As Sometimes Happens.

"You'd like to have me give this a notice, I presume," said the literary editor.

"Indeed, I would," answered the author of the book; "the best in the world."

But the conscientious literary editor, after reading it, classified it as one of the worst in the world.

A Matter of Necessity.

"Papa, why don't you close your store on Christmas?"

"Why, child, mine's a cigar store. People have got to have their smokes on Christmas, same as any other day."

JOHN L. BROWN & SON, Boston, Mass.

ITALIANS AND IRVING.

Memorial Presented by Ambassador in London to Drury Lane.

"The critics were very severe—and in my judgment justly severe—toward the 'Dante' of Sardou; but the fact remains that Irving, at the decline of his life, felt the attraction of the influence of Dante's great personality. * * * Irving's endeavor to impersonate on the English stage that powerful individuality turned his last thoughts toward Italy, and today it is those among her sons who are united to him by the brotherhood of art who offer this tribute to a man who has so highly contributed to show to mankind all the nobility and loftiness of his art."

Thus spoke the Italian ambassador in London, the Marquis of San Giuliano, at Drury Lane theater recently in unveiling the memorial to the late Sir Henry Irving presented by Signor Tommaso Salvini and the leading members of the dramatic profession in Italy, says the London Chronicle. The memorial shows the effigy of Irving in bronze, enriched by a wreath of laurels, with a background of gray marble.

The memorial has been placed on the wall at the head of the grand staircase. Around it yesterday were gathered many people well known in the dramatic world.

"You English artists," said the ambassador in the course of his speech, "have greatly assisted me in my study of the English language. Frequenting the theaters and seeing your acting I have learned more of the English character, life, feelings and mode of thought than in reading many learned books—which I have tried to forget as much as possible."

"The English artists have given eloquent proofs of their sympathy with Italy by the homage they have paid to Salvini, the magnificent benefit to the memory of Ristori, and the part they have always taken in our charitable works. When Italy was still divided, when its independence and unity were still a goal and an ideal, and to many people even a dream and a Utopia, Salvini and Ristori were among the forces which contributed to our national deliverance."

"Salvini in 1849 acted in Rome, and at the same time fought in defense of the cause of liberty. Once an alarm was raised during an interval. He went to the ramparts and after the repulse of the attack resumed the performance. Of course that evening the curtain, after the interval, did not rise with the scrupulous punctuality of the English stage."

Wanted a Pattern.

A ragged Irishman was charged in a London court a short time ago with tendering a counterfeit shilling in payment for a penny loaf.

Though forlorn in aspect, he was not destitute of that shrewdness which is characteristic of his countrymen. He stated that he was sent for the loaf by a person at a public house close by, who gave him the coin to pay for it, and that on discovering it was not good he bought the coin for three half-pence.

The Magistrate—How came you to buy the shilling after you had discovered it was a bad one?

The prisoner, with much apparent gravity, replied:

"Sure, then, your honor, I bought it so that if I should happen to have a bad one offered to me I might know it by looking at the one I had with me."

There was a burst of laughter, and the rogue was dismissed with a caution.

Shiftless Neighbors.

"I want the Globe," writes Mrs. Ly-sander John Appleton, "to suggest to its readers that they keep up the spirit of improvement around the house. I borrowed a stepladder of a neighbor recently, and it was broken. A lawn mower I borrowed of another was in such poor condition I couldn't use it, and the washbottle I borrowed from another neighbor leaked so badly it put out the fire. Don't these people know that such signs of neglect speak ill of them? I haven't made any jelly this summer because another neighbor's preserving kettle is cracked. Really, I shall have to move out of the neighborhood unless my neighbors improve."—Arlington Globe.

Notes of Women.

A French book on the evolution of the Englishwoman finds the woman's club—which in England is a real club, not a body which holds monthly meetings—an excellent institution for both married and single. For the married woman it is her "own place, where her husband cannot worry her," while for the unmarried it is a place where she need never be dull and where she can properly entertain friends of both sexes.

Airship Bird Cages.

The canaries are having the benefit of the present craze for all things in the airship line. The latest bird cages are made in the shape of airships, to be hung in the window. And so pretty are they the wonder is the airship fashion in cages didn't become popular among canaries long ago.

Amended Version.

Alexander had defeated and captured Porus.

"How do you wish to be treated?" he asked.

"Like a king!" answered Porus, with dignity.

"Good!" exclaimed his conqueror. "I was thinking of using you as a plaster."

For already he was beginning to be stuck on him, as it were.

Fortunes of War.

"But, Senator," asked the reporter, "who is to pay the cost of placing the country on a complete war footing and keeping it there?"

"My dear boy," said Senator Lotumun, "it's a tossup between our posterity and the posterity of some European or Asiatic power, and really doesn't interest us. Try one of these imported perfectos."

Lawlessness.

"People are getting so they do as they please," said Mr. Sirius Barker, gloomily.

"But see how we are progressing!"

"Yes. Look at these aeroplanes. We aren't satisfied with snapping our fingers at the revised statutes and police regulations. We haven't even any respect for the law of gravitation."—Washington Star.
