

Local Notes.

W. T. McNabb came up from Ione, Tuesday.

G. W. Chapin was in from Hardman, Monday.

L. Monestrelli came over from Pendleton, Saturday.

Emil Scharff came over from Monument, Monday.

M. S. Corrigan was in from Butter creek, Saturday.

Harry Bartholomew, of Echo, was in the city, Monday.

E. Jay Merrill, of Hardman, was a Heppner visitor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ayers came in from Parker's mill, Tuesday.

Miss Emma Farnsworth was an outgoing passenger Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wall returned Sunday from a week's visit in Portland.

Go to H. Howard for your carpet and rug weaving. Prompt attention to orders and satisfaction guaranteed.

W. R. Irwin and E. L. Freeland were down to Arlington one day last week on a goose shooting trip. They report poor luck.

See Westerberg for holiday candies. Packages are filled with extra fancy factory and home made candies.

Willard and Claude Herren will put in a new sawmill as soon as spring opens. The mill will be located on Willard Herren's place near the coal mines. The capacity of the mill will be 15,000 feet per day.

Rev. T. J. Anthony, of Portland, has been called to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of this city. Rev. Anthony is a capable and earnest minister and will do good work here.

Rev. Mead M. Bledsoe, field missionary for the Baptist state convention of Oregon, who has been assisting Rev. Anthony in revival meetings at the Baptist church in this city, went to Ione, Sunday morning.

Geo. French who is in the city states that he is now running 7,000 head of sheep on his range about 30 miles from Mountain Home, Idaho. He has an abundance of range.

County Surveyor Heath returned Monday evening from a trip to the mountains in the vicinity of the Willow creek coal mines. Mr. Heath states that there was no snow in the mountains when he left there, which is unusual at this time of year. A large amount of wood is now being hauled from the mountains, states the Surveyor.

Curt Rhea was in from the farm Friday.

Fred Lucas went to Portland Sunday.

We are all glad that the holiday bugaboo is dead.

Wm. Hughes was an incoming passenger Friday evening.

J. R. Cyfert, of Lexington, was a Heppner visitor Saturday.

Geo. French came down from Idaho to attend the funeral of his mother.

The nights are a little frosty, but who ever saw finer December weather.

Secretary Dan P. Smythe of the Oregon Woolgrowers' Association has sent to the forestry service at Washington a request for the removal of J. M. Schmitz, supervisor of the Wenaha reserve, A.S. Ireland, supervisor of the Western division of the Blue Mountain reserve, and Milton Sullens, ranger in the eastern Blue Mountain division. The request is in accordance with resolutions passed at the recent meeting of the State Woolgrowers' Association.

Cashier Geo. Conser, of the First National bank, was greatly surprised Thursday morning when he walked into the bank and found on his desk his own likeness enlarged and surrounded with a beautiful frame. Mr. Conser has not the least idea who the friends were that presented the bank with this picture, but no one on earth is better fitted to appreciate a kindly act than the whole souled cashier of the First National bank who has so ably conducted the business of this well known financial institution for so many years.

Ladies' Bazaar.

Look out for that bazaar given by the ladies of the Southern Methodist church Dec. 18, at the old Slocum Drug store building, corner opposite Fair building. Fancy articles to sell suitable for Christmas presents. The young ladies will have a counter where home made candies can be bought; also a lunch counter.

The public is cordially invited to come, to see, and to buy.
