Ribbon Cookies.
Mix five, after your favorite recipe a batch of white cookies flavored with lemon. In another dish mix a batch of chocolate cookies, flavoring with vanilla. Roll out chocolate cookies quite thin, then roll out white ones, same as chocolate. Place one on top of the other and roll as jelly roll.
Take a sharp knife and cut slices from the roll, turn them over and lay them in baking pan. When cooked, they are a delight to the eye as well as the palate.

Make molasses cookies, cutting them in strips with sharp knife, about the length and width of lady fingers.
When baked and while warm spread with good jelly and press two together, making a dainty cookie sandwich.

The Red Shawl.
There lives in Atchison a woman who has been happily married 40 years and who has raised five children. Recently she was out walking when she caught sight of a peculiarly bright red shawl. The men will sniff at what happened next: The woman felt a twinge at her heart; the shawl had reminded her of a girl who had stolen her first lover. The girl always wore red of that shade. Then the old woman went home, took out her false teeth that she might not swallow them in her grief, and gave herself up to sad memories. We will bet no woman will sniff. An incident like this appeals to the women.—Atchison Globe.

Peaches in Turkish Mode.
Peaches cooked in Turkish fashion are served with boiled rice. Peel the peaches by plunging them in boiling water, then remove the stone through slit in one side, without injuring the shape of the peach. Fill hollows with seeded raisins and arrange in baking dish; sprinkle liberally with sugar and set in hot oven 20 minutes. Have ready a dish lined with boiled rice.
Spread over it peaches, and serve with dressing made of coconut milk thickened with cornstarch and sweetened with granulated sugar.

The Artless Query.

THE PARIS APACHES.

How They Deal With Their Unlucky Victims.

The floods in Paris afforded golden opportunities to the thieves and bootleggers—the dreaded "Apaches"—of the French capital. A Paris correspondent sends an interesting account of these reckless men and their methods and weapons.

"The desperate criminals who make a specialty of night attacks are a bloodthirsty, cowardly set of ruffians, and as they are always armed to the teeth and hold human life cheap, a solitary citizen going home late, or a policeman on a lonely beat has very little chance against them.

"When they have once made up their minds to rob a passerby—which one does not matter much—it is more than likely they will decide to begin operations at once. That means that three Apaches will take up a position on the pavement and pretend to be engaged in innocent gossip. The street is deserted. A solitary pedestrian comes into sight. In a moment he is measured up by the three scoundrels on the lookout for their prey. There is not a policeman in sight. The moment is favorable.

"He has a gold chain," says one.

"He'll do," says the chief of the criminal trio. "Get ready."

"They continue to converse until the stranger reaches them. Involuntarily he glances at them as he passes. That is sufficient.

"What do you mean by looking at us like that?" asks the chief in an insolent tone. Then, turning to his companions, he remarks, "Hasn't he got an ugly mug?"

"The pedestrian, however little he may be inclined to quarrel with the evil-looking ruffians who have accosted him, is unlikely to take their insults in silence. But at his first word of protest one of the group advances on him with a menacing air.

"What!" he exclaims, "I'll show you who you've got to deal with."

"The stranger stands on his guard, but immediately another member of the trio bounds upon him from behind, seizes him around the neck with his arm and lifts him off the ground. His cries for help are stifled in his throat, and if he succeeds in making a sound the arm which presses against his throat is tightened and he loses consciousness.

"While this is going on another of the accomplices goes through the victim's pockets, while the third keeps watch for the police. Then, when everything worth taking has been appropriated, the wretch who has almost strangled the victim releases his arm, gives him a violent push and sends him headlong to the pavement where he will lie senseless for half an hour at least.

"But things do not always pass so easily. Sometimes the victim shows more resistance than was expected, and then the Apaches have to modify their plans. He must either be stunned with a blow from a mutton-bone or given a stab with a knife or dagger.
The mutton-bone used by the Paris Apache is a terrible weapon. In appearance it resembles a small hatchet, without a handle, is about six inches long, and comes from the shoulder of the sheep. This and the knife and the knuckle-iron are the favorite weapons of the Paris hooligan. They are effective and noiseless, whereas the use of the revolver is likely to attract the police.

"Among the more recent methods invented by the Paris Apache for rendering the passing citizen incapable of resistance is the lasso. At the favorable moment a cord from 15 to 20 feet in length and ending in a running knot is thrown by an expert hand. As it falls over the victim's head it is jerked tight, and, half strangled, he is thrown to the ground. The rest is easy."

Looking Up Father.

"May I see my father's record?" asked the new student. "He was in
'he class of 1877."

"Certainly, my boy. What for?"
"He told me when I left home not to disgrace him, and I wish to see just how far I can go."—Buffalo Express.

Our idea of a hopelessly silly man is one who can describe a woman's hat.

CAP and BELLS

DRUGGIST IS GOOD-NATURED

Example of How Dispenser of Pills is Imposed Upon by Many Thoughtless Persons.

He came to town and wandered into the big drug emporium without removing the mud from his boots.
"Do you give four stamped envelopes for nine cents, mister?"
"We generally charge ten, but I guess you can have them."
"Got any sample cough drops?"
"Here are a few."
"Any old cigar boxes you don't want?"
"Here's a couple."
"All the 1910 almanacs gone?"
"Long ago."
"But other drug stores keep a few on hand."
"We don't."
"That's funny. Let me see some of your fancy sweet soap."
"Want to buy a box?"
"Nope, want to study the French names. Some of those city college gals are coming down on the farm to board and I want to spring a few French words on them, that's all."

Early Habit.

Mrs. Judson—Have you ever noticed the polite consideration Mr. Blysterre shows other people? At the dinner table, for instance, he never puts a morsel into his own mouth till every one else has been helped and is eating.

Mr. Judson—Oh, what you term his consideration is only an illustration of a force of habit. His wife used to do his cooking for him and he learned at that time it was always wise to let some one else test the food before tackling it himself."

Why He Was Thankful.

Wiegler—You seem to have a wonderful friendship for Turner.
Gausley—I ought to have; he saved my life once.

Wiegler—How did it happen?
Gausley—He jumped into the river after me.

Wiegler—How came you to be in the river?
Gausley—Turner had rocked the boat.

According to Measure.

"Yes," said the man with the auburn tie, as he lit the stump of a cigar.
"I have a bushel and a half of children. My name is Peck, and I have six."

"That's pretty good," rejoined the man behind the corn-cob pipe, "but I've got a mile of them. My name is Furlong, and I'm the father of eight."

Invisible.

First Suburbanite—How's your garden, old man?
Second Suburbanite—It's simply out of sight.

First Suburbanite—That's good.
Second Suburbanite—It's anything but good. The grass and weeds are a foot high all over it.

Not Awkward.

Canfield—Bunyan can't take a step without treading on some one's corn.
Naylor—He must be exceedingly awkward.

Canfield—Oh, no, no, he isn't; he's merely unfortunate. The corn he treads on is on the bottom of his own foot.

A Wonderful Breed.

Seymour—I hear you have evolved a wonderful breed of laying hens?
Ashley—You bet I have! They beat anything I've ever seen. They don't need roosts.

Seymour—Don't need roosts?
Ashley—No, sir; they're laying night and day.

Unfashionable Event.

"Among other events, we shall have a sack race for ladies. Professionals barred."
"What do you mean by professionals?"
"Those who have been wearing tube gowns."—Answers.

Counter Attraction.

"I was at Atlantic City when Glen Curtis made his flights there."
"What did you think of him?"
"Didn't see him."
"Didn't see him?"
"Nope, couldn't see him for the nothing suits."

The Truth of It.

"They say that women always read the last chapter of a novel first." "It isn't so. I always read the first chapter first."

"And then?"
"Then I read the last chapter."
