Wise Trade Reporter.

"You brainless cad!" exclaimed the man with the lofty dome of thought.

"Hail!" retorted the man with the pale, scholarly cast of countenance, regarding him with immeasurable scorn; "you colossal ignoramus, if I am 'brainless,' where do my sensory nerves register their impressions?"

"Exclusively in your spinal cord!" was the crushing rejoinder.

Worms

"Cascarets are certainly fine. I gave a friend one when the doctor was treating him for cancer of the stomach. The next morning he passed four pieces of a tape worm. He then got a box and in three days he passed a tape-worm 45 feet long. It was Mr. Mart Freck, of Millersburg, Dauphin Co., Pa. I am quite a worker for Cascarets. I use them myself and find them beneficial for most any disease caused by impure blood."

Just a Fit.

In the Ex-Libris Journal an amusing anecdote is given of a man anxious for a coat of arms, and fortunate in finding one. A second-hand bookseller bought at a country sale some three hundred volumes of handsome but unsalable old sermons, books on theology, and the like.

He placed a number of these outside his shop. Soon afterward a well-dressed man entered and said, "Have you any more of this kind of books with this shield on them?" pointing to the book plate attached, which bore the arms and name of a good old county family.

"That box, sir, is full of books from the same house," answered the bookseller.

"What do you ask for them?" inquired the man. "I'm going back to Chicago, and I want to take some books, and these will just fit me, name and all."

"Just you sort out all that have that shield and name, but don't you send any without that name-plate, for that's my name, too."

"I reckon this old fellow with the daggers and roosters might have been related to me some way."

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

Warning Notes Calling the Wicked to Repentance.

My children can not be safe save as I seek to make all children safe.

The only way to make others good is to make good in your own religion.

This world would soon be regenerated if the saints were fully consecrated.

He who begins the day with prayer will review it with praise.

No virtues are really possessed so long as we are conscious of them.

The imitation of the vicious is the poorest kind of affection for them.

Some men never feel grateful until they see others looking miserable.

No man is his own master until he sees the obligation to serve others.

Where His word is hid in the heart, His will is sure to follow in the life.

The man who sees no good in others is always well pleased with himself.

If God should answer all our prayers for peace, we would soon be petrified.

The only way to live the life of our Lord is to make Him Lord of our lives.

You are not sound in the faith according to the greatness of your sound.

He has no heart in his recreations who does not give a whole heart to his work.

Many a church looking around for an endowment needs to look up for endowment.

It's no use looking for ripe fruits of faith in the climate of a frosty disposition.

Many must march through the desert of doubt, but none need build houses there.

It is easy to miss a good you might have attained in contemplating an evil from which you have abstained.

The lives that have enriched the world have been those that have not counted their lives dear to themselves.

VERDI'S "MISERERE."

Men of genius are confessedly creatures of mood. Grief and adversity have often been a real help to them, rather than a hindrance. Poe, it is said, produced "The Raven" while sitting at the bedside of his sleeping but dying wife. Many similar instances might be cited, but an anecdote of Verdi, told by Carlo Ceccarelli, will suffice.

On one occasion, when Verdi was engaged on his well-known opera, "Il Trovatore," he stopped short at the passage of the "Miserere," being at a loss to combine notes of sufficient sadness and pathos to express the grief of the prisoner, Manrico.

Sitting at his piano in the deep stillness of the winter night, his imagination wandered back to the stormy days of his youth, endeavoring to extract from the past a plaint, a groan, like those which escaped from his breast when he saw himself forsaken by the world. All in vain!

One day, at Milan, he was unexpected called to the bedside of a dying friend, one of the few who had remained faithful to him in adversity and prosperity. Verdi, at the sight of his dying friend, felt a lump rise in his throat; he wanted to weep, but so intense was his grief that not a tear flowed to the relief of his anguish.

In an adjoining room stood a piano. Verdi, under one of those sudden impulses to which men of genius are sometimes subject, sat down at the instrument, and there and then improvised the sublime "Miserere" of the "Trovatore." The musician had given utterance to his grief.

Terrible Suffering

Eczema All Over Baby's Body.

"When my baby was four months old his face broke out with eczema, and at sixteen months of age, his face, hands and arms were in a dreadful state. The eczema spread all over his body. We had to put a mask or cloth over his face and tie up his hands and arms. Finally we gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a few months he was entirely cured, and today he is a fine healthy boy." MRS. INEZ LEWIS, Barre, Maine.
