School Notes.

Last Thursday I made a trip to district No. 34. Miss Margaret Osten is the teacher of this school. There is an enrollment of 10. Since my former visit, an excellent black-board has been provided for the school, two new maps have been purchased, and two new desks added to the number already on hand. Lumber has been purchased and is now on hand to finish the building. Since the building is not finished, the school will take a vacation until spring, this being the closing week of the present term.

On the following day I visited the school in district No. 38. Miss Eliza E. Love teaches this school. The enrollment is 13. The pupils all seemed interested in their work and were diligent and orderly. I was pleased to note the extensive use of the dictionary by the pupils. The pupils did some excellent marching and showed much interest in a calisthenic drill. The physical well being of the pupils is not overlooked. Window boards have been made and will be placed in the windows at once to insure good ventilation.

The school house in this district has been practically rebuilt during the past summer. New rustic has been put on. A new and neat looking porch has been built at the front of the building, which not only adds to the appearance of the building but increases the comfort of the pupils; the inside has been improved by a new floor and new ceiling, and the woodwork, inside and outside, has been tastefully painted. A new hyloplate black-board and a new globe have been provided. The windows are provided with good shades and neat sash curtains. The walls are tastefully decorated with some excellent pictures. Two new out-houses have been erected. These are very well arranged and are kept in excellent condition. The school board in this district certainly appreciates the value of good sanitary conditions in maintaining the health of the pupils. Uncomfortable and filthy outbuildings at school houses are responsible for the beginnings of more physical disorders than we are apt to think. I am glad so many school boards are awake to these facts.

Literary societies and debating clubs have been reorganized in a number of districts and some new ones are contemplated. The school house should be made a sort of social center in every neighborhood. A good debating club, a singing school, and an occasional spelling match would prove helpful in a social and educational way in any community. Some work in debating might be undertaken in the school, since it is often the case that the pupils do not have an opportunity to debate much in the evening debating club. Some most excellent information upon debating may be obtained from the bulletin published by the State University, entitled "Oregon High School Debating League." Let us make use of some of the long evenings by working along some of these lines.
