

A Merry Dance

Dame fashion leads us a merry dance following her whims and fancies. The Fall and Winter fashions of Men's suits reflect the perfection of simplicity. Good dressers no longer wear freak clothes. The fad fashion days are over for awhile. In looking over the fashion plates displayed in our new fall lines, you'll notice the absence of cuffs, fancy flaps and other freak ideas, but at the same time you will see that we have many entirely new ideas for young men, extreme dressers without showing freak fashions. On our cuff plate there are several designs which can be put on any of the regular fashions, so that the younger fellows who want to be a bit different can be satisfied.

If Beau Brummel Could Come Back

If that old fashioned dandy should walk into a well dressed circle today, folks would think that he was advertising a patent medicine or a circus. They would laugh at him and his fussy clothes of real lace, satin and velvet. Every day mens' fashions become more simple. Simplicity in tailoring requires the best workmanship. Its easy enough to disguise poor materials under a lot of fancy flaps, straps and unnecessary buttons, but when it comes to smooth shoulder seams, close neck, hugging collars, and puckerless lapels, then you have careful tailoring.

Watch our windows. The new fall goods will soon arrive, and a series of displays will be put in that will interest you.

Anatomical Ironies.

Though a roll of college parchment is a thing to be desired and a graduate is happy over the knowledge he's acquired, yet the gulf is earning power. He observes with some alarm. "Twixt the brain he brought from college and a baseball expert's arm."

—New York Telegram.

Mamma Had Mentioned It.

"There was one man whose life was perfect," said the Sunday school teacher. "What one of you can tell me who he was?" Little Mary Jane's hand went up, and the teacher nodded to her. "He was mamma's first husband," she said.—Everybody's.

Unsubstantial Display.

The comet with its glories spread is very much more tall than head, and so it goes parading by. The peacock of the starry sky."

—Washington Star.

Reverses.

"There was certainly a contrary fate which resulted in my wife's giving up housekeeping." "What was it?" "First she broke down, and then she broke up."—Baltimore American.

Poem of Death.

Wives and children all remind us we must work and make a pile and, departing, leave behind us means for them to live in style.

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

To Be Kept in Mind. Herod—I know that I'm worthy of you, darling.

Fair One—Remember that, Herod, and my married life is sure to be happy.—Jewish Ledger.

No Laughing Matter.

The farmer to the grocer sells, the grocer to the city folk. The latter know the price of things has gone too high to be a joke.

A Woman of Mystery Visits Heppner

Madame Delmar, the Celebrated Palmist and Astrologer is in Heppner for a Few Days.

What is Your Vocation in Life? Have you prospered in the past? What are your prospects of the future? Every one is especially adapted to some trade or profession, which may be justly termed their true vocation, and yet one half of you are struggling against some unknown fate for fame and fortune which you do not and cannot obtain until you find your true vocation. A call on Madame Delmar will settle that all-important question—your conviction will be sure and success will follow. Your life revealed by the hand. What she tells you comes true. She gives advice on all affairs of life. If you are in trouble or in doubt concerning some important matters, call and consult her at once. It will cost you nothing unless you are perfectly satisfied with what she tells you. Advice on business, love or money matters—tells you just what you want to know, and never asks questions. Prices reasonable and within reach of all. Readings daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Office: Star Lodging House, Room 80, up stairs.
