A Difference at Marquardsen's

Why should people take extra trouble to come a long distance to buy in Marquardsen's store?
Why should this store more and more have the public preference?

Apparel can be bought anywhere. It is possible any where to get a man's hat at $3.00, or a suit at $20, or groceries at whatever you care to pay.

The reason people come to us is for the DIFFERENCE in our merchandise because everything here is right.

If not found so we insist upon making it so, chosen out of the experience of years for superior

Quality, Beauty and Service

The reason people come to Marquardsen's is that they are sure to find something better for the money than they can get elsewhere.
Each reason finds these conditions more evident and the people more generally aware of them.

... Security ...

Of all the reasons why public preference is given to Marquardsen's the sense of

Security

is perhaps not the least.

SECURITY in the quality of merchandise, assurance that before it reaches our counters every article must have met and passed the most critical examination.

SECURITY in style correctness, the certainty that what is here is right.

Security in the Cost

A comfortable assurance that our prices are always fair and often advantageous to the purchaser.

Among the Rural Schools

Early on the morning of October 10, I started on a trip to Pine City to visit the school. The roads were quite dusty. When I arrived at the ranch of Hynd Bros, I looked at myself and recalled that I had read somewhere that the first man was created out of the dust of the earth. I began to think I was the man. It soon began to rain, and the dust gave no more trouble.

Arriving at the school I found Mr. Calavan and the pupils hard at work. There were 25 pupils present. The pupils are alert and interested in their work. The school is provided with an excellent blackboard and a fair supply of apparatus. New window boards have been placed in the windows, thus insuring good ventilation. A new stove has been placed in the room since my former visit. The windows are equipped with excellent shades. A new well and pump furnish a supply of good water. The door has been changed to open outward. A few good pictures have been placed upon the walls, adding much to the attractiveness of the walls.

In the evening a local educational meeting was held at the school house. There was a good sized crowd of people present. There were several recitations by pupils of the school. Miss Maude Irvine and Zelpha Munkers and Prof. Calavan discussed the topic of home study. The writer delivered a short lecture.

The following morning I visited the school in district No. 27. This school is small this term, the enrollment being eight. However, Mr. Ward allows no time to go to waste. As a part of the opening exercises, the pupils sang a motion song and engaged in a drill in calisthenics. The district is trying to keep pace with improvements. Two new buildings have been erected. These are substantially built and neatly finished. These are substantially built and neatly finished. The vaults are so arranged as to keep the flies from going into them. This is an excellent sanitary measure. A new well curb and platform have been provided for the well. The lumber is on the ground for a new floor. A new blackboard has been ordered and a new flag will soon float from the flag staff.

The next school I visited is the Juniper Canyon school, to reach which I had to cross the famous Strawberry Flat. This country may, when water is obtained either from the John Day River or from artesian wells, prove that Pap McAlister was a prophet when he named the region Strawberry Flat. Miss Pearl M. Hendrick teaches the Juniper Canyon school. This school is small, the enrollment being ten. The school house has been moved recently to a more central location. Pupils and teacher are working to make the most of the term, and they are succeeding. Several new wall maps and a new flag have been ordered and will be on hand soon. The clerk has written to the school furniture companies for prices on desks, and it is quite likely that new desks will be ordered within a short time.

The following morning I set out upon the old emigrant road toward Ella. I passed Well Springs, a place of which I have heard many of the old pioneers of the Willamette Valley speak. It seems to have been a sort of a resting place on the long overland journey made by the early settlers of the state. A little further on, I passed a grave yard in which several emigrants lie buried. This suggests in a vivid manner some of the hardships of the emigrants.

At Ella, Miss Josephine Adams and seven pupils were diligently working away at the school work. There will be a larger attendance as soon as the farmers finish seeding. There is an excellent school sentiment in this district. Everything seemed to indicate a good school.

In the afternoon I visited the school in district No. 9. Miss Rosa L. Warner is the teacher. As the pupils are all at one end of the district, Phill Doherty has fitted up a private school house, and the school is held there. The school room is neat and comfortable. The walls are papered, good window shades are provided, and neat sash curtains temper the light and add to the appearance of the room. The light is admitted from the left side and the rear, thus avoiding all cross lights. The work is moving along nicely.
