

LISTEN! Two More Days Remain of the Big $35,000 Stock Sale

MARQUARDSEN'S Dept. Store, Heppner

No warning needed here. Many people will buy goods even against their best judgment, if strongly urged by salesmen, hence the mischief of paying sales people premiums to force out slow selling goods—a pernicious practice in more general use than merchants like to acknowledge. But not a premium is paid in our store. Goods are moved their first season by just such generous reductions as that are just made amongst our $35,000 stock sale.

Reliable Wool News.

Wool is raised extensively in all parts of the United States, including Wall street. It is used as a garment for wolves and to adjust over people's eyes. In Wall street wool takes the form of fleece and is highly prized as a protection for both bulls and bears, who are often too thinly clad for their own comfort. Thus the tender lamb is glad to help out its brothers in distress. The shearing hours are from 10 to 3.

Wool is obtained from sheep that we remember to have seen in oil paintings dotting the landscape. Dotted the landscape is, however, not an occupation in itself, but is only a means toward an end. Most of it is imported to other countries, but occasionally traces of it are found in our domestic woolen underwear.

The phrase "All wool and a yard wide" was invented by the modern laundryman. Since his advent it has been revised to "All wool and three inches wide."

Sheep are very simple in their habits, and although they never use hair tonics, or wash and dress hair every night before going to bed, they seldom become bald or are obliged to sit in the front row. Their name is also always the same so they are not likely to get lost. When we say sheep we simply mean a lot of sheeps gathered together.

In ordinary cases sheep arrive at maturity in a year or so, but Mary's little lamb never grows old and is as frisky as ever. Mary's little lamb indeed is the only one who has pulled the wool over every one's eyes and concealed his real age ever since he was born.

Wool is used in this country for flannel bandages and chest protectors. In these alternate forms it is worn by husbands who have caught cold, and who have no other means to defend themselves than to look sheepish.—EX.

Fossil Journal: Fall plowing is now the order of the day and almost all the farmers are busy turning over the rich mellow soil that abounds in this part of the country. Thanks to the splendid rains of last week the ground was never in better condition for fall plowing and seeding.
