it is! Don't you remember you read to me about a little girl who was to be the May queen, and who wanted her mother to call her Early?"

Like a Dog Watch.

Mamma had not noticed the clock striking during all of the afternoon and, thinking perhaps it had stopped, she asked little Rita to go into the hall and see if it was running. After a hasty survey of the long pendulum swinging back and forth, Rita ran back and announced, "Why, no, mamma, it isn't running. It's standing still and wagging its tail."—Harper's Weekly.

A Problem.

"What do you intend to do with all your enormous wealth?"

"I don't know yet," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "I'm trying to determine what method of getting rid of it will subject me to the least criticism and ridicule."—Washington Star.

School for Smiling.

"You would be surprised," said a teacher, "could you but know how large a part the smile plays in real life. In these days it is the woman who smiles!

"Once upon a time it was the woman who frowned; and there were periods, in the Jane Eyre days, when to wear an imperious expression was the real thing. But that was long ago. In these days it is the girl with a laugh.

"Even queens laugh. In the latest picture of Queen Amelia of Portugal that royal lady wears a smile so deep that it will not come off, while Queen Alexandra has been caught by the camera smiling.

"There is a distinct art in smiling. The eyes must smile and the whole face must light up."

THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all-important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating, or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists and that full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co., is plainly printed on the front of every package. Regular price, 50c per bottle.
