

COFFEE FOR TWO.

As yet it's a table just for two,
A plate for me and a plate for Sue—
My bride and I.
White as her heart is the cloth between,
Bright as her eyes the silver's sheen;
And I gaze and try
To understand and to calculate
Why I have won so much from Fate,
As she who gazes with eyes of blue
Across the table set for two.
Fragrance o' flow'ret in her breast,
Whiff from the urn; now, which is best?
I scarcely know!
Sweet is the scent of the double rose,
But oh, that sniff from the urn's bright nose
Is surely so.
And smiles seem dearer and lips more sweet
When seen through the shimmer of fragrant heat
From CHASE & SANBORN'S perfect brew
Above our table set for two.

OREGON A GREAT STATE.

The following facts about the state of Oregon are being sent out by the Portland Commercial Club. The information will be found interesting even for the people of our own state.

Oregon has one-sixth of the standing timber of the United States, or more than any other state. Government estimate, three hundred billion feet.

A vast undeveloped area now available to the homemaker and investor will go on the market in 1909. This will be the most luscious melon cut in Uncle Sam's domain during the present year.

Has arable land enough for 20,000,000 people. Present population 700,000.

Does more than any other state to advance irrigation, being the largest contributor to the United States reclamation fund.

Is natural dairying state. Annual product $17,000,000, an increase from $5,000,000 five years ago. Ranks second in wool clip among the states.

Oregon apples, pears and cherries find their way to tables of sovereigns and multi-millionaires of every civilized land—they are the best. Returns of from $300 to $1,000 per acre on fruit lands are not exceptional.

Poultry products $5,000,000 annually. Local market demands three times that amount at highest prices.

Has water powers, being rapidly developed, sufficient to run all the machinery in the United States.

Livestock in state estimated at $75,000,000. Packing plants now building insure a trebled market.

Has two prosperous mining sections, located in the Eastern and southern portions of the state. Gold, silver, iron, copper and oil, among the products.

Has diversity of climate and soils suited to every product of the temperate zone not dependent upon hot nights.

OREGON 50 YEARS A STATE.

Oregon, as now delimited in area, was admitted into the union as a state 50 years ago, Sunday. It had been a territory for 10 years, and prior to that had been a part of the far greater "Oregon country." When admitted as a state its white population was approximately 50,000, to which it had grown from 13,000 during the territorial decade. James Bachanon was president of the United States. Since then there have been 10 presidents, three of whom were assassinated, and the population of the country has grown from 30,000,000 to more to more than 85,000,000. Oregon had been a state for 10 years before there was a transcontinental railroad, and much longer before electricity came into use for light and power. The telephone was undreamed of; Edison was yet a boy. The population of Oregon has been multiplied 14 times or more, but this, considering the state's climate and wealth of natural resources, has been a slow growth. Washington, long behind Oregon, and with only about equal resources and attractions, passed this state years ago, and now exceeds it by about two thirds. We all know the reasons. The principal one is: Washington had a Hill; Oregon has had a Harriman.

Oregon had, from the first, men of much ability to conduct her public and business affairs. She has on several occasions played a notable part in national affairs, and has helped to make history. The "Oregon Question, was the leading one in national councils years before there was a state of Oregon. Once a presidential election hinged on an Oregon vote. More than an average proportion of Oregon people have won distinction in various ways.

What a long time it seems, as viewed from the record of events, the changes wrought, the progress made, the achievements. No nation ever progressed so much, at such a pace, save perhaps Japan, in that space of time. Nor has the world so advanced or been so enlightened, during any half century.

Oregon is a 50 year-old youth, a child, as yet, in material development. Her growth, though very slow, has been healthy. Her capacities, though largely unused, have not therefore withered or dwindled. They lie in virgin virtue and youthful strength, awaiting the touch of mind, muscle and money, by which agencies they can be almost indefinitely expanded. The time is ripe for greater expansion, activity, development, production.

In the next decade, Oregon ought to grow as much as she has in the past 50. The land is here, the soil, the streams, the forests, the climate, all necessary natural resources and all desirable attractions; what is needed is the people, with the tools, mind, muscle and money. These are coming, more and more every year, and will come in constantly increasing numbers, unless the people already here fail in their duty to their beloved state.—Portland Journal.

Dollar wheat sounds good even if the farmers haven't any to sell.

Only two more days of the legislature.

And the woolgrowers are feeling good too.

Whitman National Forest.

The Secretary of Agriculture has authorized the grazing of 18,250 head of cattle on the Whitman National Forest during the season of 1909.

The summer grazing period for cattle and horses will be from May 15 to October 15, the charge for which will be 20c per head on cattle and 30c per head on horses.

A grazing permit from April 15 to October 31 will be allowed at the rate of 25c per head on cattle and 35c per head on horses.

A year-long grazing period, beginning April 12 may also be allowed at the rate of 40c per head on cattle and 50c per head on horses.

The Summer grazing period for sheep will be either from June 20 to October 20, or from July 1 to October 31, the charge for which will be 6c per head.

A grazing period from April 15 to November 20 may be allowed at the rate of 10c per head.

A year long grazing period beginning April 15 may also be allowed at the rate of 15c per head.

An additional charge of 2c per head will be made on all ewes lambing within the forest.

Animals under six months of age at the time of entry will not be counted or charged for.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that I the undersigned person, have under and pursuant to the Laws of the State of Oregon prohibiting stock from running at large in the County of Morrow taken up, and now have at my place about 18 miles north of Lexington, Oregon, the following described animal, to-wit:

One sorrel gelding, 3 or 4 years old, with white hind feet, branded CL on right shoulder.

The owner or owners of said animal are hereby notified that unless said animal is claimed and the costs and reasonable charges of taking and keeping same paid on or before Saturday, March 6, 1909, I will on said day sell such animal as provided by law for the sale of stock so found running at large.

The Sacred Goose.

In Egypt the goose was the emblem of Seb, father to Osiris. A precious figure of it is extant inscribed "The Good Goose Greatly Beloved." It was the national flag of Burma and of Kandy, Ceylon. Wherever Buddhism rules the goose is venerated. Therefore it is a leading motif in the art of Japan and a symbol of peace and happiness in China. Figures of geese are as indispensable at a Chinese wedding as is bride cake with us. In both countries, as also in Burma and Siam, weights are made in the shape of a goose as a token of good faith, though the connection is not obvious. But in ancient Egypt the same custom ruled, and Layard found goose weights among his first discoveries at Nineveh. A row of gigantic geese surrounds the great Buddhist temple at Annapoora. The devout cherish a fond fancy that all geese perform an aerial pilgrimage to the holiest of lakes in the Himalayas every year, transporting the sins of the neighborhood, returning with a new stock of inspiration for the encouragement of local piety.

When the Play Fails.
"Patently, morning, noon, night, sometimes far into the dawn, the rehearsal go on, first the steps, then the music, then the words, then the situations with principals and stars in rehearsal and always the business, the exacting command, the sharp rebuke, the tireless round.

"How would you like to rehearse day and night, seven weeks, without pay, and find yourself out of a job after the first night?"

"Wouldn't you rather read of a glorious triumph and see the managers and authors and composers rake in the shekels, the golden, glittering shekels, even though they grew fat on them, for the sake of the people who had rehearsed seven weeks without pay?"

"The tragedy of failure is back in the land of make believe, down in the crowded dressing room, down where the girls huddle together and tremble, down where one weeps silently and dries her eyes on the skirt of a useless costume."—Smith's Magazine.

Not Very Green.
"Odd, isn't it, how human ways are in such direct contradiction to nature?"

"In what, for instance?"
"Did you ever find anything green about a grass widow?"—Baltimore American.

The Dilemma.
"How can I ever learn to understand that girl?"

"You can marry her, but when you have done that it will be too late for your understanding of her to be of any benefit to you."—Exchange.

Earmarks

No bank is better than its management. Each man may judge our bank for himself from the elements that make a good bank. Capital and deposits are necessary to make a strong bank. The capital is the actual money put into the business by the stockholders. Surplus indicates what has been earned above the dividends and expenses.

The amount of deposits represents the money placed in the care of the bank by the people. A bank's deposits are an indication of the amount of business done and the confidence placed in the bank by individuals.

The officers of a safe bank are always experienced men—honest in the bank business as well as the outside; they are men who have confidence in other men, and who look upon humanity with a spirit of helpfulness.

The capital of this bank is ample to meet the demands of our customers; our surplus shows that safe banking is done, it having increased steadily year by year. Our deposits tell to what extent the people have placed confidence in us. Our officers are experienced, they are men who are glad to give their advice in financial matters.

We do render good service to our customers, and will aid others who are not now our customers.
