Work is progressing nicely on the excavating for the new building to be erected by Dr. Conder on the Wells lot.

The Sunday school of the Episcopal church gave a very pleasant entertainment and Christmas treat last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, of Wasco, came up Tuesday evening and are visiting at the home of their son, J. R. Johnson, on Heppner flat.

Mrs. Eleanor Redfield, of Pendleton, spent Christmas with her mother, Mrs. Cameron, and family, of this city, returning to her home Monday.

25c aluminum drinking cups will be sold Saturday January 7th to the school children only, by Gilliam & Bisbee at 10c each.

Christmas was appropriately observed for the Sunday schools at the M. E. church South, Baptist and Christian churches on Saturday evening.

Misses Josephine and Mabel Cameron went to Pendleton, Monday, to spend holiday week with their sisters, Mrs. Redfield and Mrs. R. W. Fletcher.

Dr. S. W. McClure, of Pendleton, northwest chief of the federal bureau of animal inspection, was an incoming passenger last evening and registered at the Palace.

J. H. Deardorff, of Alpine, is a new addition to the Gazette's booster force. Joe has faith in his end of the county and is making a success of "dry farming." We acknowledge a pleasant call from him on Saturday.

It speaks well for our local dealers when people from outside towns come to Heppner to buy articles of wearing apparel. This happens frequently. The Cash Shoe Store is happy in such experiences. See their new ad in this issue.

Ye Olde Towne Quartette, the third number of the lyceum course, appeared before a crowded house at the Christian church on Monday evening. It was a high class entertainment, and the young men composing the quartette are each of them splendid singers. This number was up to the standard of what has gone before. So far, every one of the attractions have been high class, and there will be still better things for the balance of the course.

The Morrow Warehouse and Milling Co. is loading out a shipment of 600 barrels of flour this week that goes direct to Hong Kong, China. These people are working up quite an export trade and their output is being called for by outside parties. The mill is certainly turning out an excellent quality of flour at this time and are amply able to supply all local as well as outside demands. Friends boost for the home producer, patronize the home miller, and incidentally, don't overlook the home printer.

Otis Hake and Miss Delia Robertson, young people of the lower Sand Hollow country, were married in Pendleton on the 16th inst. They conceived the idea that the match was opposed by the parents of the young lady, so they "loped" off to our neighboring county seat, procured a license and were married. They have returned to the home of H. C. Robertson, have been forgiven, and will take up their permanent residence on Mr. Hake's homestead.

Geo. Goff, brother of Frank Goff of this city, who has been herding sheep for a party in Grant county, was reported missing from his sheep camp this last week and for four or five days his whereabouts was unknown. He has turned up, however, at the home of Dillard French, on Butter creek, and from what can be learned it appears that he was sick and wandered away from his sheep. He will be alright in a few days, with proper attention.

Fred Tash and family arrived from Buhl, Idaho, Monday, and will remain in Heppner some six weeks or two months. Mrs. Tash has been in ill health for some time and is now in the Heppner Sanatorium here for operation and treatment, and Mr. Tash's return to his Idaho home will be governed by his wife's restoration to health. Fred is well pleased with the Buhl country and says it undoubtedly has a bright future before it.

S. S. Mason, an uncle of Mrs. Eugene Campbell, was visiting his relatives in Heppner a few days this week. He has resided in the North Yakima country for a number of years past, but is on the way to Southern California, and will make his future home at Riverside. Mr. Mason is an old newspaperman and followed this line of business for some years in the state of Kansas.

In the drawing of silverware at Gilliam & Bisbee's this week, Fred Warnock got the beautiful silver coffee set, worth $22.50, for a 35c ticket; Mrs. Addie Patterson secured the handsome punch bowl for a 5c ticket; Hank Vance drew the orange bowl for a $1 ticket, and J.
