

Men's Dress Shirts Beyond Compare

We have a proud array of Men's Summer Shirts at $1.25 this spring. Our men's furnishing department announces further news. The chief item is a fine collection of negligee shirts made of excellent quality madras. Some plain white, some with white grounds and neat figures or stripes. Some are in coat style with cuffs attached, others plain negligee style with separate cuffs. They are shirts such as could be sold in other stores at $1.50, and many at $1.50 are not as good. It is "to your taste and needs" with the straw hat this season. Fashion has not been at all arbitrary, neither have we in the collection of our straw hats. All the good hat men contribute their best product to the collection. It is as large as any in the town, exhausting the new models with brims and crowns from extreme to extreme.

Honey has received only $70,000 from the government for his work in prosecution. Great philanthropist.

The price of radium will soon be so low that everybody can use it. The price is down now to $570,000 an ounce.

When President Taft visits Seattle the latter part of September, to attend the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, it is predicted that the largest gathering ever known on the Pacific Coast will congregate. Special arrangements are already under way to provide special entertainment for not only the President but the crowds also. Three previous presidents have visited Seattle while in office, Hayes, Harrison and Roosevelt. Each visit was a memorable occasion. The records for crowds established on these visits are certain to be shattered when "Big Bill" comes, not that he is a stranger to Seattle and the Northwest, but because he is so well known and so well liked here. Many prospective visitors will put off their coming until the visit of the President, when they will "kill two birds with one stone." The President will leave the East, September 15th, stopping enroute for brief visits in Denver, Salt Lake and Spokane. Owing to Mrs. Taft's poor health, he will not be able to make the contemplated trip to Alaska this year.

The following poetical appeal won for its author, the editor of the Rocky Mountain "Celt," the prize of $1,000 for the best appeal poem to subscribers to pay up their subscription:

"Lives of poor men oft remind us honest men don't stand no chance. The more we work there grow behind us bigger patches on our pants. On our pants, once new and glossy, now are strips of different hue, all because subscribers linger and don't pay us what is due. Then let us be up and doing, send in your mite, however small, or when the snow of winter strikes us, we shall have no pants at all."

Wm. Becholdt was in Heppner the first of the week from his farm south of Hardman.

Mrs. Clementine Cate is very sick at the Heppner Sanitarium and her recovery is very doubtful.

The ladies of the Christian church will serve tea at the home of Mrs. E. Minor on west May street, Saturday afternoon, from 3 to 5. Tea, coffee, cake, hot biscuit and butter, etc., will be served, all for 15 cents.

MISPLACED CONFIDENCE.

The Victim Said Nothing, but Did a Heap of Thinking.

At a railway station the other day "a gentleman from the country" yielded to the pressing solicitation of a persistent newsboy and bought a penny weekly paper.

But here was a difficulty—a shilling, no change and the engine of the train giving unmistakable evidence of a speedy departure.

The bargain was about to be canceled when the boy volunteered to get the shilling changed into pence.

"But," said the gent, "perhaps you will not return with the 11 pence."

"If you are afraid to trust me, sir," said he, and there was the least trace of emotion in his voice, "you can have the other eleven copies as security."

Something suspiciously like moisture came into the old man's eyes as he glanced into the bright, open countenance of the boy, and he felt heartily ashamed of himself as he mechanically held out his hand for the remaining eleven copies.

He watched the little fellow as he trotted down the platform till he sailed round a corner and was lost to sight.

Fifteen seconds later the engine gave a final shriek, and the train slowly glided out of the station.

The man glanced round at his fellow passengers and handed a copy of the paper to each one from his pile.

He said nothing, but he seemed to be thinking.—London Tit-Bits.

NATURE AS A CHEMIST.

Feats Which the Highest Exactitude of Science Cannot Rival.

The bursting leaves of springtime illustrate nature as a chemist who performs feats which the highest exactitude of science cannot hope to rival. In a leaf the living matter is his chemist, and the cell is his laboratory.

By daylight the leaf chemist is absorbing the carbonic acid gas and is decomposing this gas into its component elements—carbon and oxygen. The carbon it is retaining as part of the plant's food to enter into combination with water, and the oxygen it sets free into the atmosphere. By night this process ceases, for light is an essential feature in the operation.

Out of the carbon and the water the leaf chemist will elaborate the sugars and starches which the plant world affords. As sugar the products will pass from the leaf to be stored up, as in the case of the potato, for example, so as to afford a storehouse of food whereon the plant may draw for its sustenance and for the development of its leaves and flowers when occasion comes. All the vegetable essences and acids, the scents and gums, the juices which yield india rubber, the flavoring of fruits and even the color of the flowers are similarly the products of a constructive chemistry which heats man's best efforts to imitate. Man follows nature, but at a distance.—Chicago Tribune.

Temperate.
