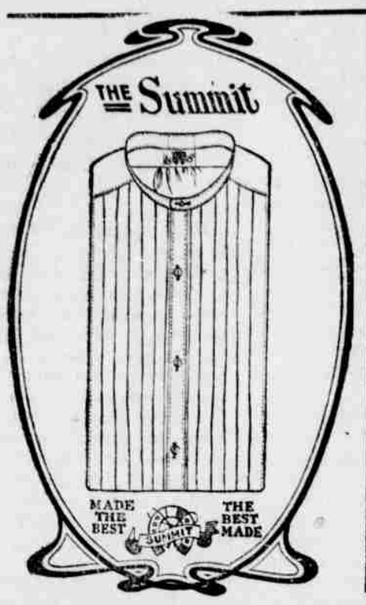
HIGH GRADE FURNISHINGS FOR MEN

Many men conssder the shirt as the basis and the tie as the finishing touch to correct appareling. To all such we recommend our furnishings



The New Dress and Negligee Shirts at $1.25 are Ready in the New Models.

These shirts we have been selling for two years, at $1.25 and yet today they are not matched anywhere for less than $1.75. The materials are of thorough excellence and the shirt making is above adverse criticism. Neckbands are accurately sized, sleeve lengths are right and properly proportioned to the different sizes of bodies, and the needs of men of all figures made in various desirable styles, open front, pleated or plain, with or without coat models, or cuffs attached. $1.25.

Seasonable Half Hose at a Very Wide Price Range

The hints that follow are merely suggestive of our stock of half hose. Not even all the prices are mentioned and a personal inspection is the only means of appreciating the variety. The best makers of Eastern houses are represented and hundreds of the patterns are exclusive. We haven't exactly "cornered the market" but we have assembled here more Hosiery of the best sorts that can be found. No good style is missing, nor any size, shade of Tans, Greens, Purples, Oxbloods, Plain or Fancy Striped, Checked or Dotted. Values 10c, 15c, 25c, 35c, 50c.

Marquardsen's

Heppner . . . . Oregon

Men's Black and Brown Derby Hats at $2.50.

These hats have been made from bodies that were intended for $3 00 and $3.50 hats. We secured this lot this spring from one of the best hat concerns in the business. The maker claimed that the bodies showed slight imperfection, but since the hats have been made up we find it very hard to locate any defects. Nobody but an expert would detect the difference between these hats and those sold at $3.00 and $3.50. The blocking, binding and finishing have been done in the very best possible manner. Several heights of crowns, widths of brim. Complete range of sizes 6 5-8 to 7 1-2. All $2.50.

TRADE'S ERA OF GOOD FEELING

Simultaneously comes the news of the Harriman-Hill gentlemen's agreement, the placing of heavy orders abroad for American steel, and the general advances in the stock market. This is a welcome relief from the gloomy talk which was heard a week or ten days ago, on account of the assumed disturbance which tariff revision would cause. Says the younger Hill, the new president of the Great Northern, "There is no fight between the Hill and Harriman forces. There has been none between them since 1901, although the public imagined there was. The feeling between them now is better than it ever was in the past." Coming from the head of one of the rival interests, this assurance is pleasing reading to the country. In different words Mr. Harriman confirms this story of a peace pact. The seat of war between these forces, if there were any war, would be in the Northwest chiefly, and more railroad building is being done in the Northwest at this moment than in any other section of the country. This means that the men who are putting up the money there not only see peace, but they see a prospect of heavy traffic in the immediate future.

Elbert H. Gary, Charles M. Schwab and the rest of the steel magnates have as good a cause for rejoicing as the heads of the rival transportation interests in the trans-Mississippi region are showing. To Mr. Schwab's company has just come a heavy order for battle ships for Argentina. Another American concern has secured a contract for rails and fish plates for the street railway system of Glasgow. These American companies made lower bids than their foreign rivals, and thus got the work. Scotch steel makers were beaten on their own ground. Germany which is making greater strides forward in steel production than England, was the chief competitor for the Argentina contract, but it was, according to report, "beaten out of sight by Schwab's company." The American people like these evidences of American skill and efficiency.

The country now has an intelligent reason for the advances in the stock market. Business is sound. The general direction of all activities is toward expansion. Revised returns tell us that the world's gold yield was a long way over $400,000,000 in the calendar year 1908, which broke all records. As the adoption of labor economizing methods in gold extraction continues, some of the abandoned mines of a few years are now being worked profitably. Deducting the amount of the metal used in the arts and industries, more than $300,000,000 of gold each year is now being added to the world's stock of coin. Here is one of the reasons why prices of all commodities were sustained so well during the recent trade stagnation. All the world's financial centers are well supplied with cash. Even the treasury at Washington reveals within the past week or two the effects of the trade revival. The revised figures for March show that the deficit for that month was only $3,115,000, instead of the $4,000,000 which had been estimated on the last day of the month, and instead of the $6,000,000 or $8,000,000 which had been predicted seven or eight weeks earlier. Thus the cheerful tone of the railway chiefs, the steel magnates and the other captains of industry is communicated to the treasury officials. All along the line the industrial and financial situation is better than had been looked for by this time by even the most sanguine. The treasury deficit for the year will probably pass the $100,000,000 mark, but it will stop far short of the giddy height which everybody a few months ago feared it would reach.

In the general chorus of cheerfulness which is going up from heads of the larger activities all over the country the great mass of the people have a right to join.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

TONIC FOR THE COMMUNITY

Service is the keynote of a bank's usefulness—it embraces all else.

Good bank service is business tonic. It keeps financial matters in a flourishing condition. Each individual who deals with the bank contributes a portion to the ingredients that compose this tonic, and receives his share of the benefit.

Banks help to keep business moving, they make it easier for men to do business with one another by furnishing safe and convenient methods.

Banks expedite business transactions, supply accurate means to customers in financial matters, offer a safe place for keeping money. Banks keep money in circulation, their system makes possible more work for each dollar.

Bank service is a constant every day tonic to business, and the tonic effects are lasting, they do not wear off. The business of each new day is helped along by bank service.

Among business men, good bank service is accepted as a matter of fact. Men who are brought face to face with actual business with good bank service for the first time appreciate it at once.

Our service must be experienced to be appreciated. We would enjoy giving YOU the benefits of our service.
