Would Put More Interest in Farm Life.

Spokane, Wash.—To relieve the congestion of the cities, make life attractive for the present residents of the rural districts and to increase the productiveness of every acre of tillable land in America is the object of Governor M. E. Hay of Washington, in requesting President C. M. Fassett, of the Spokane chamber of commerce, to appoint a committee of educators, business and professional men to formulate a practical working plan for the country life movement inaugurated by former President Roosevelt.

In his letter to President Fassett, Governor Hay says: "I am firmly convinced that there are more dissatisfied people in the cities than in the country. It is not the adult population of the country which is lured to the city, but the younger generation attracted by the glare and glimmer of better raiment, more leisure, less hardship and more social advantages. The city man in his wisdom, brain and body weary of the mealstrom of strenuous commercialism, looks longingly at the green fields, the river and the hills, yet dreads the dead roads, poor school, limited social intercourse and many other conditions which must be rectified.

"It is my desire that you appoint a committee to formulate a practical working plan whereby these conditions will be so changed that the country life will be attractive alike to the tired city man and the youngster on the farm. Farming must be made a business and that business will soon become a pleasure. Every year the city demands its soil of humanity from the soil. In its insatiable maw it crunches the life out of thousands and demands more. It is our plain duty to repay a part of that debt and to return to the country a large portion of the life which has been sacrificed upon the altar of greed."

When the committee makes its report, which is expected shortly, the governor will appoint chairmen of committees throughout the state to start the work of a permanent organization which promises to be one of the most far-reaching and important movements ever attempted in America. Intensive farming makes conditions ideal in the inland empires for the successful establishment of Roosevelt's ideas.

Will Push Fight on Merger

Washington, Jan. 25.—The President has determined to press to a conclusion the pending suit against the Union and Southern Pacific Railroad Companies, looking to a dissolution of the merger, and today concluded to deny the application of Mr. Lovett, Harriman's successor, for a dismissal of the suit.

Soon after Judge Lovett and a number of influential railroad people appealed to the President to quash proceedings before Judge Vandever-ter's court in Salt Lake City, Mr. Taft, following the course that had been adopted in the case of the famous New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, referred the matter to the Attorney-General for examination. In the New England case, it was found that, because of action taken by the State of Massachusetts and the insignificance of the Government's interests, it would be best to abandon the prosecution of the railroad, and this was done.

But Attorney-General Wickersham reached a different conclusion in the Pacific Railroad merger case and today he handed to President Taft a voluminous report, conclusions of which justified the President in the announcement that there was a good case against the railroads, following the decision in the Northern Securities litigation. Therefore, proceedings at Salt Lake City will be pressed.

The status of the case at present is this: The Government has put in its testimony. The defense must begin in April and the usual evidence in rebuttal must be submitted thereafter. Then the case will go to that novel tribunal of four judges provided by the anti-trust act, known as the expediting court, and doubtless, in the end it will come before the Supreme Court of the United States.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Mary Nye of Columbus, Miss Bertha Salsberger of Bellaire and Mrs. Irvine C. Miller of Springfield, O., have been appointed deputy inspectors of workshops and factories.

Mrs. Eva Talbert of Cincinnati is said to be the only woman structural iron worker in the world. She helps her husband put up fire escapes, frequently working at dizzy heights on the tops of tall buildings.

Helen Mathers, well known as a writer in England, has decided to exchange the pen for the brush and will go into business as a decorator. This is said to be the first instance of a woman's exchanging a literary vocation for business.

Mrs. Asher Richardson of Ashertown, Tex., has been appointed assistant general superintendent of the Ashertown Gulf railroad. Thirty-two miles of the road have been completed, and it is now being extended sixty miles more. Mrs. Richardson has charge of the employment and work of a large body of men.

Miss N. Edwards of Coaley, Gloucestershire, is said to be the highest authority in England on poultry. She has won over 1,000 prizes and exported poultry into every country. Beginning in a small way with only twenty fowls, her poultry farm is now one of the largest in England. She does not raise chickens for the general market, but sells eggs and stock birds.

College and School.

There are now in the schools of New York city nearly 26,000 more pupils than there were one year ago.

Fifty-nine more students were registered at Stanford university this year than last. The total number is 1,537, of whom 458 are in the freshman class.

Miss Mary Snow, an instructor in Pratt institute, New York, has been called to Chicago to be supervisor of the household arts department in the public schools.

Miss Agnes Irwin, dean of Radcliffe college, resigned Sept. 1, and with her withdrawal one of the most prominent educators of the day ceases to take active part in school work.

Hawkes Grammar school, near Ambleside, where Wordsworth was educated and which was founded in 1585 by Edwyne Sandys, archbishop of York, will shortly be closed.

ABOARD A SUBMARINE.

The Crew, the Work and the Kind of Life the Men Lead.

Life aboard a submarine is not so unpleasant or dangerous as one might imagine, but it is entirely different from that led on other types of ships.

The crew, usually consisting of two officers and fourteen men, is selected from volunteers after a most rigid medical examination. Service rarely extends beyond a period of two years, and real work on a submarine is limited to about three weeks in the summer and one in the winter. During the remainder of the time the men live on a "parent" ship or on shore. The boat is, however, put through the various evolutions once every week.

The first impression on entering a submarine is one of heat, the air being rather close and heavy, but the men soon become accustomed to it. Standing room space is about six and one-half feet, and toward both ends the boat tapers away almost to a point. There are no portholes. The hatchway in the conning tower is the only aperture. Under water electric light is used. There are ventilators, but when the boat dives they are shut off with a cap.

Life on board a submarine is essentially "in common." The way men and many objects are crammed together in a narrow space is almost miraculous.

Cooking is done in an electric oven, and no foods which have a strong or disagreeable smell are used. Of course smoking is allowed only when on the surface and then on the bridge. Owing to the character of the men selected discipline is perfect.

There is scarcely any noise in a submarine when submerged. The greatest depth the boat descends does not exceed thirty feet. At that depth her speed is about 8 knots. The air is quite "breathable" for four hours, but in case of emergency the crew can remain closed in for seventy hours without danger.

The men love the life. With the officers they are as one family, sharing everything equally, including the dangers, which are not much to speak of, provided every one does his duty. When the weather is fair there is very little rolling. In rough weather the men escape knocking about by holding on to "steading lines."—New York Press.

JURIES IN ENGLAND.

They Get Through Their Work Quickly and With Little Fuss.

The working of the British jury system exhibits a marked contrast with that of our own. It is possible that my experience in British courts was exceptional, but in not a single instance did I see a juror challenged or rejected in the necessary number of men were present, and they were sworn in without question. In the sheriff's deputy court in Scotland the presiding judge gave notice to the jury that he expected to adjourn the court at 2 o'clock and stated that if they could all remain until that hour he would at once dismiss the men who had been called for a second panel. The jurors conferred together and decided to remain till 1 o'clock, whereupon the judge notified the other men to appear at 12:30. The one jury impaneled for the morning session rendered six verdicts in cases involving prosecutions for thefts, fraud and burglary.

In the court of quarter sessions at Taunton, England, I saw a single jury in one day render eleven verdicts. I found that it was customary in the several sorts of court that I attended for the same jury to act in successive cases. In no instance did I see a jury leave their seats to make up their verdict. Usually the issue before them
